PRINCETON HAS ONE MORE GAME

Lack of Football Interest Prevents Profitable Sport; Coach Rush Willing

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 6.—Princeton may play only one more football contest this fall. The Tigers are negotiating for a game November 10, with some army team, and it is probable that this will be the last game. Those in charge of football declare there is little likelihood of a game with Harvard.

In spite of great efforts it has been impossible to arouse any keen interest in the gridiron sport. The contest with the Camp Dix eleven attracted a crowd, was a success and it was thought that it would serve as a stimulus to the Tigers' lagging interest. But there are not enough football players in colleges and the students appear to be more interested in military work than in athletics.

Coach Rush is still here, and is conducting practices, but they are far different from what the Tiger varsity had had practically no scrimmage outside of that in the Camp Dix game, since its organization. The team had no serious military drill. The workouts are more or less easy, and the men are out there to enjoy themselves rather than to imitate football players in colleges.

It is an interesting fact that the Tiger varsity had had practically no scrimmage outside of that in the Camp Dix game, since its organization. The team had no serious military drill. The workouts are more or less easy, and the men are out there to enjoy themselves rather than to imitate football players in colleges.

How They Practice As an example of the manner in which the Tigers practice are conducted, work of last week may be cited. Coach Sanford, the Tigers' head coach, journeyed over from New Brunswick with a bagful of explanations concerning his "multiple kick," which he introduced about a year ago. Sanford explained the theory of the play, and then the "Tigers" put in about an hour practicing the kick. They did not plan to use it; they were merely interested in its execution and so they spent an enjoyable afternoon learning its intricacies. Rush then put his squad through a brief drill in signals, and gave his kickers a workout. The Tigers do not intend to be entirely unprepared, if they meet a strong Army team.

It is not known what team the "Tigers" will engage. They have several invitations. One is from a team at Fort Slocum for a game in Buffalo. The men themselves are anxious for this trip, but it is not considered likely that it will be allowed by the college authorities.

BOY SCOUT DEMONSTRATION Marysville, Pa., Nov. 6.—Members of Troop L, Boy Scouts of America, will give a public demonstration in Diamond Hall on Thursday evening. A delightful program will be rendered, which will consist of first aid drills, signaling, life-saving and athletic stunts.

MAJOR LEAGUE MAGNATES HAVE SPLEEPLSS NIGHTS; NEXT SEASON IN DOUBT

New York, Nov. 6.—Baseball magnates, players and followers of the game in general, are almost unanimous in expression of the opinion that the coming winter months will witness important changes in the methods and arrangements governing the professional end of the national sport. It appears certain that out of the mass of suggestions and proposed changes radical certain developments will occur relative to the conduct of the business end of the game during the duration of the war at least.

Both major and minor league magnates will discuss and consider numerous suggestions looking toward improvement of conditions existing at the present time during the coming annual meetings. While no hasty action will be taken it is considered likely that several innovations both in combination and conduct of the sport will be adopted before the season of 1918 is reached. Owing to the difference of opinion on these points among the various clubowners, it is difficult to name the proposals which may eventually be enacted in baseball law, but there has been no dearth of these, both from official and unofficial sources.

Plans for Next Season Among the plans advanced are the following: Shorter season and schedule in the major leagues, coupled with a suggestion to start the world series several weeks earlier than has been the case in recent years; curtailment of the number of players now permitted to each club and a reduction of the present salaries; the shifting of one or more club franchises to new and more profitable fields of patronage; the elimination of long and expensive southern training trips; rearrangement of the schedules with the idea of reducing the large annual transportation bills; readjustment or combination of minor league circuits in order to provide more attractive and lucrative play.

It is exceedingly doubtful if all of these suggestions are adopted, but it is equally certain that some will find their way into the codes or agreements of the league since those in charge realize that baseball, like all other sports, is confronted by conditions which are far from normal. An example of these conditions can be cited in the draft problem which confronts the magnates. A number of major and minor league players will probably be lost to the game in this manner before the spring practice begins and their places must be filled. It is expected that the big league clubs will draw upon the minors for war-time substitutes. If this is done both the quality and quantity of play may be affected. Viewed from any angle, the position of the baseball magnate cannot be compared to the proverbial bed of roses at this time.

