HARRY LAUDER

The performance at the Orpheum Theater to-morrow, Christmas Day, of "Roshanara Divertissements"

HARRY LAUDER has at last announced his definite and positive retirement from the stage.

His farewell tour of the United States and Canada, which opened in New York on October 22, and which turned out to be the greatest ovation ever tendered to any stage celebrity in history, will be his final tour.

There was any doubt of this, if he had even a remote competitor, and that doubt would have been removed when after two hours of single effort on his closing night in New York, the audience declared they would not let him go and cheered him for fully ten minutes while he stood speechless in the midst of the tumult and tears of happiness coursed down his face.

It needs no fake farewell announcements to bring people to the Lauder banquet and were it not for the circumstances which the war has brought about, Lauder might have gone on indefinitely, for every critic said that he was at the zenith of his powers. But Harry has lost his only son in the war, the son for whom he purchased an estate in Scotland, so that father and son, when the war was over, might there enjoy the fruits of the comedian's labor, and when Lauder returns to his native land he will, at the end of the war, give his services toward lightening the burden of the men in the trenches and bringing some happiness into their lives.

Then he will go to that Scotland estate, and in his loneliness he will busy himself expressing it, that he has been able to give the sacrifice of a son to his country. Lauder's engagements here is set for Wednesday, matinee and night.

"The Man Who Came Back," after a tremendous run of over one solid year at the Playhouse Theater in New York, where it "came back" outlasted all other big successes of last season, will come to the Orpheum Friday night and Saturday, matinee and night.

The play is by Jules Eckert Goodman, founded on a short story of John Fleming Wilson, and gives, in vivid detail, an account of the journey of a man who sank from the top to the very depths, and there, in an opium den in Shanghai, found the girl who was to lead him the long way back again. Its intense interest held New Yorkers for thirteen solid months, even during the heat of summer, so that William A. Brady, the producer, was forced to institute extra Thursday matinees to accommodate the crowds.

The cast will be headed by Dorothy Bernard and includes: William A. Brady, Hamilton, Henry Davis, Irving White, Frank Bowron, William Giddell, George Howard, Ben Nedelle, Hubert Frederick, Fuller Golden, Alice Lorraine, Alma Chester, Calkins, Marion Berry, and Anna Pohl, all of whom appeared in the roles at some time during the engagement at the Playhouse in New York City.

Some splendid holiday attractions are booked for the Majestic the early part of the half of the present week. At the feature of the bill that Majestic promises to prove a big drawing card is the first appearance in Harrisburg of Santi, the woman with "The Most Wonderful Arms in the World" in a series of remarkable dances that are very artistic. An added attraction on the bill is the Monarch Comedy Four, a quartet of excellent male singers, who put over a number of popular song hits in excellent fashion. They also introduce some hokum comedy into their act, which is always well received by local vaudeville devotees. John Geiger, comedy violinist; the Airplane Girls, presenting a sensational aerial novelty; and one other Keith act, completes the bill.

Earle Williams, the well-known of Thomas H. Ince, the producer of "Civilization," and is considered a much more wonderful production. The Zeppelin is the first motion picture in which the central figure is one of the virtues of the allied air fleets, which spread death and destruction through England, Belgium and Northern France before the allied air fleets were made scientifically formidable to put them to rout. A whole vast country is the scene of the road, the villages and cities, the sea and far up into the sky the picture carries one as that thrill after thrill keeps one's attention. The inner workings of the giant cigar-shaped dirigible, ascending through a cloud-filled sky thousands of feet above the earth, is a scientific treat. All the characteristic Prussian efficiency obtains inside the giant bird as the crew releases a shower of bombs upon the sleeping city. A flash of lurid red, an ear-splitting roar, a deafening chorus of frenzied cries from the throats of the doomed men, and the mighty Zeppelin, mortally wounded by an internal explosion, plunges toward the shell-swept earth like a giant meteor. That's the climax of this wonderful picture.

