OFF FOR WILSON COLLEGE TODAY

Miss Alverda Hertzler and Her Roommate, Miss Baumgartner, Given Farewell

MISS ALVERDA HERTZLER

There was a happy gathering at the Pennsylvania station to-day when friends of Miss Alverda Hertzler, of this city, and her roommate, Miss Juniata Baumgartner, of Spencer, Ind., started off for Chambersburg, to begin their studies at Wilson College. Candy, flowers, cake and a host of good wishes were showered on the girls who met for the first time to-day and whose lives will be so closely interwoven at college.

Last evening Miss Mildred Runkle and Miss Helen Runkle, of 1501 Regina street, were hostesses at a surprise party for Miss Hertzler, presenting her with a fountain pen and a large box of candy. The guests enjoyed music, dancing and interesting games. Refreshments were served to Miss Alverda Hertzler, Miss Pauline Miller, Miss Jeanne K. Matter, Miss Marguerite Reynolds, Miss Elizabeth Garner, Miss Catherine Schtilinger, Miss Florence Brown, Mrs. Elsie Eckert, Miss Myrtle Brown, Miss Peggy Hassler, Miss Grace Rotinson, Miss Faye I. Haverstick, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. W. M. Runkle, Miss Helen and Miss Mildred Runkle.

neglect the signs. If your child squints his eyes, if he holds his book too close, if he would rather stay around the house than run with the boys, if his lessons are a bore to him, if he complains of headache—take him to a skillful optometrist for a thorough examination of his eyes and ocular muscles. All these conditions and more are frequently reflex symptoms of defective eyes.—E. L. Egolf, optometrist, with H. C. Claster, 302 Market street.

CITY SENDS MANY TO HIGHER SCHOOLS

Hundreds of Young Men and Women Leaving For Colleges and Universities; High and Preparatory Schools Represented

Vacation days are over for the lads and lassies attending schools and colleges. They have for the most part, apparently, been days of combined work and rest. Service, so it seems, is the keyword of the hour and the young men and women have heartily given themselves to unselfishly serve in some way during these months. The girls acting as motor mesengers and knitting, sewing and clipping for the Red Cross and the boys working on farms and drilling in the Home Reserves all proved their willingness "To Do Their Bit." These days with their actual school life and study are a period of preparation for finer, broader helpfulness, in the various avenues of service which lie open to the men and women of to-day.

Among the rank and file of students returning to the scholastic fields of learning, many will enter as Freshmen. Numerous graduates of the 1917 class of the Seiler, Academy, Central and Technical schools are listed in this quota. Some of the college boys and girls will return to resume their studies and others to complete their courses.

The approximate exodus of students from this city includes:

NEWSIES READY FOR THEIR SHOW

Latest Songs and Jokes to Be Given by Local Talent Tomorrow

To-morrow night the "Newsies" will give their big Minstrel Show for which they have been practicing intensely for many weeks. They have learned the latest song hits and the catchy jokes in order that they may give the audience a treat. The hit of the evening will be the "Bowery Night School," which is acted by the boys and depicts a night school in the slums in New York.

The Newsies have the nerve and ability to put on a good show and they have been trained by professionals, so they are well "up" in their parts.

The election returns will be read from the stage to-morrow night, and the returns and the show are all thrown in for the one price.

MANDAMUS NOW UP TO THE COURT

Lively Close to the Argument in the Snyder Proceeding Yesterday Afternoon

The question whether Auditor General Snyder must recognize the appointments of four State officials appointed by the Governor after adjournment of the Senate, which had rejected their nominations, the biggest problem left by the Legislature of 1917, is now in the hands of the Dauphin county court. The argument on the mandamus brought by Secretary of Agriculture Patton, Superintendent of Printing Long, Commissioner of Banking Lafean and Commissioner of Fisheries Buller was concluded shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon before Judges Kunkel and McCarrell, who received briefs and reserved decision. Only Auditor General Snyder, of all the men parties to the act, was in court. The petitioners did not appear.

Gabriel H. Moyer, of the Auditor General's Department, closed for Mr. Snyder and Attorney General Brown spoke in rebuttal. Neither minced words. Mr. Moyer was sharp in his references to the course of the Governor. Mr. Brown denounced men who opposed the State Executive. There have been few addresses heard in state cases in recent years which were marked by as much bitterness as that of Mr. Brown.

Case to Be Appealed

No matter which way the court decides the case it will be appealed. It was evident yesterday that both sides were putting down foundations. It is also probable that the Auditor General may take the course of instituting quo warranto proceedings to get all sides of the question before the Supreme Court.

