

URGES FARMERS TO ATTEND MEET

State College to Give Agriculturalists Result of Latest Experiments

"Every important group of business and professional men take some time during the year to get together for the purpose of discussing and hearing discussed, problems relating to their business.

"Bankers, lawyers, doctors and all businessmen have their conventions and annual meetings.

"It is just as important that the farmers of the state should get together on a similar occasion. Agriculture is more important, at this time than any other business.

"New things in agriculture are constantly being discovered and every farmer should know about them. Farmers' week at State College on December 26th to the 29th inclusive, is an opportunity for our farmers to hear the best men in the country, tell of their experiences and investigations in agriculture.

"The material offered will be good, practical information, that can be put into practice on the home farm. You should take these few days off and see the experiments conducted by the college for your own benefit.

"Farmers' week is as much for the women as it is for the men. The week will be full of lectures and demonstrations, that will be of a practical nature to the women.

"The expense will be moderate, the railroads have authorized rates of 2 cents per mile. Ample living accommodations may be found in the town at from $1.50 to $2 per day.

"Your Farm Bureau and the Lebanon County Farm Bureau are co-operating so that the Dauphin county farmers and the Lebanon county farmers may live in one house. This will be a means of our getting better acquainted.

"When you decide to go, phone or write your farm bureau at once so that your representative can make reservations for you. Let's get together and make this a successful weekend for Dauphin county."

Safe Milk
for Infants and Invalids
HORLICK'S
THE ORIGINAL
MALTED MILK
Rich milk, malted grain, in powder form. For infants, invalids and growing children. Pure nutrition, upbuilding the whole body. Invigorates nursing mothers and the aged. More nutritious than tea, coffee, etc. Instantly prepared. Requires no cooking. Substitutes Cost YOU Same Price

EDITORS AGREE FACTIONAL WARFARE AND PETTY BICKERINGS MUST CEASE

(Continued from First Page.)

the nomination, either as avowed or receptive candidates. Mr. Wannamaker would reunite the party as no other man in Pennsylvania could reunite it and lead it to victory by one of the old-fashioned Republican majorities with which in the past the Republicans of Pennsylvania have delighted to honor their standard-bearers.

Must Drop Factionalism

"Factional differences and personal animosities and ambitions must be laid aside at this time for the welfare of the party and best interests of the state.

"Only a few weeks ago, in one of the rock-ribbed districts of the state, the Republican candidate for Congress was defeated by the Democratic candidate who had the Prohibition endorsement. Such a result in a district normally Republican by a large majority, carries a lesson which Republican leaders should read and heed.

"Let the Republican party of Pennsylvania choose for its leader in the campaign of next year some really big name, who stands for the best traditions of the party in the past and who also reflects the progressive sentiments with which the rank and file of the people are today imbued, and victory will not be difficult. The nomination of a factionalist or any attempt to straddle or evade vital issues, will surely be fraught with disaster."

CITES WHITMAN AS TYPE FOR PENNA.

W. Floyd Clinger, Editor Warren Evening Mirror—"You have asked for a frank statement of belief by the Republican editors of the state, your aim being the composition of party harmony.

"It is the belief of the Evening Mirror that harmony cannot be obtained in Republican councils until the cause for dissension has been removed. And it is the belief of the Evening Mirror that the cause of dissension cannot be removed until we shall have removed the reactionary leadership with which the party is infested.

"To be perfectly frank, it is our belief that Senator Penrose and the Penrose regime can never heal up the differences that exist in the party for the simple reason that all the forces of decent citizenship are aligned against him.

"And again to be frank, it is our belief that the best way to serve the Republican party in this state is to give it candidates and give it programs that will appeal to the people in spirit rather than attempting to 'put across' men and deals by sheer gang power.

"The sort of a candidate that is required for Governor in 1918 is, in the opinion of the Evening Mirror, a man rather than a figurehead. 'New York has seen a great light,

Governor Whitman has proven to be a stalwart Republican and a progressive with appeal to the people. Pennsylvania needs a rejuvenation of the same sort. It all remains whether the party leaders will afford the way and reap the benefits, or whether the people shall hew a way for themselves.

SEES DANGER FOR BOTH THE OLD PARTIES

Geo. W. Wagenseller, editor Middleburgh Post—"Your letter of the first instant to hand relative to the matter of securing party harmony in the state, I agree with you absolutely. The traditions of the party are such that we all want the highest ideals espoused by our chosen or adopted political party. When the highest motives and practices are made the basis of the activities of a party, that party will have a following that will always show at the ballotbox.

"I was one of many Pennsylvania voters who left the Republican party in 1912, because I could not endorse the steam roller methods of the national convention. A later came back to the fold and will remain if the methods and practices of the party are creditable to the best interests of good citizenship. It is highly important that the management of the Republican party, both in the state and nation, be creditable. If that be done there is hope of reconciliation in all walks of life. It will mean not only the return of the balance of the Washington party men, but the enlistment of many Democrats, who do not agree with the management of their own party affairs.

