NEW CONTRALTO FOR PINE STREET CHOIR

MRS. JAMES G. SANDERS

Mrs. James G. Sanders, who has accepted the position of contralto soloist in the quartet of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church will be heard in her new position for the first time to-morrow.

Mrs. Sanders is a recent addition to Harrisburg's musical colony, coming to this city a few months ago, when her husband, Professor J. G. Sanders assumed the duties of State Zoologist of Pennsylvania.

Although a native of Southern Maryland, Mrs. Sanders spent most of her life in Washington, D. C., but comes here from Madison, Wis., in which city, Mr. and Mrs. Sanders and their little daughter Elma have lived for the past seven years.

Mrs. Sanders comes from a musical family and received her first instruction in her art at the age of five, from her mother, a well-schooled and gifted pianist.

Vocal work was started at the age of seventeen under the late Dr. John W. Bischoff, composer and teacher, and was continued under such able and well known musicians as the late W. Edward Heimendahl, one time director of Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore; Otto Tromy Simon, writer and teacher of the same school, now at Washington; Oscar Garrelsen, of New York; and H. Clough Leichter, musical editor, composer and teacher.

Mrs. Sanders served five years also as contralto soloist in the First Congregational Church of that city, this church having a solo quartet and chorus of over one hundred voices.

While in the middle west, Mrs. Sanders did much oratorio and concert work and had a full season booked for the past concert year, had she remained in that sections of the country.

Mrs. Sanders is enthusiastic over community singing and hopes that Harrisburg will soon have its big chorus. She will associate in the choir of Pine Street church directed by Frank A. McCarrell, organist, with Mrs. Roy G. Cox, soprano; M. D. Hollenback, tenor; and George Sutton, bass.

RIFLE CLUBS TO HOLD BIG SHOOT Labor Day Event at Conewago Range; Champion Younger Brothers of Fighters to Respond

Everything is in readiness for the big match between the Harrisburg Rifle Club and the Keystone Rifle Club, scheduled for Labor Day. Each team is in fine form and some excellent work with the Springfield may be expected.

The match will be shot over the Conewago range instead of the Harrisburg Rifle Club range at Oysters Dam, as previously announced. Final selection of the teams will be made this afternoon.

Two teams will be honored by the presence of William H. Richards, the long range champion and 1916 winner of the Leech cup, at the national matches last October, at Jacksonville, Florida. What a thrill, which consisted of 21 shots over the 1,000-yard course, Mr. Richards made the marvelous score of 194 from 165 possible.

Mr. Richards expects to remain in the city over Labor Day and will accompany the teams to Conewago. It is possible, also, that he may be persuaded to give a short exhibition shoot and a talk to the boys on the science of the game.

Visitors desiring to accompany the teams to Conewago on Monday may take the train to Conewago at the rate. Certain afternoon trains will be run to Conewago. Those who have members to return home will have the trophies to be awarded to the winners at an exhibition at C. C. Cahen's sporting goods store, 131 Market street, by whom they were donated.

ARMY IN NEED OF SKILLED MEN

Trades Thrown Open For Those Handy With Tools

During the next few days, men of practically every trade may enlist for their particular branch of work in the Regular Army. This was the information received this morning by First Lieutenant R. W. Leshar at the Army recruiting headquarters in this city.

It is not likely that this offer will be held out for a long period of time, for the probabilities are that many of the branches will be closed within the coming week.

It is a matter of great regret to the men that several persons failed to pass successfully the test given for the detection of mental and nervous disorders. As a result of this examination, vacancies will have to be filled in every company represented on the island.

Special services will be held at the island to-morrow evening, by the choir of Chaplain Bassler. Beginning at 8 o'clock the Eighth Regiment Band will give a sacred concert. Following that a general belief prevails among local residents that unless there is some relief, express companies will be obliged to place an embargo on perishable shipments.

Officials of the express companies say they are doing everything possible to prevent congestions. Help is scarce and delays in handling the shipments follow. When the express company is unable to deliver perishable goods on time, it is a loss to the company. First attention is always given to perishable goods, but it frequently happens that delays occur on other divisions, and unless there is some relief, it is said there is likely to be a scarcity of sea food in Harrisburg.

WILL ENROLL BOYS IN RESERVE

The big drive for recruits in the Boys Working Reserve starts next Wednesday, according to Dr. Fager, who is chairman of the committee.

It is expected that there will be a rush of boys who have brothers or relatives in the United States Army and the enthusiasm of these boys will no doubt bring other young men to the enlisting offices on the first day of the drive.

The Reserve is open to any boy between the ages of 16 and 21 and the boys who are attending school will not be required to leave their duties. A boy who is not in school is eligible to join this army of workers. Dr. Fager said this morning he is very anxious to enroll scores of young men who are not engaged in school work. This is a chance for the young generation to show their patriotism as well as their older brothers.

Three Enlistment Places At the committee meeting last night it was decided to have three places of enlistment, the Central High school, the Technical High school and at the Steelton High school. The committee will have arrived and every thing is in readiness for the recruits next Wednesday.

Boys who are now working at jobs that help the government are entitled to the bronze badge provided that they have been in this work for three weeks.

Mr. Frazier, who is at the head of this movement in Pennsylvania, has been asked to visit Harrisburg to help enlist the boys in this work.

Jones Wister Dies at Age of 79; Formerly Made Home in Harrisburg

Jones Wister, a member of one of Philadelphia's oldest families, who died recently in Chicago Friday while on a trip with his wife to Glacier Park, was a former resident of Harrisburg. Mr. Wister lived in this city during the early seventies and during that time was connected with the Dunbar Iron Furnace Company, whose plant stood within sight of the present Reading passenger station. He was a resident of this city about five years and during that time made a wide circle of friends. He was directed to the Harrisburg Hospital, and also a student under Dr. Hugh Hamilton, of this city. Mr. Wister was in business with his brother in this city and moved their firm to Philadelphia where they became known as the L. and R. Wister Company.

He was 79 years old and the news of his death comes as a shock to his many friends in Harrisburg. He is survived by his widow, and two daughters. The daughters are Mrs. William Barclay, of Chestnut Hill, and Mrs. Mason Chichester, of Leesburg, Va.

Some remarkable frauds were prevented last year by the vigilance of surety companies. Fascinated by a foreign financier, a wealthy widow was prevented by a surety company from investing a $55,000 estate in the bonds of a South American republic which soon after repudiated its debt.
