

BIG RUSH FOR NEW DICTIONARY IS EXPECTED

Busy Workers Hold Coupons For Presentation on Half-Holiday

Extraordinary efforts have been made for a big rush to get copies of the New Universities Dictionary, the book offered by this paper to its readers exclusively. Thousands beyond all expectations were distributed during the week. "When we set our thoughts down in written form," says Professor Foster M. Lunt, M. A., instructor of English in Horace Mann School, teachers' college, Columbia University, "we are without the aids of style and manner to make clear what we are trying to say. Our thoughts must be understood because the relations which exist between the various parts of our sentences are clear. If the relations between the parts of our sentences are not clear, the thoughts we are trying to express will not be understood." This is Professor Lunt's introduction in the new Universities Dictionary to his title on "Practical Syntax," which shows readers of this new dictionary how to build correct sentences. "Good usage, common practice, society—whatever you will—has decided what is good form, what is proper, in this field of syntax, just as it has in morals, etiquette or fashions," continues Professor Lunt; "therefore, the man or woman who has occasion to set his thoughts down in writing should observe the common practice, the universally understood rules, which govern the relationship of words. If he fails to do this, or if he attempts to make his own rules, he will be considered without the pale of cultured, educated people. From this it will be seen that the ability to construct sentences properly is hardly less important than the power to speak."

Quaker's Duty in War Pointed Out

Raleigh, N. C. — The Quaker slacker, the liquor traffic, "soft" drinks and tobacco were excoriated at the annual meeting of the Friends at Guilford College, N. C. "A Quaker who will take advantage of the exemption and not do as much or more than the one who bears arms in the trenches, is a Quaker slacker," said Walter C. Woodard, of Richmond, Ind., secretary of the Five-Year Meeting of the Friends in America, and acting editor of the American Friend, the official church paper, in an address at the meeting. The address of this Quaker leader was stirring from start to finish, and throughout he kept before the meeting his idea of the patriotic attitude the members of his church should take in the present crisis. He urged his hearers to rouse themselves to do their bit in helping their country win for democracy.

GERMANY SOON TO GIVE TERMS, SAYS MICHAELIS

Kaiser's Chancellor Declares He Has So Informed Reichstag Chiefs

London, Sept. 10. — Germany will soon be able to publish her peace terms, according to Dr. Georg Michaelis, the German Chancellor. Doctor Michaelis in an interview said he had so informed the Reichstag main committee, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen yesterday states. The main committee, said Dr. Michaelis in the interview, had "tried to make final arrangements regarding peace conditions and the question of Alsace-Lorraine, but no decision has yet been taken. The question, however, was eagerly discussed and Germany will soon be able to publish her peace terms." Copenhagen, Sept. 19. — The committee of seven members of the Reichstag and seven members of the Bundestag appointed to draw up an answer to Pope Benedict's peace note will meet on Monday afternoon and the reply will probably be drafted then, says a Berlin dispatch to-day.

Cadillac Claims Big Tire Mileage

Averaging 9,818 miles on their tires is the record shown by nine Cadillac owners among one hundred miscellaneous car owners, according to the data collected by a tire maker's Detroit branch. The figures of the entire one hundred owners showed an average of 8,676 miles, hence the showing of the Cadillac owners is more than one thousand miles in excess of the general average. Of the nine Cadillac owners, seven are still using the tires upon which the report is based; and of these seven, five have reached 10,000 miles or more.

Dr. Fager Forced to Forego Birthday Hike

Harrisburg's well-known pedestrian, Dr. John H. Fager, 1234 North Sixth street, did not enjoy his annual walk yesterday in honor of his sixty-third birthday. Dr. Fager has been accustomed to walk a mile for each year every birthday, but a business engagement prevented him from carrying out the usual custom this year. However, he had prepared for it and the other day walked to Carlisle, a distance of nineteen miles with his oldtime vigor. SOLDIERS ARE RELEASED John Shelly, who was arrested Thursday afternoon on a charge of furnishing liquor to a soldier, was released yesterday because the evidence was not sufficient for a conviction. The soldiers who figured in Thursday's drinking escapade, were also released.

OBJECTS OF RED CROSS OUTLINED

Care and Comfort of U. S. Fighting Men First Consideration

Washington, Sept. 5.—Henry P. Davison, as chairman, issued to-day, on behalf of the War Council of the American Red Cross, a report to the American people concerning the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe since war with Germany was declared. The report says in part: "The policy of the Red Cross War Council is to render frequently to the American people concerning the use which is being made of all Red Cross money. "The War Council of the American Red Cross, since its appointment on May 10, appropriated up to and including August 31, the sum of $12,239,481.87 for work in Europe, of which $10,692,601 is for use in France. "The general lines of activity undertaken in Europe by the Red Cross have been determined after a careful survey of the situation by the Red Cross Commission. The purposes are: "1. To establish and maintain hospitals for soldiers in the American Army in France; "2. To establish and maintain canteens, rest houses, recreation huts and other means of supplying comforts and recreation for the soldiers in the armies of our allies; "3. To distribute hospital equipment and supplies of all kinds to military hospitals for soldiers of the American or allied armies; "4. To engage in civilian relief, including: (a) the care and education of children; (b) the care of mutilated soldiers; (c) care of sick and disabled soldiers; (d) relief work in the devastated areas of France and Belgium, such as furnishing to the inhabitants of these districts agricultural implements, household goods, food, clothing and such temporary shelter as will enable them to return to their homes; (e) to provide for and guard against the increase of tuberculosis; "5. To furnish relief for soldiers and civilians held prisoners by the enemy and to give assistance to such civilians as are returned to France from time to time from the parts of Belgium and of France held by the enemy; "6. To supply financial assistance to committees, societies or individuals allied with the American Red Cross and carrying on relief work in Europe."

