"The Moth," the new Selznick-Picture, in which Norma Talmadge is seen to great advantage as the star, tells the star, of a young society we om an who wastes her time seeking diversion and flirting with fate until sharply brought to her senses by a dramatic incident calculated to thrill the most blase of movie fans. This picture, which is now appearing at the Colonial Theater, is the first of a series of brilliant productions in which this screen favorite will be presented.

forces thus far have been light. Great numbers of German dead lie before the main Hindenburg trench where the bewildered enemy, taken unawares, made a half-hearted attempt to stem the onrushing Britons. The battle was an innovation for the western front, for it was begun without any preliminary artillery work. Upon the army tanks rested the responsibility for victory or defeat, and they fulfilled all expectations. The iron giants went through the tremendous line of barbed wire entanglements in front of the main Hindenburg positions and on over the trenches as though they were on parade.
