TO CLASSIFY ALL MEN IN DRAFT UNDER 5 HEADS

Will Call Bachelors First to Avoid Errors Shown by Experience

Washington, Oct. 22.—Announcement of the adoption of a new system of classification of drafted men, so as to put "the right man in the right place," was made Saturday night by Provost-Marshal General Crowder.

The new method will not affect the 650,000 men already in the National Army, but will apply to all others heretofore drafted and awaiting call.

Under this system, local boards will send out to each enlisted man a questionnaire, going into minute detail as to the life, family, responsibility and adaptability of the individual.

HALLOWEEN ONLY ONE NIGHT PROMISES TREAT

"Sane and Sensible" Celebration, Chief Plans; Save Food Formerly Wasted. Distribution of Tickets Starts Today at Troup Music House

In keeping with an announcement made in the Telegraph two weeks ago, the celebration of Halloween in Harrisburg will be confined to one night this year.

Sane amusement will be permitted, but members of the Harrisburg police force have received strict orders to see that the celebration is sane and sensible in every part of the city.

Masquerading will be permitted on Wednesday evening, October 31, but upon other nights, Chief Wetzel states that the practice of permitting persons to roam the streets wearing masks for several nights in succession is not conducive to law and order.

With the festivities of Halloween near, I am desirous of informing the public through the columns of the daily press, of the conditions attending the celebration with the purpose of eliminating nuisances committed by masqueraders at this season of the year.

At this time, let us not forget that our country is an expression of the nation's Chief Executive wisely calls for food conservation.

NATION HONORS SELECTED MEN

J. Horace McFarland Addresses American Civic Association at St. Louis

St. Louis, Oct. 22.—J. Horace McFarland, president of the American Civic Association, in his address today at the opening of the national convention said:

"This great land has accepted the fact of conscription, and the calling of our young men is proceeding, so that they may be trained to their fitness to defend the nation.

Many have volunteered; but only the physically fit, comprising the select among the country's young manhood, are accepted, are called to the colors.

"It is fitting that their departure to the training camps should be celebrated patriotically. We honor them, for they are going to our defense as actually as did the men of 1861.

The uniforms they wear set them apart as men of note, whose duty is to protect them. There is acclaim for them, and we properly concern ourselves as to their physical and moral welfare, here and when they reach the war frontier.

"By a separate process, selected—yes, super-selected—young men have been sent to military training in the Liberty Armies of America.

"There is justification for the feeling that never before has a great army, super-selected, very fortunately, from among ten millions of the country's young manhood, the accepted men are trained in cantonments so completely wholesome and sanitary that the disease exposure is far less than at home; and it is with peculiar satisfaction that I here mention the distinguished service of members of the American Civic Association who have used their city-planning ability in the arrangement of these cantonments and have made good, very good.

"This Liberty Army did not quite rush to the nation's defense between sunset and sunrise, very fortunately, it is being equipped adequately, and safeguarded adequately, and more rapidly than might have been expected of a peacetime peace-loving nation, with no 'war chest' of gold or guns accumulating for a generation.

This notable adequacy and activity have been made possible by the quality of American citizenship in the great businessmen who, without the encouragement of uniforms or brass bands, have turned their tested talents toward the accomplishment of the gigantic task. They were selected, not elected; they are not exhibitors of our civic carelessness. Are they Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Prohibition or Woman's Suffrage? Thank God, I do not know, nor does anyone care! It is only in times of peace that we must be assured of the partisan relations of the men who handle our billions and govern our millions.

"In due course, our Liberty Army will be 'somewhere in France' fighting, and too many of its boys dying, to make the world safe for democracy. They are fighting for democracy, as did our Revolutionary fathers who fought a hundred and forty years ago."

Tells Red Cross Auxiliary of Life in Soldier Camps. The audience applauded when Dr. Bagnell requested the soldiers be present in uniform to stand.

Following a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Robert Bagnell on "Investments in Democracy," William Jennings, chairman of Harrisburg's Liberty Loan Committee, explained the plan under which the big loan will be presented to the people of this city.

The congregation was then divided into sections, several persons being assigned to the task of interviewing the individual members. Each person present was supplied with a printed form which pledged him, when signed, to purchase a certain amount of bonds when the canvassers call on Tuesday. Many persons did not indicate on the printed form the amount they propose spending for bonds (charging against such cards the total not amount possible—$5), the total $41,500 was reached.

The audience applauded when Dr. Bagnell requested the soldiers be present in uniform to stand.
