State Making Big Inquiry Into Cars

State Agricultural officials announced today that it was probable that attention of Herbert Hoover would be called to conditions surrounding unloading cars filled with foodstuffs in Pittsburgh yards as well as in Philadelphia. The inquiry began at Philadelphia last week was only part of a series, one of which has been under way in the Pittsburgh district for several days. The situation at Scranton, Erie, Harrisburg and other places will also be watched closely. Mr. Hoover will be asked not only to fix a time for the unloading of cars of food but to have the federal government help the state government in running down men who pay demurrage to avoid unloading cars and throwing produce on markets. The State Bureau of Markets has authority to seize cars if food is going to waste. A statement issued.

The Bureau of Markets will take immediate steps to correct the conditions as it exists in the Pittsburgh district. It is likely that five days will be asked for a time for potatoes and perishable vegetable and that ten days will be the limit allowed for unloading grain. Another step completed is the sealing stocks in all cars where there is an indication of waste and the enforced storage or sale of such produce.

PATTON BOOSTS SHEEP RAISING

Secretary Says the State Can Make Money in Mutton and Wool

With the new dog law effective on the first of the year renewed interest has been created in sheep raising and numerous agencies are following the lead advocated eighteen months ago by Secretary of Agriculture Charles E. Patton, to bring about greater interest in the sheep industry in the State.

Over a year ago Secretary Patton started a movement to secure more sheep in the State and so successful were his efforts that for the first time in ten years there was no decline in the sheep last year, but an actual increase of a few thousand sheep against a normal decline of about 25,000 yearly. Some of the plans which the Secretary of Agriculture had outlined for the farmer in furnishing them sheep did not materialize owing to the lack of funds, but thousands of farmers have found it was a paying side issue of their farms and secured small flocks of ewes which have been materially increased this year.

The new dog law will protect the sheep raiser and the response of county officials show that they are eager to enforce the law and give the farmer every protection against stragglers. We 1 is selling at a record high price and many farmers who have available ground are preparing to place a few sheep on their farms.

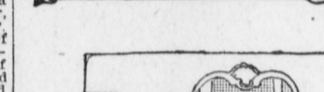

The experience of one farmer who with an original investment of one hundred dollars for ewes shows that profit is being made. In the spring nine ewes produced fourteen lamb which were sold for $150.84 and the wool brought an additional $44.00 or a total of $194.84 on the original investment of one hundred dollars. The farmer still retains the nine ewes which are worth in the market today about $125.00.