The Auditor General yesterday moved to quash. The Attorney General's Department, representing the officials and the Governor, declared that course was stopped because an answer had been filed. There were criticisms of the haste of the Attorney General and of his use of the name of the Commonwealth because Mr. Snyder considers the men private citizens. Harry S. McDevitt, for Mr. Snyder, and W. M. Hargest, for the petitioners, fought out the motion to quash, and then Deputy Attorney General W. H. Keller and Mr. Moyer hammered out the main question. Mr. Keller said that the use of the name of the State was proper because there was a public duty involved and it is not for Mr. Snyder to try the title of the officials, but for the legal end of the Government.

Mr. Moyer promptly proceeded to try the constitutional side, although Judge McCarrell asked whether the men had not been commissioned by the Governor after the Legislature adjourned and for the period until the end of the next Senate. Mr. Moyer said that the State had the spectacle of an auditor general elected by the people taken into court for doing his duty and protecting the people by refusing to recognize appointments made "in open defiance" of the constitution. Mr. Moyer read Judge McCarrell's speech in the Senate in the Waller case and then said that some one on the Hill had to protest against taking the virility from the constitution and assailed the Governor for placing himself above the organic law of the State, charging that men had been placed in office in a manner flatly against the ideas of Curtin and other framers of the present constitution. Roosevelt's appointments, he said, had never been tested in court, and as for Hensel's opinion in the Watchorn case, the eminent Lancaster lawyer was the Attorney General of the men he advised. Mr. Moyer closed by declaring that the men holding office were usurpers and that the Auditor General was doing his duty in doing as he did.

Brown's Sharp Reply

Mr. Brown opened by declaring that the comparisons made were odious and asking the court to get the atmosphere of the Legislature, proceeded to tell of some incidents.

He declared that never, by word of mouth or in print, has any man dared to impugn the character of the four officials who appeared in this case as petitioners. The Senate alone had cast aspersions on them by rejecting them.

The Attorney General said he had advised the Governor not to send in the names of his nominees until the close of the session, but only after an experience. He had previously advised the Governor to send two nominations to the Senate, one of a county officer in Mercer county, and the other of Superintendent of Public Printing Long. Both nominations were withdrawn, and the Attorney General said he then advised the Governor to send in no more nominations until the last day.

Mr. Brown referred to the high standing of the men appointed by the Governor, who were represented in the court proceeding.

Then dramatically he closed with: "If it is the last word I say, it is that not one of these men was appointed in the payment of a political debt!"

SEEKS DAUGHTER HE HAS NOT SEEN IN FIFTEEN YEARS

Father Learns of Death of Wife; Last Heard of in This City

A letter has been received by Chief of Police Wetzel, from Dr. B. J. Davison, Post Office Box 754, Midland, Ontario, urging the police department to assist in locating Dr. Davison's daughter, who was last heard of in Harrisburg. The daughter's name was May Bertha Davison, and there is a brother, Charlie Davison, supposed to be living.

The police department will make an effort to locate both of the Davison children.

The letter received by Chief Wetzel is as follows:

"Dear Sir:

"Have just learned, after several years, that my daughter was last heard of in your city. Her mother and I were separated some fifteen years ago in Cleveland, Ohio, since that I learned of the mother's death. Naturally, I would like to meet my daughter again, if it is at all possible.

"I wish you would try and trace her for me, and the expense, if any, no object to me. Kindly advise me what to do. My daughter's name is May Bertha Davison. She was born in Yorkville, Tennessee; her mother was born in the same State; father a Canadian; one other child—her brother named Charlie, supposed to be living.

"Kindly advise me by wire if whereabouts can be learned. Any expense will be paid. Thanking you in advance for your trouble,

"Respectfully yours,

"DR. J. B. DAVISON."

SEEKS LATEST METHODS

John H. McCandless, secretary of the Associated Aid Societies, will leave Thursday for Philadelphia and New York to study the charitable organizations of those cities in order that workers in Harrisburg may adopt the newer methods of handling the work. Mr. McCandless expects to return Monday with many helpful ideas.

TO CONTINUE BAND CONCERTS

Popularity of band concerts by the Municipal band has resulted in a decision to continue them at the Park. The social committee of Harrisburg Lodge, No. 12, B. P. O. Elks, has arranged for a concert to-morrow night starting at 8 o'clock. Following the interesting program by the Municipal band, luncheon will be served.
