Simplest Phrase Often Contains Great Beauties of Sentiment

We sometimes speak of a "kind" person, things of the same kind, and again of "mankind" but do we ever reflect that the three words come from the same root? That wonderful genius, Shakespeare, meant more than a mere play of words, when he put into Hamlet's mouth—

CRUSH GERMANY, IS ONLY PATH TO PEACE, SAYS T. R.

Overthrow of Teutonic Empire, Dissolution of Austria and Turkey Necessary

New York, Oct. 6.—Theodore Roosevelt, speaking here last night at a "national service" mass meeting under the auspices of the Mayor's committee on national defense, declared the only peace which will make the world safe for democracy must be based upon the complete overthrow of Germany and the dissolution of Austria and Turkey. Included in the program he outlined were a free Lithuania and Armenia, Poland and Lithuania, with an independent Czech commonwealth and a jugo-Slav State. The Colonel said: "Continually we hear humors of peace. I think the circulation of such rumors is injurious to America and to the cause of decency and democracy. We should make it clearly understood that the conduct of Germany has been such as to regard us as enemies of mankind all people who would strive to bring about a peace based upon treating Germany, Austria and Turkey on the one hand, and the allies of the other, as standing on a footing of equality. The only peace that will make the world safe for democracy is a peace based upon the complete overthrow of Germany and the dissolution of Austria and Turkey."

Heavy Limousine on Way to Washington Upsets on Jack's Mountain Road

Miss Higgins, who was her guest, escaped injury, as did also the colored chauffeur driving the car. Miss Newton, in company with Miss Higgins, was returning to her home from Gettysburg, where she had spent the day at the soldiers' camps, and when the chauffeur tried to drive the heavy car up the steep grade at Jack's Mountain, the emergency brakes were applied, but these failing to work the car ran down the side of the road and overturned.

A Square Toed Talk to Men Who Work For What They Get

It Will Interest Harrisburg Men of Trades Because It Was Written by a Man Who Has Been "Through the Mill" More Ways Than One—Moulders Must Have Led a Merry Life

By JAMES M. HAGEN The first job I had was on the core-bench in an iron foundry. After a year of that old Charley Nussbaum, the boss, put me "on the floor," and I amused myself fashioning gate bars in the moulding sand. I got $1 a day. The best moulder on the floor got $2.40. It was rumored that Charley Nussbaum got $5 a day, but that didn't go with the youngsters on the floor and on the core-bench. We knew darn well there wasn't a man in the world making $5 a day. The man who got $2.40 a day—that was back in 1901—was a wonder. When any hard casting was to be made the job was his. We'd see the old man—Nussbaum—studying a blueprint. Then he'd go over to the patternshop and powwow with a lad named Oleson, who was the boss patternmaker. A couple of days later a new pattern would come to the shop, and then the $2.40 man would get busy. All the young moulders were grouped in one end of the shop. The $2.40 man had a "floor" in the middle. He had two helpers, both moulders. Some nights after the pouring was finished and the bottom of the cupola had dropped—particularly warm summer nights—the men would send over to a bottling house, half a block away for an eighth of beer, and then they'd sit around in an empty sand house and drink it before going home to supper. The $2.40 man never did, though; he went home. It was the custom for a man to buy an eighth for the crowd, if he got a raise. I remember I bought an eighth when they put me on the floor, giving me 50 cents a day more than I got on the core-bench. And I bought another keg when I decided I didn't like moulding and the boss put me on the big overhead crane. He gave me $1.50 for that. It was a new crane and because I was the only operator I was paid every night at 10 o'clock and helped shake out the big castings. The only thing wrong with that crane was that they'd put it up wrong-side-to, so that when they were filling the big ladles from the cupola the crane came was right over the ladle. Two or three times a day I'd run down the shop so they could turn a hose on the burning cage.

day the government turned back all the old man's money to him, and he figured what he'd got in interest, I tell you he got prettier of cockles. And you haven't seen me buying any beer or hanging around the 'Union,' 'cause I knew the old man couldn't card his money with the mill, and he wanted to have enough some day to add to his and buy a house. And—by damn—I got my house, and I got to thank the mill, because he knew that some values may change, but the good old United States bond never does."