State Aid For British Farmers

London, England.—Sir Arthur Lee, director-general of food production, has published a statement with regard to the policy of his department which states that the Cabinet, having decided that a large increase must be made in the acreage under corn and potatoes for the harvest of 1918, it has been the duty of the food production department, acting through the agricultural executive committee, to apportion the task between the different parts of the country, and to see that the best use is made of existing resources in the way of labor, horses, machinery and other requisites. "Farmers throughout the country are required to make the fullest possible use of the resources actually at their disposal. In order, however, to help them in carrying out the remainder of the task that is beyond their powers, the department is obtaining, and placing at the disposal of the county committees, a large number of tractors, horses and other requisites (with such additional labor as can be procured). The food department requires farmers and others to make every effort to equip themselves at their own expense, with whatever additional resources they may need, in the way of tractors, implements, horses and other requisites. In this way, alone, can the full national task be accomplished, for however big the government effort may be, it can be no part of its object to relieve agriculturists of their proper responsibilities. SWEET POTATOES CHEAPER New York, N. Y.—More plentiful and cheaper shipments of sweet potatoes, peaches and pears, with a falling off on watermelons and potatoes are reported by the bureau of markets.

STATE MEAT LAW RIGIDLY INVOKED

The State Livestock Sanitary Board, whose officials are in charge of enforcement of the state pure meat law, have been rigidly invoking it in communities where meat has been complained of and numerous prosecutions have been obtained. The board officers have invited information on infractions as the best means of co-operating with the consuming public. Through the activity of agents of the State Department of Agriculture unscrupulous meat dealers who have been purchasing and slaughtering diseased cattle and selling the meat have been prosecuted in several counties under the meat hygiene act of 1915 and large fines have been imposed on several violators. In Washington county butchers purchased a diseased cow from a farmer for five dollars, with an agreement that the butchers were to take off the hide and destroy the carcass. Instead the cow was dressed for food and converted to hamburger steak and sausage. The board officers here were informed of the transaction and after a trial in the Washington county courts the butchers were found guilty under the meat hygiene law of selling diseased meat and paid a fine and cost amounting to $792.40. Another case in Westmoreland county resulted in an employee of a butcher market pleading guilty to having prepared for food the carcass of a tuberculosis cow. The cow dropped dead in the road while being driven to a slaughterhouse and the carcass was dressed on the roadside and the meat delivered at the store the next morning. In the event—

Forty-six Cars Destroying Tires to Test Durability

Shortening twilight find the six tire testing fleets of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company entering the home stretch. Out where the red crags of Yellowstone Park flink their granites to the pearly western skies the mountain squadron is penetrating the twisting canyons to a concentration point; the Dixie fleet is crushing leisurely north to a sweater assembly at Dayton, O.; the Lake fleet has forsaken the turnpikes of Minnesota and Northern Michigan and is now skipping nimbly through Central Michigan; the Prairie fleet is co-operating with the Lake flotilla in the Wolverine State before mooring in Detroit; the Atlantic fleet has strayed from its base at Philadelphia and is exploring the panorama of New England, while the Pacific coast squadron has launched an offensive against the Western Alps in order to form a junction with the tourists at Yellowstone. It is estimated that by October 3 the forty-six cars engaged in the novel pastime of destroying tires will have reached the fold with new mileage records. With larger fleets operating this year than last the distance figures for 1916 should be easily surpassed. In 1916 test tire fleets traveled 4,688,412 miles or the equal of six hundred and thirty trips from New York to San Francisco and return, and used upward of 390,000 gallons of gasoline. Since early March Goodrich crews have been manuevering all over the country testing tires. Drivers were abjured to spare no pains in giving casings vigorous play and to adhere strictly to the course mapped out, tempting detours notwithstanding. Tires were to be used until they had been reduced to shreds. Only then could they be replaced. In order to insure a thoroughly balanced test, cars of different makes, types and weights were employed. The most accurately approaches the normal condition of the tourist. It was the realization that experiments conducted within the environs of a city did not reflect general road conditions that led to the expansion of the tours and the visits to fields where Goodrich crews were summoned to test as the paths of the aborigine. Each night, effects of roadtests on tires are wired to the Goodrich laboratories at Akron.

Miss Grace Schaffner Bride of Russell Stoner

Hummelstown, Pa., Sept. 10.—The wedding of Miss Grace Schaffner and Russell Stoner, both members of the Reformed Church yesterday evening at 6 o'clock. Miss Schaffner is a daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Frank J. Schaffner, of Hummelstown. The marriage was to be an event of the fall, but was hastened on account of a short furlough granted to Herbert Schaffner, who is an aviator in the United States Army, before leaving for a foreign port. As the bride desired her brother to be present at the marriage, it was arranged that the ceremony be performed during his visit home. The Rev. John P. Dienfelder, of Easton, Pa., brother-in-law of the bride, assisted by the Rev. A. S. Lehman, performed the rites in the presence of the family and a number of invited guests. The bride has been prominent socially and is a leader in church and missionary work in the Reformed Church as well as a soloist in the Reformed choir. She has also been a leader in the Girls' Club and in Red Cross work. The groom is secretary to M. S. Hershey, head of the Hershey chocolate works at Hershey. Following the wedding supper the couple left for a honeymoon trip, after which they will live in Hummelstown. GROCERS UNITE IN DELIVERY McGregor, Ia.—The grocers in the town of West Union have put into operation a common delivery system as a part of doing their bit to keep down the price of food, and conserve man power and horse feed and gasoline. The four groceries have been running four individual delivery systems at an expense of over $5,000 a year.
