

Reading Newlyweds Issue Letter to Public

Reading, Pa., Dec. 21.—In response to the inquiries of the many friends of Caroline Steinmetz Schwetzer as to the origin of the romance which culminated in her marriage two weeks ago to J. William Schweitzer, of Los Angeles, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. Schweitzer have prepared a statement for the public giving the details of their courtship. Mrs. Schweitzer is of a literary turn of mind and was one of Reading's wealthiest women.

The statement of the couple says: "Away off in the West lived a tramp who was variously known as 'The Baron,' 'The Intellectual Ho-bo,' 'Von Sinbad,' or 'Silky,' because of certain peculiarities of facial foliage, studies, name, travels, manner of speaking and habits. It happened that the tramp knew and associated with those of a literary turn of mind, and one day as he happened to be reading a story in a magazine that had been handed him by a friend who had written that particular story, he looked through it and read a contribution by the girl. Struck by the forcefulness of the writer, he decided to write and see whether or not her personal correspondence was as interesting as her writings for the press. "The rest of the story is local history. After a correspondence of nearly a year, which required some 500 letters to transmit nearly 3,000,000 words of love, philosophy and poetry, we, the newlyweds, met, announced the engagement and were married. "There are those who have criticized us, and to those narrow, conventional, evil-minded persons, we say, 'Cheer up, because there are many things that you do not understand. When you know us better you may find more things to say, whether they be true or not. But then, blacksmiths are not supposed to be gentlemen, and women who go with married men before their husbands have died, are not supposed to be ladies."

BLOOD POISON CAUSES DEATH Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 21.—Harry K. Reicher, a young businessman died yesterday from blood poisoning caused by cutting a pimple on his face while shaving. He was employed for thirty years by S. M. Bloom and Company, wholesale grocers, and is survived by a wife, one son and two brothers.
