NEW DOG CODE IS EFFECTIVE SOON

Patton Prepares to Send Word to the Various Counties About the New Law

Secretary of Agriculture Chas. E. Patton will next week call attention of all the county authorities to the fact that the new dog license code of 1917 will become effective with the new year and that on or before January 15 licenses for every dog will have to be taken out. Unlicensed dogs are to be killed and between sunset and sunrise all dogs must either be penned up, chained or tied or "under reasonable control of some person." The secretary will give notice that the act will be rigorously enforced from January 15 as it was passed to protect sheep and other domestic animals which state authorities, and various organizations are endeavoring to encourage to increase the meat and wool supplies. A system of licenses for all dogs and of rewards for destruction of all dogs unlicensed is provided.

Under the terms of the new law counties will license the dogs and as a means to secure uniformity Secretary Patton has suggested a barrel-shaped tag with a clover leaf form for kennels. As a number of counties had given their orders for tags before the suggestions reached them there will be various forms next year, but it is hoped to have the counties all using one type in 1919.

Press Are Clean

—State Forestry Commissioner Robert S. Conklin in a statement issued at his office today declared that the state was giving way surplus trees to aid reforestation and that the state "is not giving them away because damaged or infected. The statement says that some farmers feared to take the free trees from the state for fear of infection and that the department wishes to say that "these state trees are as clean as any in America." The law says that the trees must be planted in Pennsylvania and must not be sold.

Governor a Speaker

—Governor Brumbaugh was a speaker at the big patriotic meetings in Philadelphia yesterday. He will be here late today.

Want Toll Gates Taken Down

—York people have petitioned the state and county authorities to unite in removing a number of the toll gates in that county. Commissioner O'Neil will make some inspections when the weather becomes decent.

FIRE DAMAGES DWELLING

—Franklintown, Pa., Dec. 18.—Soot in the chimney taking fire yesterday afternoon at the home of Henry Wonder, two miles from here, while the house was temporarily in charge of Mrs. Celia Hess, and a young son, almost resulted in the house being destroyed. The flames quickly communicated to the hantle and waingoting in the kitchen, doing about $125 worth of damage. Several kerosene lamps on the mantle exploded and sent the flaming coil over the kitchen floor. Neighbors extinguished the blaze. The loss is covered by insurance.

MRS. ELRICH KELLER DIES

—Columbia, Pa., Dec. 18.—Mrs. Barbara Catharine Keller, wife of Ulrich Keller, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. E. Keller, Sr., aged 83 years.

This is what Henry P. Davison, partner in J. P. Morgan & Company, one of the financial powers of America, and now chief executive of the Red Cross, told the people of Omaha about American women:
"If I had the choice of $500,000 for Red Cross work, or $100,000 plus the aid of the women of America, I would turn down the $500,000 and take the women and the $100,000,000. That's what we of the Red Cross think of the aid of the women."
