First Americans to Die For America in the Trenches

PRIVATE JAMES BEGRESHAM

The three first young Americans to die for America in the trenches in France were Merle D. Hay, of Glidden, Ia.; James B. Gresham of Evansville, Ind., where there is a large German population, and Thomas F Enright of Pittsburgh, Pa. It is believed they were at the town of Parroy, where the Rhine-Marne Canal intersects the battle line, a place very near the German boundary. Hay, who was a farmer at Glidden, enlisted in the army May 10. He leaves a mother and father and sister and brother. Gresham's home was in Evansville, where he leaves a mother. She broke down when told of i.is death. Enright enlisted in the army eight years ago. He was in the Sixteenth Infantry when he went to France with the Pershing forces.

Need of Clean Recreation in France Impressed on Maj. Gen. Clement

TER—WRITE IT NOW

A couple of soldiers have rehearsed a sketch; they get upon the stage there at the far end and give it—exceedingly well. A "strong man" from the ranks twists horseshoes into bow knots. "The Human Pincushion"—who is Private Jones in military life—thrusts needles into his cheek and likes it. From somewhere "up the line" a rusty motorcarbrings a group of Y. M. C. Asspeakers* and entertainers that hold the men's attention for an hour more, and answer their demands for encores almost as long as they are repeated. It is a pity, you think, that there are not more entertainers; the men are so obviously hungry for them. x x x.

The hut was full. Now it overflows. Soldiers hang in at the windows. Some soldiers can neither force an entrance through their comrades at the door nor squeeze a head between the heads that crowd the window sills.

They have to go away. It is a pity that they have to go away.
