William Fox's screen version of the fascinating faity fantasy, "Jack and the Beanstaik," popu-Sack and the larly known as the Beanstaik" "Peter Pan" of the films, will begin an ongagement of three days, with a matinee at the Orpheum Theater, Monday, Septembe. 17, and two per-formances will be given daily there-after.

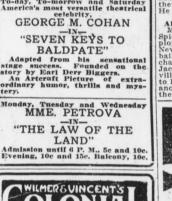

formances will be given daily there-after. In a cast of 1,300, two wonderful little tots, with but nine years to their combined credit, are co-stars, and their work in this photo-drama mas-terpices has created no less than a genuine sensation, and that in blass New York, where "Jack and - the Beanstalk" received its premier show-ling at the Globe Theater. If you ticket less than two, tots in advance to the the Globe Theater. If you ticket less than two, tots in advance at that Broadway playhouse, where the picture is still running. These kiddies are not unknown to screen worshipers, for both Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin, the bright little stars in question, have appeared in many of the im-portant Fox productions. In "Jack and the Beanstalk" Fran-cis is the Jack of the the beanstalk fame, and Virginia Is his adored Prin-ceast Regina, and the acting-yes far ahead of anything that has ever been accomplished by any other chil-dren.
