City Inspector of Weights and Measures to Visit All Markets Tomorrow

Continuing his campaign to compel all dealers in the city markets who dities in paper or wooden containers to give a full pound of the food product not including the weight of the container, Harry D. Reel, City Inspector of Weights and Measures, said to-day he will visit the markets again to-morrow and any cases of short weight brought to his attention will be prosecuted.

again to-morrow and any short weight brought to his attention will be prosecuted.

Mr. Reel's warning to consumers in the city making purchases in city markets has brought splendid results he stated to-day. "The persons making purchases of lard and britter should see that they get net weight of the commodity plus the weight of the container. Some of the dealers are fair and honest and when they weigh a pound of lard using a wooden container, they put one on each side of the scale. In some instances where a chart scale is used the dealers note the weight of the container and then add the full pound to it. This is the only fair and honest method and any person who finds he has been given short weight should communicate with me at once so that prosecutions can be started."

Mr. Reel stated he has just completed testing practically all the large scales used by coal dealers in the city and has found them in good condition. He is also making an inspection of scales used by junk dealers, and while a few have been condemned, the majority of them give standard weight.
