TO ROUSE ALLIES HIS AIM, SAYS PREMIER

His Paris speech was a considered tterance, the Premier added, and ad been submitted to the war cabinet.

The Premier told the House arrangements had been made to supply information in regard to naval matters to the war council.

The Premier said that any criticism which he had directed against the conduct of affairs in the past in proposing the change was not directed against any staffs or commander-in-chief of this or any other country.

Kitchener For Allied Council

In 1915, the Premier continued, ord Kitchener suggested an interdilled council. It was again proposed ast July by the military heads of the allies.

As far as he could gauge, public opinion in America would have preferred a council with executive powers, but there were reasons why he thought it undesirable to set up a council with full executive authority unless the allies were absolutely driven to it by failure of the present scheme.

Wilson Will Insist on Concerted Action to Bring Victory

Washington, Nov. 20.—Fresident Wilson is more convinced than ever that the only way to win the war is through absolute co-operation of allied effort. Colonel House has full powers both in London and Paris to represent this belief of the President in any way which he thinks the situation demands.

The attitude of the United States in any way which he thinks the situation demands.

The attitude of the United States will be that absolute unity of action must be attained by no matter what means. The United States, it was pointed out here to-day, has already deferred to the consensus of allied judgment in many economic and financial matters, so far as the consensus of judgment could be determined. It is expected that Colonel thouse will allude to this in insisting that some of the allies will have to give way in submitting their military and naval judgment to the decisions of a centralized agency of control.

This has been the contention of General Pershing since he went to France and it will be insisted upon anew now by Colonel House.

Considerable confusion seems to exist in many official quarters as to just what the powers and functions of Colonel House may be. It was indicated at the White House and State begaring the control of the United States, just he Lloyd George and Premier Clemenceau represent ons.

Constant touch is maintained beween Colonel House and the White House. The President, it was stated to-day, remains up to a late hour each night himself coding and decodeach night himself coding and decoding the messages which come and go almost constantly between him and his special representative.

The President gave further evidence of his efforts to speed up war work in this country. He appointed Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, who has been chairman of the advisory commission of the council of national defense, to be chairman of the war industries board.

defense, to be chairman of the war industries board.

This board, it is now understood, is to be given additional powers until it becomes the central controlling body, so greatly needed to co-ordinate and under the properties and under the properties and under the properties and the control of the control so greatly needed to co-ordinate and unify war preparation activities.

The President summoned to the White House the members of the aircraft board. Secretary of War Baker and Secretary of the Navy Daniels and inquired closely into the progress being made in producing airplanes and training flyers.

Mr. Wilson discussed with Secretary Daniels the progress of the antisubmarine campaign, and Mr. Daniels, commenting upon Lloyd George's announcement that five German submarines were destroyed last Saturday, stated that "more submarines have been destroyed in the last two months than in the entire year theretofore."

Premier's Speech a Parliamentary Triumph

By Associated Press

London, Nov. 20.—The reception of Premier Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons by the morning newspapers justifies the assumption that the storm which lately threatened a crisis has passed, not only without damaging the premier's hold on the country but perhaps even strengthening it. If it conceded, even by big spyonents, that the speeck was in the premier's best meaner and was a parliamentary triumph. Editorial encomiums flow freely from his supporters while the comment of hostile critics lack the flerceness of previous denunciation.

Boy Under Fifteen Sorry He Cannot Get in Army

Recruiting officers this morning received an impression of what real American patriotism really is. A boy under fifteen, who resides "some where in Harrisburg" came marching into the recruiting station at 325 Market street this morning with a light 22 caliber rifle over his right shoulder, and strode up to Lieutenant Long. "Where do you get examined for the Army?" he asked. He was told he was in the right place, but looked to be about three years too early. "Hully gee," he said, beligerently, "If youse could see me snipe sparrows with this gun, you'd be glad to give me a chance at the Germans." Recruiting officer stated that they did not doubt that, but that the regulations would not accept a Recruiting officers this morning re

London, Nov. 20.—None of the numerous allied war councils which have occurred in the past three years have occasioned the same interest as to-day's historic meeting of the American war mission and the British war cabinet for tightening the links that chain the Anglo-American war efforts.

The scene is the dingy old residence in Downing street, which has served the prime ministers of many generations as both home and office, and the room is the council chamber where the destines of the empire have been shaped since the days of the American Revolution.

Lord Reading, the lord chief justice, will preside with Andrew Bonar Law, British chancellor of the exchequer and Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the American treasury at the table beside him. The military and naval heads of both governments and officials representing other departments of war work will be grouped together. Premier Lloyd George planned to be present for the purpose of answering questions. The general work of the meeting constitutes the taking of sock of the resources and needs of both countries and, to some extent of the continental allies.

Before I knew how to keep myself looking young and attractive at an age when most women appear wrinkled and old, I endured all the sharp pangs of neglect from the very ones whose admiration I was most anxious to retain.
