

HONOR MEN WHO ANSWER DRAFT

Governor Asks Cities and Counties to Hold Great Public Demonstrations

Governor Brumbaugh has issued the following proclamation, calling upon the State to honor the men of the First National Army upon their departure.

Whereas, The President of the United States, through the Marshal General, has advised me the final and most significant of the stages in the execution of the selective service law is upon us, namely, the service of assembling into mobilization camps of the first contingent of selective men; and

Whereas, This action will affect more than 200,000 men who will, at the call of their country, leave home and occupation and loved ones during the first week of September to enter upon the essential duty of training for service in the nation's defense and honor.

Now, therefore, I, Martin Grove Brumbaugh, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby request—it is unnecessary to direct—all committees in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to proceed at once with plans for a great patriotic demonstration upon the occasion of the departure of these sons of the Republic, who in going leave the impress of honor and loyalty upon their home places.

In every way that your resources will permit you will be glad to give fitting expression of your loyalty and your respect and appreciation of those selected men. The Adjutant General will, in due time, advise you of the day of departure for the men of your community. It will not be the same day for all, but in this glory week let not one hour be lost in filling our valleys and our hilltops with demonstrations of great pride that our boys—sons of Pennsylvania—men of our hearts and hopes are marching out and on to a destiny immortal.

Harrisburg will not have a celebration for the reason that no men go from here on the first call.
