Accidents at Steel Plant Less This Year Than Last

Despite the increase of the number of employees at the local steel plant, the number of accidents in the year 1917 have been less, according to preliminary reports. The decrease is attributed to the installation of modern machinery in many departments and instructing all employees to take precautionary measures in their work.

Company officials have made brave efforts during the year to avoid accidents which are not unusual about as large concerns of this kind. Department superintendents have been instructed by officials to talk to the employees on the importance of safety first.

Accidents are bound to occur in a plant of this kind and with first aid teams in each department the serious ones will be taken care of. The teams have progressed rapidly in their work this year and are being lauded by plant superintendents.

Statistics for the year show a decrease in the number of accidents during the year. It is understood that these are forthcoming.

Seek to Fix Guilt on Dealer Who Asked Big Price

The County Fuel Commission held its regular meeting this afternoon with Fuel Administrator Hickok presiding. Mr. Hickok said this morning that there was nothing of importance before the commission for consideration. The coal situation is as well as can be expected, he said, and the city is not suffering with any lack of coal, although it is scarce.

The fuel commissioner has been making an effort to fix the guilt on an upstate dealer who was dealing with selling coal at the rate of $21.20 a ton. The dealer denies the story, and the consumer who addressed the commission to the mayor regarding the alleged gouging, has backed down on his story.

The fuel administrator announced that in the future an effort will be made to fix a scale of prices that will facilitate sellin coal by the bushel to small buyers. This matter may be considered this afternoon, or may be taken up at a tentative scale of prices can be arranged.

WILLING TO HELP "The Chamber of Commerce officials and officials of the Pipe and Pipe Bending Company, the Bethlehem and other munition making plants dependent upon the city for water, have expressed their willingness to help in the purchase of a pump desired as quickly as possible.

False Economy It was developed at the conference last night that the water supply situation is a false economy. In the first place, it was said, the water rates never should have been used to buy equipment to keep the water department up to the requirements of the city. As it is, the city is now depending upon very old pumps that are not sufficient to meet the demands by several million gallons a day. The water plant is being pushed far beyond its capacity and if a serious breakdown should occur the city will wake up to find itself without water and at the mercy of the emergency.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT is taking over all manner of machinery and equipment, but I believe that the government is not doing as it will be, that the local munition plants are in danger of closing up. Until the new pump is received we all must economize.

THE MAYOR SAID THAT IN CASE of a big fire the city would find itself in dire distress and that if the mills are required to close government contracts will be delayed and hundreds of persons thrown temporarily out of work.

THE SERIOUS CONDITION existing in the city water supply system was first pointed out by Commissioner Samuel P. Dunkle who shortly after he took office began a thorough investigation. He then decided to employ an expert to make a complete survey and report to him. This report contained the recommendation to install at least one electrical unit at the pumping station and the suggestion that repairs to the two old pumps might make it possible to use them in case of emergency. A necessary precaution included the strengthening of thirty-inch main connection at Front and North streets which was done by enclosing the big fling in steel reinforced concrete. Repairs to the old pumps were started and just as these were about to be put into service the new pump purchased about ten years ago, broke. Since the old pumps are no longer in business, city officials said.

THE BIG INCREASE in consumption of water in the city is largely due to the manufacturing boom which has resulted from the war. Two big plants in the city use this supply constantly running the total daily consumption at 2,900,000 gallons much of the time.

GAME KILLED DURING SEASON Lewisport, Pa., Dec. 27.—John J. Slauterback, game protector for Mifflin and Juniata counties, yesterday issued a summary for game killed during the 1917 season as follows: One spikie buck and one doe accidentally killed by running into wire fence. Male deer killed, 73; bear, 2; Juniata county—Sable deer, 39; 1,450 rabbits killed this year in Mifflin county and 8,375 in Juniata county; 205 wild turkeys in Mifflin county and 235 in Juniata.

GREAT TOBACCO CROP IS HERE FOR YANKEES

Plenty to Smoke in U. S., but Little to Be Had in Trenches

"Have you got anything to smoke?" They were asked in the mud of a trench in Flanders, and the younger of the two American soldiers had been badly wounded with a piece of half-spent shell. They had been in the trenches until their feet were numb and the terrifying numbness was creeping upward to their vitals. "If I only had a smoke," he begged, "I could stand anything." The other looked at him as he helplessly looked about for even a remnant of tobacco. But there was none to be had, and there would be none.

Let us shift, now, to Lancaster county and hear what a veteran tobacco producer has to say about the year's crop: "Never in the nearly 70 years that the culture of tobacco has been a feature crop of Lancaster county have the farmers reaped such a harvest of wealth as they have from this year's crop. In the early eighties high prices were paid, but the decrease of the county was far less. For very many years 16,000 acres was considered big, but the 1917 crop was grown on at least 25,000 acres. The county's estimate is at 30,000 acres. According to the estimate of acreage, the crop will put in the growers' pockets from eight to nine million dollars.

Yes, reader, this is the truth. Sugar, salt, coal, wheat may be scarce in this country but tobacco is not. Thousands of men are getting rich owing to the goodness of Providence in causing uncommonly fine crops. Think of this when you read of the tobacco crop in the United States. The following contributions have been received for the Harrisburg Telegraph: Mrs. J. B. Baillie, $1.00; Mrs. J. B. Baillie, $1.00; Mrs. J. B. Baillie, $1.00; Mrs. J. B. Baillie, $1.00; Mrs. J. B. Baillie, $1.00.

MUST SAVE WATER TO AVOID FAMINE

past two weeks the water reached a stage of only 14 feet in the reservoir immediately above the city. Some of the big industries of town were asked to limit the quantity used. I had no idea conditions were as they are and we have taken steps immediately to meet the trouble. Every member of council has agreed that Councilman Morgenthau shall go ahead at once with the purchase of an emergency pump, and that the city should have the money to take the money out of the water emergency fund.

HARVEY ORR AND SOME GIRLS IN THE MUSICAL COMEDY "THERE SHE GOES"

If you go to a ball game and your favorite "slugger" hits the ball for a "home," a thousand excited fans will watch the ball soar almost to the clouds and yell "There she goes." If you go to see a balloon ascension, the moment the "monster" is cut loose and the daring athlete shoots into the air, the big crowd of excited spectators will shout almost in one voice, "There she goes." If you happen to be in a small town, you will see the line of a great railway system and a fast train thunders through at the rate of sixty miles an hour some bystander will say, "There she goes," even if it's a small train, and so it is with a thousand and one other things. Why Harvey D. Orr offers his magnificent production, "There She Goes," the newest musical comedy with Harvey and Harold Orr and a company of thirty-nine people, which comes to the Opera House, Monday, December 31, matinee and night. It is predicted the favorite expression will be on everybody's tongue. "There She Goes," with its pretty girls, wealth of beautiful costumes and scenery, and its beautiful music, heralded as one of the brightest, fastest and cleanest musical extravaganzas ever written. A jazz orchestra is the newest feature.