"Unless there comes a more satisfactory relation in both of the old political parties, there is only one solution, and that is eventually both of the old parties will be dissolved and a new structure erected upon the ruins of the old.

"Personally I feel a great interest in the old party, its history is pretty nearly identical with the history of the country, and I shall rejoice with you and with all good citizens of the state, if it be rehabilitated upon an honorable and creditable record.

PETTY QUARRELS ENDANGER PARTY

R. C. Gordon, editor Winesboro Record—"If the Republican party in Pennsylvania is to regain and hold its former position there must be put aside the factional strife and repeated campaigns that have been gone through within the past few years in which personalities and recriminations were used by a comparatively few members of the party in the state, particularly in the two larger cities, all of which has become disgusting and most tiresome to other sections of Pennsylvania.

"These contests have reacted until the effect is felt in other communities and, in many instances, good men have been defeated for office when candidates on the Republican ticket because the appearance of their names on this ticket per se associated them with one faction or the other within the party that have been at each others' throats almost continuously for the past few years. The result is that many of the best men of the party have become so out of patience that they refuse to have any further interest or part in party matters.

Danger of Defeat

"If there is not a disposition soon to place personal and factional advantage secondary to the welfare of the party there can be only one result—control will pass to the opposition, and will rest there until the men who should be leaders in Republicanism have learned their lesson. Men of ability will not longer be willing to give up their time to sit in legislative sessions the time of which is taken up almost wholly by these petty partisan matters to the detriment of legislative action that is for the good of the state at large.

"Let us have a strong candidate for the coming gubernatorial campaign, a man who is strong enough and independent enough to stand up against all factions and be governor in the name and for the good of the entire state, and within his term the party will regain its lost prestige and power and Pennsylvania can then be depended upon to roll up the old-time majority for the Republican ticket in both national and state campaigns."

TIME FOR LEADERS TO TAKE COUNSEL

W. L. Taylor, Dispatch, York—"The Harrisburg Telegraph is right. The Republican party in Pennsylvania must be harmonized. The time has now come when political ambition must give way to patriotic impulse.

"Not only is the nation's future life endangered but its institutions are being severely tested. They must not only stand terrific strain under abnormal conditions, but this vital test is being made while many of its most important departments are honeycombed with theoretical domination, inexperienced execution and political intrigue. Notwithstanding this, however, the institutions will stand, for the foundations were well builded. They will abide until rescued by Republican efficiency in due time. Already the tide which swept away national control from the Republicans is turning. It has turned. Analysis of the recent election figures demonstrates it, and the next national election will see the return of the Republican party to national control. Then will come a period of salvaging and reconstruction.

Bury Factional Hatchet

In the past, Pennsylvania has been enormously influenced in unselfishly planning and working for the advancement of the republic. The near future will be no exception. Pennsylvania will face the situation with a solid, unbroken, harmonious front. So in preparation for that day of the trenches of the enemy, the time has come for the Republican party of Pennsylvania to 'scrap' all factional differences, hatred and feuds. The factional hatchet must be buried and buried deep. That some of our old leaders having become merely factionalists have grudges to repay each other is no concern of the party at large. If the old time leaders will not get together in harmonious accord and agree to 'cut out' the insidious undermining of the dominant and efficient party by their continual factional strife, then the old-time leaders, so many of them as are at fault, will be thrown aside and new ones named in their stead. A little way down the street of factionalism is the precipice of Destruction. The rank and file of Pennsylvania who have been submissively parading after the various leaders have awakened to this fact, and have turned the corner of Harmony street. It is now up to the wrongly headed leaders to cut cross lots to Harmony street and again get at the head of the procession, consecrating their experience and ability to the 'good of the party' that is to pull this big nation out of the pit in which it now finds itself. Will they do it? Or will they march on to their own destruction?"

CONSTRUCTIVE POLICIES NEEDED

C. N. Andrews, managing editor, Eastern Free Press—"The situation in the Republican party in this state is far from the ideal that earnest Republicans have in mind. There is too little genuine leadership, too much of factional differences, too great an inclination just to preserve the organization with a seeming show of work, when the actual results are of secondary consideration. To beat 'the other fellow' in the party seems to be the acme of purpose in a very large percentage of the organizations. The advancement of Republican party principles is lost sight of, or ignored. True, there is the slogan, 'We are Republicans,' but the slogan is allowed to fade into the background except as a rallying cry in distress.

"The Republican rank and file in Pennsylvania is, to put it fairly, disgusted with the party leadership because the leadership accomplishes nothing that benefits the party while it brings much criticism upon it. The leaders while admittedly men of ability, force and efficiency, devote these qualities to ends that do not appeal to the rank and file of the party and consequently bring the members to indifference, if not driving them to the support of opposition political parties.