COMRADES In every home in England you will find their wishful faces. Where, weary of adventure, lying lonely by the fire, Untempted by the sunlight and the call of open spaces They are listening, listening, listening for the step of their desire.

And, watching, we remember all the tried and neverfailing: The good ones and the game ones that have run the years at heel; Old Scamp, that killed the badger single-handed by the railing, And Fan, the champion ratter, with her fifty off the reel.

The bitches under Ranksboro' with hackles up for slaughter, The other hounds on Irton as they part the alder bowers, The tufters drawing to their stay above the Horner Watter, The setters on Ben Lomond when the purple heather flowers.

The collie climbing Cheviot to head his hill sheep stringing, The Dandie digging to his fox among the Lakeside scars, The Clumber in the marshes when the evening flight is winking, And the wild geese coming over through the rose light and the stars.

And my heart goes out in pity to each faithful one that's fretting, Day by day in cot or castle, with his dim eyes on the door, In his dreams he hunts with sorrow, And for us there's no forgetting That he helped our love of England, and he hardened us for war.—W. H. O., in "Punch."

REMEMBERING THE ALAMO "Remember the Alamo" used to be a slogan of revenge. It could also be used even now as a tradition for battle. It is one of the answers that America gave the world when an American force was overpowered from 15 to 20 to 1.

There was no surrender here—and no disorderly rout. The answer still stands: "Thermopylae had three messengers of defeat; the Alamo had none."

NOT ALWAYS "Base hits in baseball," comments an exchange, "are the leading details upon offense. They are the run-getters and the game-winners." But are they? In the American League last season the Athletics ran up 1,291 base hits.

They made more base hits than the White Sox, the Red Sox or the Cleveland Indians, who finished 1-2-3. The White Sox made only 1,283 hits, the Red Sox 1,241 and the Indians 1,225. Yet those clubs set the pace, while the Athletics finished last.

The only club that made more hits than the Athletics were the Tigers, and they finished fifth. Hits, apparently, are not everything in an offense.

Which recalls the fact that the Reds last season made more hits than any major league team from either circuit. But the Reds didn't score the most runs or win the most games.

What value should be attached to runs? Well, the Athletics scored more runs than the Red Sox or the Indians. They scored a good many more runs than the Red Sox or the Indians.

In football a strong offense may prove a good defense. But in baseball a weak defense may wipe out a stout offense on any given afternoon or through any given season.

THE FUN OF IT? "Don't forget," writes a representative from one of the smaller colleges, "it was no fun for us to carry on a football team this year. All our veterans are gone. We have to put in most of our spare time in drilling and other military work. And we know in our football games it is merely a question as to whether we get beat 20 to 0 or 40 to 0. We simply went through with it because the Government asked every one to do so. In my opinion, it is institutions of this type, and there are many of them, who deserve more credit than any winning team does."

Seven hundred thousand men and boys, taking in large part from indoor jobs and put out in the open air under boxing instructors and football instructors—that's one good side of war if it hasn't another.

THE WINNERS Those who hold their heads on high, Those who look with fearless eye, Those who do not fear to die, These are men no might can drop; Those who look beyond the night, Those who see in darkness light, One more day in which to fight, These are men no death can stop.

"Are Tey Cobb and Eddie Collins eligible for the draft?"—L. L. H. In the records we have Cobb won't be thirty-one years old until December, while Collins won't be thirty-one until next May. Walter Johnson won't be thirty years old until Tuesday, so he, too, is in line.

PRaises MANY FOR BIG LEADER

Writer Tells Why Baseball Is Safe With John K. Tener

That baseball is safe with John K. Tener as National League president is the general belief. Throughout the United States strong commendation is heard for the popular leader. A New York writer says: "The National League is to be congratulated upon its decision to re-elect John K. Tener as president for five years more at the meeting of the league in December. One of the reasons why the American League has had the edge on its rival during the past decade has been the constant shifting of authority in the older major organization, while Earl Johnson has ruled supreme and unhampered. Tener has made mistakes during the years that he has been the chief executive of the National League. His most lamentable lapse was in the handling of the announcement of the declaration of peace with the Federal League. But he has been an honest one. They have been mistakes of judgment rather than bungling or intent to mislead, or a desire to be unfair."

