lawn. The couple live in a queer colony on a California beach, where abandoned street cars are used for homes. The next car neighbors are Grace Miller, a portly domestic person with a lisp, and her husband Harry who runs to red necklies and pooloom cigars.
The Robins and the Milkers get an idea that they are mismated and the plot to rearrange the matrimonia alignment by way of the divorce court. As usual, the last few minutes straighten out all the kinks.
The book for "So Long Lett?" was written by Mr. Morosco, the producer and Elmer Harris, while Earl Carroli provided the music and lyrics. These cases in the same men who wrote "Ganarg Cottage," another of Mr. Morosco's successful plays. "A typical Morosco's cast" has been assembled for the principals, and there is a large chorus of California beauties.

In this instance, the book was dramatized by Miss Wiggin, in collaboration with Rachel Crothers, and has been termed as "a comedy of home," and will be shown here on the stage of the Orpheum for an engage-ment of two Gays, beginning next Tuesday, with a Tuesday matinee, after a season of three months at the Cort Theater, New York City. The story has to do with a critical period in a naval officer's family, in which the love and tact of Mother Carey and her four children, Nancy, Gilbert, Kathlee and little Peter, are led to dapt themselves to the conditions of the family. Every theatergoer will leve Mother Carey and sympathize with her in her trials and rejoice in the vicies of the interesting brood. The cast will be the original one, headed by Antoinette Walker, who originated the role of Nancy Carey in the premier of the play. Norma Talmadge, already famous in film circles as the "Empress Josephine" of the Movies," beause of het strong peterence for result for appearing at the Colonial frandeur generally, is the star of "The Moth," the new Selsnick production appearing at the Colonial Theater to-day and to-morrow. Picture a wilful firl of wealth still in her 'teens be-reft of all parental guidance and fas-cinated by the subject of Cleopatra's conquests, and you, have established the character of Lucy Gillam, the role played by Miss Talmadge in this pic-ture. "Cleopatra held to her throne by dint of wonderful manipulation of Marc Antony ended a series of his-tory-making romance. She firited her way to immortality." That pass-age in a book excited Lucy's imagina-tion, "The Moth" shows its charm-ing star in some of the most beauti-ful gowns she has ever worn before the camera. It is also noted for the beauty of the scenes, some of which were taken at Miss Talmadge's coun-try estate, Bechurst.

A drunken bank rob-ber in the garret, two frightened girls on the second floor, and a young man being initiated into a college frater-nity on the first floor in a haunted house. This is the condition at the opening of "The Ghost House." To-morrow and Thursday abother double attraction is soneduled. Win-some Vivian Martin will appear in "The Trouble Buster." and a Mack Sennett comedy, entitled Are Walt-resses Safe?" will be presented. There are "society" films, films showing the struggles of the poor to make a liv-ing, and films dealing with the lives of the ultra-rich. A photoplay that combines all these phases of life and still others is to be found in "The Trouble Buster." It is the story of a beautiful young girl's plucky fight against adversity and misfortune. It is a play of romance.
