SOLDIER WOMAN TELLS OF HER PART IN BATTLE

Writes on Her Co-operation With U. S. Food Administration

Washington, D. C. Dearest Edy:-A neighbor of mine told me this morning that she didn't see any use signing the Food Pledge now because she didn't do it when the Food Administration first published the card in the newspapers a month or so ago.

Did you ever hear of such an absurd excuse?

Suppose some soldier would de-cline to fight because he wasn't in the first draft! There would be just about first draft! There would be just about as much sense in it!

Of course the right time for every woman to have signed the Food Pledge was when the Food Administration first asked it, for the request was not made until the need was vital. But that does not affect the fact that the need grows every day. It will never be too late to co-operate with the Food Administration as long as the burden of feeding the world rests upon America. That's going to be not only the length of this war, but through the years of reconstruction after the war. Unless every housekeeper does her part, the world is going to actually suffer for food. It seems to me there is quite enough it seems to me there is quite enough suffering now without adding the horrors of starvation. To prevent such a thing we have got to study the "home card" suggestions and follow them as closely as possible. Everybody ought to know that they were not made lightly. They are all based on the accurate calculations made by food experts of the world's food needs.

out of the long list of tool products we use daily it does not seem much of a hardship to economize in five. Do you think so, Edy dear?

Specially since we must have these five things to feed our soldiers in Prance; to feed the soldiers of our allies; to insure the liberty of the world.

women construed "save" to mean hoarding—which was not, and is not, the idea at all. The new "home card" tells just what the American woman is asked to do to help win this war, and tells it so clearly and helpfully that no one can fail to see that the whole program is merely one of substitution, without any necessity to skimp or to hoard.

In every instance the substitution asked is simple, and makes no hardship,—a mighty good thing for every woman to know, war or no war!
