Why Go Away With Printing? It would be folly to send to a distant city for water when it is here in abundance; it would be unwise to suffer delay and inconvenience in an effort to procure any commodity that is yours by the simple reaching out and taking hold. From a slightly differing view-point it is also true that you invite delay and disappointment, with no saving in money-value by going out of town with your printing. It has been proven so often that wise business men save postage, telegraph or telephone tolls and are able to keep in personal touch with their order.
