

DRAFT BOARDS PASS FEW MEN

Cumberland County Districts Fail to Get Sufficient Eligibles to Fill Quota

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 16.—District No. 1 draft board got a bare seven per cent. of eligibles as the result of physical examinations held yesterday. SCHOLARS DIG POTATOES
Corvallis, Mont.—The largest potato crop ever grown in this section of the state is being harvested. Of-fers of $4 a day by the farmers were not sufficient to bring the needed men into the fields to handle the crop. Many schools have closed and students and teachers have taken to the fields to gather the crop.

VI CHANGE OF PRISONERS

Vienna, Austria, (via Berne)—It is announced that after efforts extending over many months the Austrian Government has succeeded in arranging with Russia for an exchange of civilian prisoners. The agreement is that both sides will permit all males under 18 and over 50 to return to their respective countries, irrespective of number, as well as men between those ages, whose physical condition is such as would be held to justify the repatriation of a prisoner of war. Meanwhile, all women and girls will be repatriated without distinction as to age. The possibility of an exchange of such people as do not come under the categories described is also left open, but the present agreement provides for the exchange of hostages and other persons carried off by the invading armies on either side during the course of hostilities.

Next Friday bids for the erection of the new junior high school on Allison Hill will be opened by the board at its next session.

The teachers' committee this afternoon recommended the appointment of J. E. Belt, of Wellsboro, to the Tech high school faculty to succeed Professor J. D. Reminger, who resigned when he was called for Army service. The committee also suggested an indefinite leave of absence for Professor Reminger for the duration of the war. Lord Northcliffe, newspaper proprietor and head of the British mission to the United States, has declined to become head of the new air ministry in the British cabinet. His refusal, he explained in a letter to Premier Lloyd George, is due to dissatisfaction with some of the methods of the Premier's administration. "The farmers realize," Mr. Strayer said, "of the great responsibility that rests upon them in this great world crisis. The falacy that we are opposed to you and you to us should be corrected."

President Townly urged the Federation to co-operate in putting field and factory war products on the market at lower prices and in greater quantities.

"Let the two great classes of producers join hands behind the government in this war," he said. "Let us put down the profiteer. We would find, in a surprisingly short time, that our people at home will be better and more economically fed, our forces at the front better and more economically equipped."

Can the Bolsheviki Strangle Free Russia?

No hopeless view of the Bolsheviki uprising in Petrograd is taken by American editorial observers altho it is frankly recognized that the plan for a separate Russo-German peace might help solve Germany's food problem and release many German soldiers from the Eastern front. In the view of an Associated Press correspondent, just returned from Petrograd, however, the uprising gives the Bolsheviki the rope with which to hang themselves, and this view is shared by the well-informed Russkoye Slovo, a Russian daily published in New York.

"The Bolsheviki may occupy all the palaces and strongholds of Petrograd," remarks this Russian journal, "as they did during their insurrection last July; they may impose their will briefly upon the members of the Government and claim control of the capital, but they can not dominate for more than a brief period, the indignant, loyal forces of the Russian nation."

For a clear explanation and understanding of the causes leading up to, and the possible outcome of, the overturning of the Kerensky Government you should read THE LITERARY DIGEST for November 17th. By direct quotation from leading journals, American and foreign, the reader is able to obtain a clear knowledge of all the facts in this very critical juncture in the world's war.