Has Big Job

"The job of bossing a major league is a big one. It is one that requires fact as well as ability. It takes a man of high character and high ability. It is significant that Tener's one glaring error was made when he was new to the game of running the league and the prospective price of beef, he says."

"Farmers seem to be getting over their fear of the future on beef-making," he said, in discussing the cattle situation in Pennsylvania. Reports show that during the past few weeks they have taken on a lot of feeders. In this way they are acting wisely. Western ranchmen are reported as cleaning up their herds owing to the shortage of winter feed. This is putting hundreds of ranch cattle on the market for slaughter and they are taking the place of good native 'killers'. The result is a depression in the price of natives.

"Incidentally it is not the larger ranchmen who are cleaning up, but the smaller ones. Many cattle perished last year and the ranchmen are not taking chances on the coming year, and are anxious to get rid of their surplus stock."

"Incidentally they have been studying Washington food legislation and are not sure that some food legislation will be passed which will hit them hard."

Free After 17 Years Behind Prison Walls

Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 6.—Edward Sutherland stepped from the penitentiary into a land of strange things and made his way into Walla Walla that he almost failed to recognize. He was the oldest prisoner in the institution and seventeen years of his life were spent there.

Sutherland was sent up for twenty-eight years in 1900 for attacks on women and girls.

Sutherland was taken to the penitentiary to save him from mob violence after being identified by young girls who had been attacked. He was convicted on two charges, one brought by a young girl and another by an older woman, and was given fourteen years for each offense. He was past middle age at that time and left prison to-day aged and feeble, a mere shadow of his former self.

CASH $47.05 PER CAPITA Money of the United States Has Increased $1,000,000,000 in a Year.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Money in circulation in the United States has increased to $1,924,928,348, a per capita of circulation of $47.05, the highest ever recorded, and exceeding the figure of a year ago by almost 55. The increase is due almost entirely to the tremendous increase in the issue of Federal Reserve banknotes. Notwithstanding the Government's efforts to withdraw gold coin from circulation as far as possible, the amount of gold coin in circulation at the present time is $371,000,000 more than it was a year ago.

ACADEMY STARTS NEW GUN CLUB

Members Enroll at Meeting Yesterday; Plan Series of Contests

Students at the Harrisburg Academy met yesterday afternoon and organized a new gun club. This sport will be under the direction of William B. Jackson, a new member of the faculty. Plans were discussed for a series of matches. The new club starts with fourteen members. Practice shoots will be held each week on the grounds of the Harrisburg Sportsmen's Association. Contests will be arranged with teams from local high schools and preparatory and high school teams from outside of the city.

Raise Beef, Is Advice of Lieut. Gov. McClain

Farmers of Pennsylvania will make no mistake in undertaking the raising of beef, according to Lieutenant Governor Frank B. McClain. A safe margin has been established between the cost of "feeder" cattle and the prospective price of beef, he says.

"Farmers seem to be getting over their fear of the future on beef-making," he said, in discussing the cattle situation in Pennsylvania. Reports show that during the past few weeks they have taken on a lot of feeders. In this way they are acting wisely. Western ranchmen are reported as cleaning up their herds owing to the shortage of winter feed. ## Trapshooters to Hold Conference in New York

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—The annual meeting of the National Trapshooting Association for the Encouragement of Trapshooting will be held at the Astor Hotel, New York, November 8. This meeting is of interest to the devotees of trapshooting for at this time selection of the cities for the 1918 subsidiary handicap and the Grand American Trapshooting Tournament will be made. Officers, too, will be chosen.

Spokane and Los Angeles are keen for the Pacific Coast handicap, and Chicago and Peoria are bidding for the Western handicap. Omaha is willing to take the Western handicap every year, for the businessmen of the city are interested in the handicap and lack the tournament. Peoria has never figured much in a tournament way, but has a good club and the businessmen of the city are behind the movement to take the handicap there.

