

STATE TO UNITE IN FISH SURVEY

New York and Pennsylvania Will Plan Joint Work For Conservation at Once

Plans for co-operation between the states of New York and Pennsylvania in regard to fisheries and for conservation work will be discussed at a meeting to be held at Albany between New York and Pennsylvania officials. Nathan R. Muller, State Commissioner of Fisheries, who has been at Bellefonte inspecting the new buildings at the hatchery, will represent this state at the meeting. The conservation will include the Delaware river as well as Lake Erie fisheries. Shipments of young trout from state hatcheries have been speeded up this week and with the co-operation of the railroads, which have been hauling the cans free, thousands have been placed in streams in Eastern Pennsylvania. Most of the young trout distributed have come from Pleasant Mount and Bellefonte hatcheries.

Application Refused.—The Public Service Commission has refused the application of the Pennsylvania railroad for extra tracks over grade crossings in Winfield township, Butler county, holding that the construction would increase the hazard. The commission suggests two ways of securing advantages sought, one being to remove the tracks and another for extension of tracks and construction of a tower, but both are admitted to be expensive.

Veterans Applying.—Almost 100 veterans of Pennsylvania regiments which participated in the battles at Vicksburg have sent in applications for transportation to the Southern battlefield for the celebration next month. The State Commissioners in charge have worked out their plans for the month, and are awaiting the issuance of orders to the survivors.

will be started at the Adjutant General's department on Monday. To Gather Herds.—According to a Lewistown dispatch farmers of Mifflin county will begin the round up this week of herds which have been grazing on state forest lands under the permission given by the Governor as a war measure. It was a great advantage to many farmers.

More Paralysis.—Infantile paralysis has appeared in Montgomery and Northampton counties.

Planes Inflamed.—State officials have been insisting upon fines in the suits brought for violation of the child labor law. In many counties men who tried to make short cuts got $50 fines and schoolchildren were sent back to books.

State Police Active.—State policemen have been giving a great aid to the Federal government in rounding up slackers. In some districts in the anthracite field they got four men and put them on trains for Camp Meade. The men arrived, too.

Dr. Dixon Stands Trip Well.—Reports from Commissioner of Health Dixon are to the effect that he stood the trip from Mont Alto to Bryn Mawr very well.

Dr. Baily Attends.—Chairman Baily of the State Medical Bureau attended the meeting of the State Medical Society at Pittsburgh, where he presented the work of the bureau in its various branches.

Change in Ruling.—State draft headquarters was today informed that appeals in extraordinary cases could be taken up by the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania. The original provision was that in special cases or those involving unusual features that the Governor could re-open the cases and present them to boards again.

No Date Set.—No date has been fixed for the conference of the Board of Public Grounds and the landscape architects. It will be held after the Governor returns.

Men From Sydney.—The visitors to the State Capitol this week contained visitors from Sydney, Australia; California, Canada and Oklahoma.

One of the features that has been instituted by the farm bureaus throughout the state is the livestock judging contest for boys and girls. This contest is not only interesting, but also instructive, as it affords the contestants an opportunity to learn how to select a good cow, horse or hog.

The Dauphin county farm bureau, co-operating with the Gratz Fair Association, has made arrangements to hold a livestock judging contest at the Gratz fair, Wednesday morning, October 10, at 9:30 o'clock. All boys and girls between the ages of fourteen and twenty can take part in this contest by writing the farm bureau at Harrisburg for particulars.

Names have been secured of many of the boys and girls of the county and a letter has been sent them which contained an enrollment card and also a bulletin on livestock judging.

Prizes for the contest will be given to many of those who compete. They will consist of gold silver and bronze medals, properly engraved, agricultural books and yearly subscriptions to some of the best agricultural papers.
