WILSON IN BEHALF OF ALLIES REJECTS POPE'S PEACE PROPOSAL AS BLOW TO GERMAN AUTOCRACY

War Must Go on Until Democracy Has Made Safe Principles of Peace, Says President Wilson

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Wilson has rejected the peace proposals of Pope Benedict. His letter is a direct statement that the war must go on until the purposes for which civilization is now fighting have been accomplished. Any other course would be merely to invite a repetition of the present horror when the Teutonic powers have had a chance to recuperate.

Impossible Now. The President shows that it would be impossible to accept guarantees from the present German government, whose violations of law, of treaties and every principle of humanity have proved that its word cannot be taken.

Can't Take Kaiser's Word. "We cannot take the word of the present German government for anything that is to endure," the President says, and upon this circumstance all the arguments and the pleas presented by the Pope go to pieces, because, under the plan he suggested, the guarantees of law, of treaties and every principle of humanity are all the other people of the world could ask for.

There is in the note a strong appeal to the German people to themselves supply the guarantees that the world can accept, and which the President does not, and could not, make any suggestions, it is quite patent that the necessary guarantee which the German people could furnish would be based upon a complete reorganization of the German government and the overthrow of autocracy.

Reply to the Pope. President Wilson's message to the Pope in reply to the peace proposals from Rome signed by Secretary Lansing follows:

To His Holiness, Pope Benedict XV, Pope: In acknowledgement of the communication of Your Holiness to the President of the United States, dated August 1, 1917, the President of the United States requests me to transmit the following reply:

Every heart that has not been blinded and hardened by this terrible war must be touched by the moving appeal of His Holiness the Pope, must feel the dignity and force of the humane and generous motives which prompted it, and must fervently wish that we might take the path of peace he so persuasively points out.

His Holiness in substance proposes that we return to the status quo ante bellum, that there be a general condonation, disarmament, and a concert of intentions based upon an acceptance of the principle of arbitration, and that the territorial claims of France and Italy, the perplexing problems of the Balkan States, and the restitution of Poland be left to such conciliatory adjustments as may be possible in the new temper of such a peace, due regard being paid to the aspirations of the peoples whose political interests and affiliations will be involved.

Strong Must Not Benefit. Responsible statesmen must remember that the American people saw before them, that no peace can rest securely upon political or economic restrictions meant to benefit some and cripple others, or to embarrass, upon vindictive action of any sort, or any kind of revenge or deliberate injury.

Door Not Shut. It had been predicted that the President would not close the door to peace, and that the way would still be open for further suggestions and negotiations. These predictions all shown to have been based on a false premise.

There is only one road to peace, and that is through a victory of democratic principles and the establishment of democratic standards of right and liberty. If this victory can be achieved through the awakening of the German people to the horrors of their present rulers, they will themselves effect in the German state the transformation that is necessary to the safety of the world, such a victory would put an end to the war peacefully.

of treaty or the long-established practices and long-cherished principles of international action and honor; which chose its own time and its own manner, and which, once it had been set on foot, it pursued with a tenacity and a determination that were not to be broken by any barrier either of law or of mercy.

The test, therefore, of every plan of peace is this: Is it based upon the faith of the peoples involved or merely upon the word of an ambitious and intriguing government, on the one hand, and such guaranty of free peoples, on the other? This is a test which goes to the root of the matter; and it is the test which must be applied.

The purposes of the United States in this war are known to the world—to every people to whom the truth has been permitted to come. The test does not need to be stated again. We seek no material advantage of any kind. We have no desire to acquire territory, to establish a new empire, to establish economic leagues, we deem it our duty to establish a new order of things, a new basis for a peace of any kind, least of all, an enduring peace.

We cannot take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guarantee of anything that is to endure, unless explicitly supported by such constructive evidence as will be found in the faith of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world be justified in adopting.

to a participation upon fair terms in the economic opportunities of the world—the German people of course included, if they will accept equality and not seek domination.

High Water of the War Reached by President's Note, Which Seals Fate of German Junkerdom

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Wilson's rejection of the Pope's peace proposals is regarded here as the high water mark of the war. Furthermore, it is indicative of the virtual selection of the president by the allies as their spokesman before the world.

The note comes as a climax to the remarkable series of state documents in which President Wilson has argued the cause of the world democracy against autocracy in the high court of public opinion, and accepted all the allied countries as expressing their ideals.

There appears to be no doubt that the United States was selected to make answer before the world, in advance of all the others. Considering the extraordinary character of the President's communication, its immense importance in definitely terminating for the present at least all efforts to reach a modicum of peace, and the assured fact that it represents the views of all of the entente allied powers joined with America in the war against Germany, the time consumed in the preparation of the reply was remarkably short.

Cold Determination. The feature that is certain to fix public attention is the cold determination not even to permit the subject of peace negotiations to be broached so long as the evil and dominating forces of autocracy and militarism control the central powers. It is not even necessary to read between the lines of the President's response to see clearly apparent the inflexible purpose.