Birmingham, Louisville and Baltimore are bidders for the Southern handicap, and the Forrest Hills Club, New York; Wilmington, Del.; Butler, Pa., and Baltimore are the bidders for the Eastern handicap. Baltimore is making an effort to land the South in some sections; in the East in others. The Interstate officers will decide where it should be placed.

The South Shore Country Club of Chicago and the Toledo (Ohio) Gun Club are the only contenders for the Grand American Trapshooting tournament. It is said the South Shore Club would be willing to take the tournament for a number of years. No better place could be selected for holding the big carnival.

Coach Jim Ten Eyck Rows Long Distance

New York, Nov. 6.—Word comes from Syracuse that Coach Jim Ten Eyck, who has been in Syracuse, completed a pleasure jaunt of 150 miles in a rowboat on last Monday, which took him from New York to Albany.

The veteran rowing mentor left this city entirely unheralded and took his time in making the trip. Apparently, he retraced the journey as no feat whatever, although Ten Eyck is already well past the three-score mark in years, and merely undertakes the expedition for the love of rowing.

He used a craft built somewhat after the pattern of the lifeboats used on the Hudson river, but was considerably lighter. Despite his years, Ten Eyck made time for which many younger oarsmen would envy him. On the last day of the trip up the Hudson he left Coxsack at 9 o'clock in the morning and reached Albany between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

FAREWELL FOR MISS STINE

Annville, Pa., Nov. 6.—Miss Cora Bummer, who has been in Harrisburg a farewell party for Miss Josephine B. Stine, who left for Mont Alto, where the family will live in the future. Roy Light entertained the gathering and Miss Emily Shetty sang. The following were present: The Misses Josephine Stine, Emily Shetty, Lydia Besser, Anna Whiz over, Dorothy Fencil, Alma Houser, Josephine Ketterling and Cora Bummer and the Messrs. Adam Miller, John McClure, Paul Taylor, Calley Stone, Elsheri Light, Huber Stine, Roy Light and Harry Durborrow.

WELLY'S CORNER

Prof. Charles S. Davis, principal of the Steelton High school, is a strong advocate of clean sport. He does not look for any further trouble when Steelton meets local teams. Strong police protection will be provided at the game Saturday when Tech plays at Steelton. It is also understood there will be Central Board officials who will have a big part in preventing outbreaks.

The organization of a gun club at the Harrisburg Academy promises interesting sport. Last year much interest was manifested in trapshooting by local high schools. The Academy shooter will have a good tutor in W. B. Jackson.

Central High eleven will meet Reading at Island Park Saturday afternoon. Both elevens are about equal in weight. Central has more veterans, but Reading has been winning games through speed.

Not a few voters in Harrisburg today carried guns when they went to the polls. They were not anticipating any trouble. Election day is a holiday for many, and after voting the hunters take to the fields. Among the features planned for

ONLY ARMY-NAVY GAME IS SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY; PATRONESSES ARE LISTED

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—What promise to be one of the greatest social and athletic events of the year will be the football game next Saturday at Franklin Field between the U. S. Ambulance Corps of Allentown and the U. S. Marine Corps of the League Island Navy yard.

Arrangements for the game were perfected at a recent conference between Colonel Benjamin Franklin of the Ambulance Corps, and Captain Pierce of the Marines, held at the United Service Club. Owing to the fact that many players of both teams have achieved a national reputation on the gridiron, it is expected the game will attract wide attention.

It will be the only event of the year between the two branches of service and will doubtless absorb the interest and enthusiasm of former Army-Navy games. John C. Bell has

Atlantic Polarine Saves Gasoline

FRICITION in your automobile-engine, caused by thickening of oil in Fall and Winter weather, reduces power so that as much as five miles may be lost per gallon of gasoline. Thousands of motorists save this gasoline by using Atlantic Polarine.

Atlantic Polarine is the year-round motor lubricant. It flows freely on the coldest days. It protects bearings and prolongs the life of the motor. It keeps the motor remarkably free from carbon-deposit.

Atlantic Polarine is a medium-bodied oil, heavy