Leaders Must Get Awake

"What is needed in the Republican party in this state is an awakening on the part of men who lead to a realization that the members of the party are disheartened, discouraged, affronted by the results in recent years, and that unless the leaders change their attitude the party will become ineffective as a power for good in the state and nation. Pennsylvania's Republicanism is unquestionable but its influence is decreasing. There must be a rejuvenation, a readjustment, if the party is to hold its rightful place. The time is opportune. Let us start anew with the past buried, the mistakes remembered only as a stimulus to unity, to reconciliation, to activity for the principles we entertain, not for personal profit and aggrandizement.

Let us rebuild the party organization along the lines of advancement and effectiveness. Weakness as an organization has been allowed to demonstrate itself too frequently. We need now an organization that will build up, that will strongly unite and cement, that will, through its constructiveness and its purposes, draw men into it. Selfish ambition will not accomplish this. Devotion to Republican principles will."

Facts About the Sugar Situation

Our Government has asked you to use sugar sparingly. We believe that the people of this country will be glad to do their part to conserve the sugar supply when they know the facts.

These facts are as follows:

More than two-thirds of the source of Europe's sugar supply is within the present battle lines. This has resulted in greatly reducing the production of sugar in Europe.

England and France and other countries have been forced to go for sugar to Cuba.

Ordinarily, nearly all of the Cuban raw sugar comes to the United States and is refined here, chiefly for home use. This is not the case now.

In view of the exceptional world demand for sugar there is no surplus, and barely enough to tide us over until the new crop comes in. The people of the New England and Atlantic Coast States should use sugar sparingly. No one should hoard or waste it.

This Company has no surplus sugar to sell. It is working with the Government to conserve the supply, and to take care of the Allies so far as possible.

Do not pay an increased retail price.

The Franklin Sugar Refining Company

"A Franklin Sugar for every use"

Granulated, Dainty Lumps, Powdered, Confectioners, Brown

BOGAR'S ON THE SQUARE

A Department Store of Toys and Sporting Goods The Better Grade

Choosing a gift at this store means more than a mere gift. It means promoting joyfulness and good cheer throughout the year. Every man, woman or child has or should have a hobby. It may be skating, shooting, kodaking, or golf. Perhaps baseball, football, basketball. Or maybe canoeing, tennis, or bicycling. No matter which of the many pleasurable pastimes, the spirit of sport must be fostered in the youth and retained in those who hope to prolong their youthfulness. Even in war times sporting goods may be classed next to the necessities of life. To the proper development of manhood and womanhood depends the future life of the nation.

For eight years this store has exercised care in the selection of Sporting Goods of the Better Grade. On this foundation of Quality we have built up the largest sporting goods and toy store in Central Pennsylvania. It has been our aim to purchase only such sporting goods as are national and international in reputation. Our toy department is run upon the same high standard, as we endeavor to stock up with the most reliable makes in mechanical and electrical toys, building blocks, structural sets and the things that interest and entertain the child. This policy gives satisfaction to our patrons and to our customers' good will we attribute our success.

Sporting Goods

- | | |
|--|------------------------------------|
| Spalding Sweaters | Iver Johnson Revolvers |
| Daisy Air Rifles Colt's Pistols | U. S. Army puttees in all styles |
| Eastman Kodaks | U. S. Basket Ball Shoes |
| Winchester Guns and Rifles | Whitely Exercisers |
| Edison Phonographs | Burrowes Pool and Billard Tables |
| Flexible Flyer Sleds | Duxbak Hunting and Outing Clothing |
| Winslow Ice and Roller Skates | Carrom and Crokinole Game Boards |
| Iver Johnson Bicycles | Marble Outing Specialties |
| Ingersoll Watches | Thermos Bottles |
| Gillette, Autostrop, Gem and Everready Safety Razors | |

BOGAR'S

Toy Suggestions

- | | | |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------|------------|
| Lionel and Ives Trains | Briktor | Struktiron |
| Schoenhut Dolls | Humpty Dumpty Sets | |
| Reed Doll Carriages | Bradley Dissected Puzzle | |
| White Furniture | Blocks | |
| Parker Games and Kindergarten Toys | Alger Books | |
| Converse Drums | Horsman Dolls | |
| Chem Craft Meccano | Tree Trimmings | |
| American Model Builder | Fence Sewing Sets | |
| Erector Electrical Sets | Wooden Beads | |
| Erector Chemistry Sets | Tool Chests | |
| Toycrete | Blackboards | |
| | Kiddie Kars | |

On The Square Harrisburg, York, Lancaster

On The Square Harrisburg, York, Lancaster

TOYLAND