Why Nine People Out of Ten Have Acid Stomach and Indigestion Acids in Stomach that Sour and Ferment Your Food Should be Neutralized With a Little Magnesia to End Indigestion. While there are many forms of stomach trouble, says a physician who has made a special study of stomach disorders, "I believe that fully 90 per cent of these cases are traceable to the excessive secretion of hydro-chloric acid in the stomach with consequent food fermentation, gas and delayed digestion. The stomach needs a certain amount of acid for proper digestion, but many people have an unnatural tendency to secrete more acid than their stomach requires. This excess acid makes all the trouble. Their stomachs are almost constantly in a state of sourness and ferment, extremely irritating and inflaming to the stomach lining and most everything they eat disagrees and turns to gas. No wonder we have so much indigestion, indigestion and dyspepsia. An "acid stomach" should be neutralized or sweetened daily with some simple harmless anti-acid like bisulphated magnesia which, instead of merely artificially digesting the acid food, as do so many peptic pills and digestive aids, counteracts or changes the acid, soothes and heals the sore inflamed stomach and permits normal healthy digestion without pain or trouble of any kind. I regard this as the best form in which magnesia can be used for stomach purposes. A few ounces of the powder or a small package of 6-grain tablets can be obtained at G. A. Gargas' or any drug store and will convert almost any indigestion into a state of normal health. I have discarded all digestive aids and relying entirely on bisulphated magnesia to keep his stomach free from dangerous gas and acids and the pain and indigestion. Bisulphated Magnesia is not a laxative and may be freely taken either before or after meals.

Ever Gone Smoke-Hungry? Do you know what it means to find yourself at the end of a good, hard day's work with nothing to smoke? You women-folk ask your men about that feeling. You men—remember the last time you were caught without the "makin's" or a grain of tobacco. Now think of Uncle Sam's fighters in France, out there in the thick of things fighting your battles. You men and women of Harrisburg don't let them go smoke-hungry. They're fighting a good fight—see to it that they have at least this bit of comfort. Figure yourself, or someone you love, standing in a trench with death just around the corner most of the time, and then when relief comes, digging into the tobacco pouch and find it empty. This sort of thing will never happen if you come across promptly and generously to-day and send in your contribution (anything from a quarter up) to HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH Campaign for "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund" Army officers who know from actual experience how much tobacco can do to keep the fighting-man's spirit up—the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy—all endorse this fund. Arrangements have been made to buy the tobacco at cost, so that your quarter will put forty-cent's worth of tobacco into the pouch of the man on the firing-line. The distribution of the tobacco will be in competent and experienced hands. Every cent donated will go towards the purchase of smokes. Rent, postage, salaries are contributed. To the Editor of the Telegraph— Enclosed find to buy packages of tobacco, through "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund" for American fighting men in France. I understand that each dollar buys four packages, each with a retail value of forty-five cents and that in each of my packages will be placed a postcard, addressed to me, on which my unknown friend, the soldier, will agree to send me a message of thanks. Our Great Army Of Stay-At-Homes As much as many of us should like to, we cannot all have the honor of serving in the ranks of the army abroad. It is said that it takes six men at home to keep one soldier at the front. The welfare of our soldier boys depends therefore upon how efficiently every man and woman in our great industrial army performs their duty. Two millions or more men taken out of the field of production means increased responsibility and more energetic application of those who must do the work of those who have gone to the colors. Shortage of help is prevalent everywhere. Banker, merchant, professional man, wage-earner and farmer must necessarily apply themselves with greater efficiency. Physical fitness and conservation of valuable time is therefore a prime consideration. Our place in the ranks is to supply the best food the market affords and properly prepare it. This is essential to physical fitness. Our self-serve plan in the heart of Harrisburg's business section is assurance of the quickest possible service. We have had the honor of serving the greater number of our local soldier boys. It is our duty to continue as a commissary department for the great industrial army at home. We're at Your Command Davenport's "Architects of Appetites" 325 Market Street Harrisburg, Pa.
