from a source without question is that plans are on foot to transfer the Vashington franchise here. Rumors that such a movement was gaining momentum midway of this season, when the Washington fans began looking on Clarke Griffith's consistently losing team with cold disdain, caused local fans to stick an ear to the ground. But Ban Johnson, always the nemesis of major ball is expected regain for the Old When he did away went hope once when he did away went hope once again. Czar Ban told the world that there was absolutely no chance of this city supplanting the Nation's Capital in his circuit.

Times Are Changing
However, times are changing. From an unexpected and semi-official source information comes that Ban's heart has begun to soften. He, it is now understood, is thoroughly in accord with Clarke Griffith's plan to close up the show in Washington and come here, where Sunday baseball is expected t regain for the Old Fòx and those who have sunk their kale in the Washington Club the enormous losses sustained the last couple of years.

Jack Dunn it is understood is going to New York to endeavor, with his wonderful ability to develop young stars to lift the Yankees out of the mire. With a winning team to the American League's foundation would be added a couple more layers of concrete. Will Bill Donovan.

Having come from such a reliable source, and the facts are so plausible and interesting, this dope is given added significance by information to the effect that the plan to shift the Washington franchise is really the outcome of the suit of the Baltimore Feds against Organized Baseball. It is said, and again reliably so, that this was agreed to when the famous suit was so suddenly withdrawn from the United States District Court at Philadelphia. PRACTICE NEXT WEEK
The surface of the suit of the shelf the Washington franchise is really the outcome of the suit of the Baltimore Feds against Organized Baseball. It is said, and again reliably so, that this was agreed to when the famous suit was so suddenly withdrawn from the United States District Court at Philadelphia. The local Feds, it is believed, will be given the controlling stock in the club, with Clark Griffith retaining the big block he already holds. The American League, it is said has been brought around to the side of Baltimore by the outpouring of fans at the repent Sunday games.

Dunn Gets Ready

Dunn is right now, according to the best information, cleaning house preparatory to leaving Baltimore. His players, no matter who they may be are on the market. Barber, Fewster, Lamar, Thermahlen, Shannon and McAvoy already have been sold. Merito Acosta, who belonged to Washington, will be recalled at the end of the season. There are several others on the club who may go in a day or so.

CHANT OF THE SECOND DIVISION BUG
Come on, you grand old Winter League;
Raus mit this fagging summer season,
These clammy days of deep fatigue,
Enough to sap a fellow's reason.
Beyond the borders of the rose,
Oh, bring again the Old Stove's inning,
When valiantly across the snows
Our gallant ball club starts to winning.

Come on, oh gallant Winter Time,
When 'Mogul Smith predicts a pennant,"
When from the cellar depths we climb,
And first place finds us there a tenant;
A tenant on the topmost hill,
Where every club becomes a hummer Through March and April, on until We hit the chutes again next summer.

Three years ago this August Norris Williams found himself facing Anthony Wilding in the last of the Davis Cup series—the last, at least, until peace comes back.

War had just been declared, and Wilding knew that it was only a matter of days until he started for the front.

With the vastness of the war's first impetus there may have come tower town the them the thought that he, too, might some day be called upon to surrender the racquet for the gun. Or perhaps it never occurred to him that his country would be called in.

Three years have brought about more than a trifle in the way of change. Wilding has passed on to the Far Country, and Williams has played in his last tennis tournament until the war is over.

In a recent four-day meet she hung up a world's record of 62 feet in plunging for distance; swam 50 the world.

McLOUGHLIN'S LAST STAND

It will take more than wars and battles to remove memories of his play that August week against Brooks and Wilding, the Nonparells from around the world.

That 1914 tournament recalls McLoughlin's brilliant finish at the top. It will take more than wars and battles to remove memories of his play that August week against Brooks and Wilding, the Nonparells from around the world. That last stand undoubtedly contributed in part to the Californian' decline. In overcoming two such marvels in one week, part of the olvitality was burned away—part of the ancient dash was removed—antrom that point he had but one way to go—and that was back.

L. K. G.—There have been twelve world series since the new arrangement dating from 1905. Of these twelve only one was an intersectional affair—that between the Cubs and Athletics in 1910. The others have been West against West or East against East. The West has had nine world series entries and the East has known fifteen. If the White Sox win this season the next W. S. will be the first intersectional clash in seven years—and the second on record.

A PICK OUT OF RANGE.

Here is one of the simple, easy queries that come in a day's mail: "Who is the best tennis player America has ever produced—Larned, McLoughlin or Williams?"

You can see, off hand, how easy it is to outline an answer here.
The Dohertys always said that Malcolm Whitman was the best man they had ever faced.

Bill Larned won the championship seven times, smashing all records. McLoughlin within one week beat Norman Brookes and Anthony Wilding, the greatest single achievement in American lawn tennis history.

Any number of tennis players have told us that William Johnston knew a greater variety of strokes than any other entry from this side of the water.

water.

And Norris Williams has beaten both McLoughlin and Johnston in championship finals.

Make your own pick.

"Matty has his Reds hustling." We have seen this line more than once here lately—and it is the answer to managerial success. It is the answer to why Matty has lifted a club from last place in 1916 to the first division in 1917.

You hear quite a trifle about strategy, tactics and the like. These things count. But the essential ingredient for managerial success is ability the party of the part

You hear quite a trille about strategy, tactics and the like. These things count. But the essential ingredient for managerial success is ability to keep a ball club hustling.

For this requires not only the liking, but the respect of the players. It means the arousing of ambition and the development of team morale. Which is 82 per cent. of managerial fitness. And Matty has pretty well proved that he has the ingredient required.

Any number of changes occur from year to year in all-American selections, but Cobb, Speaker, Collins and Alexander stay fixed. The four have remained immovable for the last six years. And it's the long trail that

West End A. A. to Play Three

CHAMPIONSHIP

Games With Reading, Hill Leaders

Plans for a special city championship series between West End A. A.
and the Reading Railway team, champions of the Allison Hill League, will be completed to-night. Both teams have made new records this season in victories, and the prospective series has already aroused considerable interest among local fans.
It is understood that three games will be arranged. One will be played on West End field, Fourth and Seneca street, and one on the League grounds at Seventeenth and Chestnut streets, Ir the event of a third game being necessary, it will be played on neutral grounds.

West End Wants Kline

West End Wants Kline
There is one particular stipulation Manager Charles J. Householder of the West End will make. Ben Kline, who is a member of the West End team, has been catching for Reading, and the upper end folks will insist that he play at home.

If an agreement is reached the first game will be played next Saturday, the second on Monday, Labor Day, and the third on Saturday, September 8.
Manager Householder wants it understood that this series will not interfere with the present elimination schedule of the West End. One or more games may be extended to later in September, but the entire schedule will be played out.

Rumors from New York State League circuit are that President J. H. Farrell may pass out as leader with the reorganization of the league next season. That there has been things going on not according to Hoyle is the general belief. Rules have gone to smash and the game is being run to suit conveniences.

Now comes the talk that Baltimore is to be given a major league berth. What will come out of the Syracuse deal if this plot is pulled through? However, why worry now? There may be no baseball next year, and two years hence conditions may require other plans.
