

ONE MEAL A DAY WITHOUT WHEAT NOW IS URGED

One-Third of Nation's Wheat Crop Must Be Conserved to Win War

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—In a statement issued here yesterday, Howard Heinz, food administrator for Pennsylvania, calls upon every citizen of the state to restrict its consumption of foodstuffs in which wheat flour is an ingredient, and urges that seven wheatless meals a week be observed in every home.

"The appeal of recent months to the American people for such a conservation of food as would enable us to fulfill our obligations to our own soldiers and our allies abroad have fallen upon willing ears, and the response in patriotism and self-denial has been worthy of the best traditions of this great free nation."

"Notwithstanding, however, our undoubtedly great saving of important food staples, and particularly of wheat, the disappointing crops of the 1917 season and the increased demand greater, through the exigencies of war, than we had expected, has brought us to the verge of a grave crisis in the wheat situation that can only be overcome by a more vigorous self-denial, a far greater degree of saving by the substitution of other foods in the place of wheat, than anything we have before undertaken."

"The demands of those who are helping to fight our battles for the cause of democracy and of their supporters behind the line are urgent, insistent and compelling. They must be met. Any break in the regular movement of supplies from America at this time would mean inevitable disaster and it is a fact which should be understood that our wheat supply is now known to be inadequate to permit a continuance of our present rate of home consumption and to keep our own men and our allies on the firing line through the winter."

"Mr. Hoover has asked that the response to the request for cutting down the consumption of wheat flour be made at once before it is too late. The needs of France, Italy and England, not to mention our own boys at the front, require us to curtail our consumption of wheat by one-third."

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect, 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

WAS DIZZY AND SAW BLACK SPOTS

Felt Miserable and Draggly Always

Says C. Bellman, 1157 Cumberland St., Harrisburg, I was illing with stomach trouble for quite a time, after eating would have sharp pains in stomach and under ribs on my right side, at times got very dizzy and saw black spots.

Could not sleep at night, simply rolled and tossed all night long, and in the morning would get up with a nasty taste in my mouth. My stomach was sore, I felt tired and worn and draggly always. I took a lot of medicine but it did me no good.

Sanpan had fixed up a friend of mine, so I started to take it, and it has straightened me out fine. I have no pains, my stomach is acting nicely, am not nervous, sleep well and feel like a new person, and feel that I must say a good word for Sanpan.

Sanpan is being introduced at Keller's Drug Store, 405 Market St. Harrisburg, where the Sanpan man is explaining it to the people.—adv.

U. S. SCIENTISTS HAVE SUBSTITUTE FOR SALVARSAN

Lockjaw Cure Excites Wide Interest of Noted Medical Authorities

How a dog in the throes of lockjaw, absolutely rigid from the disease was on its feet and walking about, slightly weak, but otherwise as well as might be, within an hour after receiving injections of a solution containing magnesium sulphate—a new boon to medicine—was described and illustrated by photographs yesterday at the afternoon session of the National Academy of Sciences held in the engineering building of the University of Pennsylvania.

The results of the new remedy were described by Dr. Samuel J. Meltzer, of the Rockefeller Institute, who was the first physician in America to test it. Not content, however, merely to describe the operation, Dr. Meltzer showed five plates of the dog upon which the experiments were conducted.

Another announcement that created interest was that two American physicians, Doctors Jacobs and Heideberger, of the Rockefeller Institute, have evolved a new cure for syphilis. The announcement was made by Dr. Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute.

According to Dr. Flexner, the new cure is better than salvarsan—the German discovery—since it is one-third less injurious to the human system, and does not require the third and, whereas salvarsan cost $3.50 a treatment before the war, the new discovery can be administered at five cents a treatment.

The discovery is called "A-189." It is based on arsenic which is also the basis of salvarsan, but according to Dr. Flexner, the principle of the American product is totally different from that of salvarsan. "A-189" denotes the number of modifications of arsenic contained in the product.

While salvarsan increased greatly in price as a result of the war, which was the direct reason why American bacteriologists set about to evolve a new cure for syphilis, as revealed in the discussion which followed Dr. Flexner's paper, may now be manufactured in this country under the alien enemy act. The actual cost of manufacture is about sixty cents a treatment.

Rich Holiday Linens Fresh From Ireland and Scotland

In all Likelihood the Last We'll Receive Until After the War

Table Linens for gift-giving or for holiday dinners are always in great favor at this season of the year, but they are especially desirable at this time on account of the fact that good linens are rare, and very, very hard to get.

So a table set of beautiful linen damask or a pattern cloth with napkins will be the source of much delight.

Several Big Cases Have Just Come to Us From England

Our Manchester office, recognized among linen men in England and Europe as one of the biggest buying factors in the linen trade, worked unceasingly since August to land a lot of worthy linens for the Holiday season.

Several Scotch and Irish makers of fine linens, who had been favored with our big orders before the war, finally agreed to let their reserve stocks go on the basis of last winter's price list.

The Following Letter Explains the Savings That May Be Realized

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND, OCT. 6, 1917.

DIVES, POMEROY & STEWART, HARRISBURG, PENNA., U. S. A. GENTLEMEN:—

Enclosed please find confirmation for your portion of the division of purchases which we have just made. These goods came to us on the basis of the 1917 February list. The July list was advanced over these prices 20% to 25% or more and since the issue of the July list, 30% additional advances have been asked.

In sending these confirmations, manufacturers write that "Spinners are not now allowed to sell yarns required for these fine qualities for other than the manufacture of aeroplane cloths," so under these conditions we think this lot can be regarded as exceptionally low in price. Within a comparatively short time no fine cloths can be had whatever, except it be that manufacturers have reserve stocks to draw from.

We trust that our including you in the division for the quantities as noted will meet with your kind approval. Shipment is being made by the first available opportunity.
