

STEELTON GOES 'OVER THE TOP'

Telegraphs Results of Christmas Campaign to Philadelphia Office

According to the official figures announced at noon to-day the total number of subscribers to the Red Cross during the Christmas campaign was $610. This did not include all subscribers up to this time, some reports still to come in. Officers said the official figures will be announced Wednesday morning.

Washington asked Steelton to furnish $300 and this borough again displayed its patriotism by going 'over the top.'

Members of the chapter are especially pleased with the splendid work of the steel plant superintendents. With the report of the test department this morning announcing a 100 per cent. canvass, there are now seven plant departments holding the perfect record.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Peck, of Oberlin, a Red Cross service flag containing twelve stars is being displayed. This is the largest number of any one family to join the chapter. Aside from the parents there are ten children who are members, Simon Micholovitz through George Cover yesterday donated $25 to the cause. This is among the largest individual contributions.

The team captained by Mrs. T. J. Nalley is leading in the team contest with the Highspire committee in second place. With over 100 members to its credit Oberlin is coming along nicely.

Fire Chief Malchorn has issued a warning against carelessness with lighted candles and requests that no lighted candle be placed near the Red Cross service flags at windows unless the candle is placed in a glass receptacle, which will prevent it from setting fire to the paper flag. He suggests that the service flags be displayed with the illumination from the house lights only. Another method suggested is that the flag be pasted on the outside surface of the glass.

And pausing at this Christmas time to look back upon the year now closing, its stupendous influences, its trials, its successes, this Company expresses to you, its patrons, a keen appreciation of the generous help, the splendid co-operation you have accorded its men and women in their endeavor to serve faithfully and well.
