LADS DO THEIR BIT FOR UNCLE SAM'S LIBERTY BONDS

The Liberty Loan Bond campaign of the Boy Scouts of America has been a wonderful success, returns so far at national headquarters in New York City showing $4,813,750 collected from 266,223 subscribers.

Incomplete returns from six leading cities show the following: St. Paul, $3,452,450; St. Louis, $5,925,000; Memphis, $2,714,450; Philadelphia, $1,930,000; Cleveland, $1,631,000; New York, $1,585,050.

Chicago Scout Executive James E. West is confident that when all the cities and towns in which the 12,633 scout troops are located are heard from the total will run well over $100,000,000.

What the Boy Scouts of America collected in their first campaign at the close of the campaign at the direct request of President Wilson. He wanted them to make a house-to-house canvass after the field had been covered, and from Maine to the Hawaiian Islands the scouts have done their best.

Scout Executive Burnham telegraphed Honolulu that fifty-five Boy Scouts of America sold 420 bonds for $50,000 and that fourteen of them qualified for the War Service medal awarded by the Government to scouts that sold bonds in ten or more homes.

Troop No. 1 in Tuxedo, New York, of which C. P. Manning is scoutmaster, reports that twenty-six of the twenty-seven scouts in the troop sold bonds, there being 422 applications for $34,054. Tuxedo had an allotment of $200,000 for its 2,500 inhabitants.

Colorado Springs reports 428 subscriptions for $60,000. Six scouts sold twenty-five or more bonds and at least twenty will qualify for War Service emblems.

Sumner, Wyoming, Troop No. 1, sold 130 bonds for $12,100. Nine homes in every ten in the town took a bond and twenty-eight per cent of the population now own one.

Birmingham, Alabama, reports a total of 2,584 applications for $1,416,600. Every troop of scouts in Birmingham bought a bond for themselves.

Rochester, Pennsylvania, Boy Scouts report $188,000 worth of bonds sold. The Bankers' Association confirms the opinion that the scouts' efforts saved Beaver county from failure and made the Liberty Loan a success there.

Scout William Ehrlich, of Brookline, Mass., heard a speaker on Boston Common announce that he would give his subscription for a bond to the first boy who called on him for it on a certain date. Young Ehrlich set his alarm clock and at one minute after midnight he was roused by the man on the other side of the telephone of the Liberty Bond promise—which was made good.

Scout Executive Burnham telegraphed Honolulu that fifty-five Boy Scouts of America sold 420 bonds for $50,000 and that fourteen of them qualified for the War Service medal awarded by the Government to scouts that sold bonds in ten or more homes.

Troop 4 has been doing many good turns. On October 20 seven scouts and the scoutmaster went to Rutherford Heights to give an entertainment. Some first aid stunts and signaling were pulled off. The scouts that attended this received one point on the troop efficiency chart.

George Beard, who is the champion tennis player of Troop 4, was presented a medal by the tennis committee of the troop.

Troop 4 was represented in the recruiting parade and in the presentation of the medals. In one of the work shops of this city a hoist was being fixed. The knot was improperly tied and the bucket fell and hurt a man. A former member of Troop 4 stepped up and tied a knot that held. He had seen this knot tied seven years before by a sailor at one of Troop 4's meetings.

Troop 4 has a novel way of learning the international code. The scouts sit on one side of the room and the scoutmaster on the other side. He signals with his flashlight for the scouts to do something. The first one that does it gets a penny. Of course, in the end everyone puts their pennies in the Christmas box. The money of this box goes to make poor people happy on Christmas.

BOY SCOUTS HAVE ENCOUNTER WITH GYPSIES The following story, verified by the scoutmaster of Troop 13, has been written up in the Scout page by Stanley D. Neese, Dawson Farnwalt, Edward Harris and William Olsen:

"Four scouts of Troop 13 were hiking at Pumpkin Hollow. They happened to hear horses; they looked around and saw two men with beards driving the horses. They tried to get across the heads until the blood appeared. After they passed us, two women came up to us and asked us if we saw two gypsy men. We told them that we thought they were farmers.

"They told us to go over to a house because there were three children in the house alone and they were afraid something would happen. We went over and when the gypsies saw us they got on the wagon and went as fast as they could. We asked the children's names and they are Alice Stoner, Gretta Stoner and Kermit Smith, and no doubt they were trying to kidnap these children."

Troop 6 is anxiously awaiting League Opening Managers have been elected for two teams. Roy Reel will manage the heavier team made up of boys over one hundred and fifteen pounds and Stanley Fellows will manage the lighter team.

Members of the troop are requested to sit at Sunday school at the Olivet Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon. This date has been set aside as "Father and Son Day." One of the speakers will be J. H. Stine, scout executive.

Every member of the troop is urged to be present at the regular meeting on Monday evening as subjects of importance will be discussed.

V. L. HUNTSBERGER, Scoutmaster.

TEAM CAPTAINS ELECTED BY MEMBERS OF TROOP 13 A meeting was held by Troop 13 Monday evening. Mr. Kaiser, scoutmaster, read to us two letters from scouts. One was from one of the four boys of our troop who entered the service for Uncle Sam's Army, while the other was from our assistant scoutmaster, Mr. Keller, who has entered Lafayette. Both letters were of interest. Plans were also discussed for the organization of teams, which were opened to all members of the troop. West was elected captain of the Purple side; Pie, captain of Blue; Kiecedorf, captain of White, and Hillegas, captain of Red. After the meeting combined teams of Purple and White clashed with the Red and Blue teams in basket ball and bowling. A few scouts who did not take part in either event played some of the scout games.

BENNETHUM HILLEGAS, Scout Scribe.

TROOP 11 TO TAKE A LONG HIKE TOMORROW As there were several important activities last Saturday to take place, Troop 11 did not take a hike. There will, however, be a hike tomorrow. It will be arranged for at a meeting at 7:30 o'clock.

Proceeds of Festival to Buy Scout Uniforms

Troop 20 plans an ambitious festival to take place on Friday, November 30, at the Fifth Street Methodist Episcopal Church. Friends and parents of the boys are co-operating to make the affair a huge success and the members of the men's Bible class plan to handle the ticket sale. Fifteen hundred tickets will be issued and the proceeds will be used to uniform the more than twenty troop members until such time as they may individually pay back the cost of their suits.

Many novel and beautiful booths and attractions are planned for this occasion and a large supply of cakes, candies and ice cream will be prepared for vending to the crowd that is expected to attend. G. PARK WEAVER, Acting Scribe.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN IS BEGUN BY TROOP 8 A membership campaign has been started by members of Troop 8. At the last meeting everyone present promised to bring either a new member or get one of the old ones who have dropped away during the summer to return. A troop flag has been ordered and is expected every day. R. POSTER SHADER, Acting Scribe. Use Telegraph Want Ads
