WEST END A. A. HAS CLOSE CALL

Rosewood A. C. Rallies in Ninth; Landis Hit Hard

West End A. A. nosed out a victory Saturday, defeating Rosewood A. C.; score, 6 to 5. The Allison Hill stars had a nine-inning raily and came nearly tieing up the score.

Landis was knocked out of the box. Waltz was more effective. The game was marred by attempts at rowdyism.

rowdyism. G. Killinger, of the Rosewood team, was accused of trying to spike Smith, the West End first baseman, in a putout play. Smith was knocked down and given one hard punch. He made the play, shutting off a run and preventing the game from being tied up. An officer prevented further trouble and the game was finished. The score:

The tenacity of the red man has been the subject of song and story for a good many drifting years.

From Uncas on to Geronimo the Indian has always been featured as a tireless cuss, and the dope thereof was undoubtedly true.

In this respect Charles Albert Bender, the Chippewa Chief, is a notable illustration for later copy.

The eminent Chief is not so old as years go along the calendaric highway.

He was born thirty-four years ago last May. But he was popping that fast one through for Connie Eack back in 1903, a matter of fourteen seasons back. And now, after having been counted out of the lists, relegated to the records of the Main Corral, he is back again, with the old repertoire intact, romping along at his fastest speed.

BENDER A WONDER

Tay's victory over Niles was not achieved without a bitter court battle, the Bostonian going down to defeated Miss Molla Bjurstedt, of Norway, the national champion, in the final round of the women's single, 4-6, 10-8, 6-2.

Niles made his best showing in the first two sets, the first of which he won after deuce had been called, and the second, which he lost, after even a longer and more gruelling struggle. From that point

The Chief is undoubtedly one of the game's wonders. He was supposed to have passed the crest and started down hill back in 1914, when the Braves drove him in rout from the world series field.

The year after he went over to the Feds, where he met with continued disaster. The old stuff looked to be gone forever. Last season he was recalled to the major circuit, but was too far below his old form to be of

The Phillies let him go, but finally recalled him, mainly to help tutor young pitchers.

Few expected to see his name again among the winners. His best day had been too far back.

But the call of the wild was too strong and the lure of the warpath was too keen to be resisted. By hard work he got back into pitching condition, and then, with the blanket lifted, he reported for duty. The answer is twenty-seven runless innings—three shut-outs in a row—and his last start this last week was a one-hit game.

If this isn't coming back with bells on and flags flying the phrase has

BENDER'S WAY

Bender has always ranked, and always will rank, with the smartest pitchers of the game. He had something more than a fast ball with a zip to it and a baffling curve.

He had in addition a keen brain that overlooked no details and a coolness and a craft never surpassed.

Bender was cooler and calmer and more stoical upon a big occasion than any pitcher we have ever seen.

than any pitcher we have ever seen.

In more than one close world series game we have seen him working with as much carelessness, apparently, as if it were an exhibition affair where the score whs 14 to 1 in his favor.

Nothing bothered him or upset him, He had no goat to be obtained. While his repartee was never vicious or profane, he had the knack of collecting various goats from enemy tribes, and he collected these in flocks.

AN INSTITUTION

The Chief has been an institution for the better part of a dozen years. He was supposed to be at his height twelve years ago, when he shut out the Gaints with four hits in the only world series victory Mack's team collected.

collected.

But he was back again with two more victories in 1911, despite the fact that Matty beat him 2 to 1 in the first encounter.

Bender has been one of the best all-around athletes in baseball. In addition to being a great pitcher, he could hit when the mood was on him and a blow was needed.

He ranks well up among the leading trap shooters of the country, plays a first class game of golf and is a billiard player of no light callber.

THE LAWN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The spirit of lawn tennis in these warring days has reached heights low that of no other sport. the spirit of lawn tennis in these warring days has reached neights below that of no other sport.

with no championship at stake, the Lawn Tennis Association not only kep the game going, but added valuable contributions to war funds.

Beyond this the association and leading players proved that even with a big list called to the colors, it was possible to keep the game going on ahead, a contribution that is bound to have a fine effect.

Just as the battle isn't to the strong, so the ball game isn't to the base hit. The Tigers and Reds continue to lead their respective leagues at bat, but the percentage column is made up of victories, and not of runs and hits. The lusty swat still has its place in the records, but there are other minor details.