I reckon that conversation took place nearly sixteen years ago. If this wasn't a true story I'd say that I took the friendly moulder's advice and never spent a cent afterward if I didn't have its round trip journey back to my pockets all mapped out. But I didn't take his advice, and I've shook myself loose from my last nickel all the way from Mexico City to Columbus. Lots of times all the visible means of support I've had were a pencil and notebook. But you can't have everything, and a body some people never get brains. About the time that I came to the conclusion that I ought to have some money saved up, I looked at the mill, and in the family Bible and discovered that I only had about half a lifetime left.

SANPAN MADE THIS LADY FEEL STRONG

says Mrs. Edna S. Brooks, 310 Ridge street, Steelton, Pa. "For a long time I have been bothered with indigestion, nervousness and a general run down condition after eating. Had pains in stomach and my food appeared to lay there like a lump. It was very distressing and made me miserable. "I was forever catching cold. My head ached; my eyes burned; felt drowsy all the time. I just had no ambition whatever. "I had tried some highly recommended advertised medicines, but could not obtain permanent relief. "I saw in the papers where Sanpan was doing such wonderful work; got a bottle and proceeded to take it and it is marvelous the way it brought me back to health. "My stomach is as good as ever, am not nervous as before, my head does not ache and I don't take cold as before and feel strong and vigorous." Sanpan is being personally introduced at Keller's Drug Store, 405 Market street, Harrisburg, where the Sanpan man is meeting the people. -Adv.

Destroy Turkish Empire

"Unless we have used the phrase in a hypocritical and insincere manner, this is the way to make the world safe for democracy and the only way; and this means that the only peace we can accept is the peace of overwhelming victory. Turkey's conduct toward the Armenian and Syrian Christians has been such as to make it evident that the Turk must not be driven out of Europe, but the empire destroyed. Give Arabia freedom, give a niche to the Arab, establish free city of Constantinople and keep the straits absolutely open for the Russians and every one else. "Make a great independent Poland and give the Bohemians, Slovaks and Finns, too. Give the Lithuanians at least autonomy; make an independent Czech commonwealth, to include the Bohemians, Moravians and Slovaks. Make a jugo-Slav commonwealth, to include on a footing of an entire equality Croats, Serbians and Slovenes. Restore the rights of Mohammedans. Restore Italian Austria to Italy, and Rumanian Hungary to Rumania. "If Belgium, she is not only entitled to restoration, but to the heaviest kind of indemnity. Let France have Alsace-Lorraine; let Poland include the whole Baltic coast, to which she is entitled. Let the English and the Japanese keep the colonies they have won. "As for the United States, we wish nothing except to have our affairs understood that the Monroe Doctrine is to be upheld in the future as in the past. South of the Equator this doctrine can be left to Brazil, Argentina and Chili, who are strong enough to maintain it, and whom we will aid in maintaining it only when they so desire. "But around the Caribbean and at the points bearing upon the approach to the canal, we must ourselves maintain it. We do not desire to see Germans or Magyars oppress anybody; but we do not intend that hereafter they shall oppress others. "Peace along the lines thus roughly indicated. Then do whatever treaties and agreements can do to make the peace permanent and minimize the chances of war in the future. But avoid folly and hypocrisy and do not make believe that any paper scheme will bring the millennium or abolish all chances of future war. After we have done all we can do by Hague conferences and arbitration agreements and treaties, let us profit by the lessons of the last three and a quarter years and remember that all these things, taken together, will be an utterly inefficient safeguard for peace against alien aggression. There is but one permanent method of securing safety for this nation and that is by training our strength in time of peace, by preparedness, and the only effective preparedness must rest on a system of universal obligatory military training for all our young men; a training which is against war, for it will render it most unlikely that anybody will be war; a training which will also immeasurably increase the self-respect and patriotism and the moral and physical fitness of young men for the tasks of peace."

PACKARD TRUCKS Long life—low-cost! For the "one-truck" business endurance and economy count most. What big business demands when it buys hauling equipment—tested capacity, stamina and low operating expense—is even more vital for "the little fellow." The smaller his truck capital, the greater his need for a Packard because in the long run he will find it the cheapest motor truck to own and operate. First cost is important to the scores of nationally known concerns whose hauling has been standardized with Packard trucks. But final cost is the factor that rules decisions. Therefore they buy Packards. Silent, chainless, four-speed units in seven economical sizes—1 ton to 6½ tons. The right truck for owners of thirty or three hundred units is the right truck for the man who needs only one. Call on Packard Motor Car Company of Philadelphia, 101 Market Street, Harrisburg, for cost figures. Ask the man who owns one. Packard