Have you been reading the "Interview" with Empey in the daily papers, or have you read his famous "Top" the fastest-selling book in America. If you have not, you should read them all but by all means, read the "Interview" first. Sergeant Empey himself is coming to Harrisburg Friday, December 28, to give his own account of the demonstrations and talks on actual trench warfare. Empey's appearance here promises to be one of the greatest patriotic meetings Harrisburg has ever had, or ever will have, for that matter. Empey spent over seven months in the trenches, in the front line trenches, and he was so severely wounded that he was discharged as an active duty as a soldier. He is giving his demonstrations at the Grand Hotel, all over the city, and one of the largest audiences ever assembled in Harrisburg will greet him here on the evening of December 28. Every patriotic citizen, and of course that means every citizen of Harrisburg, will want to hear Empey. This will be the first actual and firsthand information people can get on the real trench warfare, on the thousand and one things every one of us would like to know about. After his demonstration, Sergeant Empey will answer any and all questions that his audience may ask him, so far as it is possible to do so. Empey is being brought to Harrisburg through the courtesy of the War Department, of the Keystone Concert Course. The seat sale opens at the Orpheum Theater, Wednesday, December 26, and as the prices are popular and the demand great, an early reservation will give a choice.

The performance at the Orpheum Theater to-morrow, Christmas Day, of "Roshanara Divertissements" sufficiently diversified to interest all classes of amusement lovers, as well as the patrons of music, the dance and allied fine arts. "Roshanara" Divertissements—and there are many—are presented by a company of dance artists brought from the four quarters of the globe. Roshanara is the daughter of the folk dances of ancient Burma and the ceremonial dances of India. Michio Itow is an exponent of the legendary dances of France, Belgium, Russia and our own United States. The Ballet Intime is an assembly of all the best of the world, and a Frenchman, directs the symphony orchestra, which has several Italian. It is altogether the most remarkable assembly that has ever appeared in an American theater.

A Christmas eve attraction of unusual merit will be shown at the Regent Theater to-morrow, December 25, when George Beban in "A Roadside Impresario" George Beban in "A Roadside Impresario" This is one of the most unusual of the noted character actor's original photodramas, which will play here Monday only. In his recent production of "The Marcellini Million" Mr. Beban is seen as an Italian truck gardener, and in "A Roadside Impresario" as a roaming Italian, with a trick he has picked up for the benefit of the children in wayside towns. Mr. Beban doing himself the tricks the bear is supposed to do. How, while trying to earn money enough as a dishwasher at a restaurant to get Bruno the bear, out of jail, where he has been incarcerated for wrecking an airplane, he discovers a blackmailing plot against the local candidate for mayor, and also finds his daughter, for whom he has been searching for sixteen years—all this is brought about in a most unusual and appealing manner.

S. J. Zalneratis Tells How He Freed Himself From Tortures of Stomach Trouble

"For many long and miserable months I suffered from stomach trouble, indigestion and catarrh," says Simon J. Zalneratis, the well-known hotel keeper of Wanamie (near Wilkes-Barre), Pa. "I could eat scarcely anything and that little caused me terrible distress. I had no energy or ambition, I was badly run down and I was always so awfully tired. Even my sleep didn't rest me for I would wake up in the morning too tired to move. "Tanlac was recommended to me and it has done me so much good that I want to pass the word on to others who suffer with stomach trouble so that they may profit by my experience. "Tanlac has worked wonders in my case, for not only has my appetite improved wonderfully, but my stomach has been toned up and my digestion is excellent. "That terrible sluggish feeling has left me entirely and when I wake up in the morning I feel refreshed and rested. "I certainly urge all others who are afflicted with stomach trouble to take 'Tanlac' at once. COUNCIL TO HOLD OPEN MEETING ON ITS 1918 BUDGET

Commissioners Are Unable to Find Solution to Ash Collection Problem
City Council to-day decided to let the public attend a meeting of the budget committee on Wednesday evening, so that the taxpayers of the city can get first-hand information on the various items which are confronting the Commissioners.

This action was taken upon the receipt of a communication from the Chamber of Commerce urging Council not to drop the nineteen policemen asked for by Mayor Keister and also to give the patrolmen the salary increase which has been requested. Commissioner started a general discussion in Council, the Commissioners saying they would be glad to have some suggestions about raising enough money for the budget estimate.

It was said in official circles to-day that by eliminating the provision for ash collections the estimates will be slightly above the total revenue which will be available next year. A number of the officials said they had not made any decision on what to do about the ash disposal question, but that they opposed the move to let the individual residents dispose of the refuse.
