SCOTT MAY GET ACTIVE COMMAND

Chief of Staff, Near Retirement Age, to Ask Re-tention in Service

Washington, Sept. 11.—With Major General Hugh L. Scott, Chief of Staff of the Army, reaching retirement age this month, speculation has begun at the War Department as to whether he will be retained on active service under the war-time emergency provisions of the law and continue in office.

It is known that General Scott would welcome an active command in the field. In view of his distinguished services on many occasions and the known high regard for him entertained by President Wilson and Secretary Baker, it appears probable that an effort will be made to gratify his wishes, should it be determined to relieve him of his staff post.

The pressure upon the chief-of-staff will become increasingly heavy as American forces abroad are enlarged and when they are holding a portion of the western front great physical vigor will be required to endure the strain.

TO OPEN SCHOOL LIBRARIES

MORE FAVORABLE COAL PACT MADE

Understood School Board Has Secured Lower Rate From Philadelphia Firm

While city school officials would not make a definite announcement of the agreement which it understood was made yesterday afternoon with W. B. Smith, of Philadelphia representing the Philadelphia Reading Coal and Iron Company, it was said that the situation looked "favorable for the school board."

Several weeks ago the district decided to buy the school coal supply direct from the mines at operators' price, and to pay a freight to the city. It was stipulated by the Reading Coal Company that the Reading dealers in Harrisburg should be awarded the contract hauling the coal to the building when the Harrisburg dealers were asked for prices the lowest submitted was $2 a gross ton. The direct refusal to pay the exorbitant prices, arranged for the conference with Mr. Smith, the Directors Starr Bacon and Werner with Secretary Hammelbaugh, conferred with Mr. Smith. It is probable that a definite report will be submitted to the board at the meeting next week.
