The Sportlight by Grantland Rice

Copyright, 1917, The Tribune Association (New York Tribune). An All-Time All-Star Team NO. 8.—THE ROUNDUP

Catcher—Buck Ewing—New York-Cincinnati. Pitcher—Christy Mathewson—New York. First base—Fred Tenney—Boston.

There are only a few spots open to rebuttal in the above array. There are logical arguments to be offered that Hal Chase or Frank Chance should displace Fred Tenney at first.

From this array four of the nine men are still left for active service. They are Eddie Collins, Hans Wagner, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker with Wagner at the end of the long highway.

The normal batting averages of this infield would be around .340. In their best years it would be above .350.

The above is the verdict arrived at after discussions with managers, players and writers who have seen a big section of the long parade, and who are therefore able to compare the stars of to-day with the best men of former times.

CARLISLE OPENS PITT SCHEDULE

Only One Change Over That of This Year; Penn Has Game

Pittsburgh, Dec. 22.—The 1918 University of Pittsburgh football schedule has about been completed and is almost a duplicate of last year's with the exception of games played at home and abroad.

University of Pennsylvania team will appear against Pitt at Pittsburgh October 26 if none of the three big home games of the year, the other two are at Washington and Jefferson and Pennsylvania State College.

The Carlisle Indians are likely to open the season locally, playing October 5. West Virginia University is then met October 12.

Lehigh Has Game Lehigh is to be played at South Bethlehem November 2 and then comes the championship struggle with W. and J. November 9.

Pitt's 1917 football season was a success so far as victories are concerned, but did not measure up to former years from a financial standpoint.
