

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE BOY SCOUTS

Scribe to Be Elected By Novel Method in Troop 20

There will be an important meeting of Troop 20 this evening at 7:15. The event of the evening will be the election of a scribe. Each candidate will hand in his story in a sealed envelope. The stories will be numbered and the number setting the most votes will be declared scribe. No one except the scoutmaster will know the candidates' numbers.

On Friday, January 11th, the troop will elect three patrol leaders. The constitution of the troop will be presented for approval at the February business meeting. The boys took up a collection at last Friday's meeting and sent Scoutmaster Swope a large basket of fruit to his home. Mr. Swope has been ill for over a week, but expects to be out in a day or two.

G. PARK WEAVER, Acting Scribe.

Troop 2 Can't Find a Basketball Floor

Things look rather dark for basketball in Troop 2, owing to the failure in getting a floor. If scouts of any other troop know of a floor which can be rented we would appreciate it if they would notify the scribe—Bell phone No. 3495J.

Owing to the weather, hikes which were planned had to be delayed. A few scout games were played after the meeting.

FRANK FISHERMAN, Scribe.

Scouting Notes

By the Scouting Executive

In talking with a man who has recently become a scoutmaster the value of the work to scout leaders was emphasized. He said: "I'm getting more interested in this work every week. I'm going to jump into it with both feet and get all of it that I can. I want to become one of the best scoutmasters in the city, for it's remarkable what this thing teaches the boys. They learn how to tell time by the Sun, and to locate the points of the compass by the stars, and how to take care of themselves out in the open and all manner of practical stunts that we are not dreamed of when we were kids. I find that I have to sit up nights and study to beat the band, but it does me a lot of good as well as the boys, and I like it and I'm going to plug and learn it all!"

We ought to have a lot more men like this one. Every scoutmaster in like this one. Every scoutmaster in like this one. Every scoutmaster in like this one.

Glee Club Is Rounding Out in Splendid Shape

Scout Edward L. Watson entertained the Glee Club of Troop 11 at his home on Thursday evening, December 27. The boys will soon be in condition to give the meetings, rallies and other scout activities.

The troop basketball team is coming along fine and the team is improving in each practice. Troop 11 should be themselves game enough sports to dispute the championship title of the scout team of the city in football, and they also expect to have a good account of themselves with Troop 6's players in basketball. Tr. C. P. 6 outwitted Troop 11 in football, but Captain Hamer is in hopes that he may be able to turn out as heavy men in basketball as in the other teams of the city.

Mr. Manser enjoyed a two-week vacation at his old home in New York State. The boys of the troop are urged to be present at the meeting to-night as a part of the meeting will be given over to a special purpose. Come and find out what the event will be. No plans have been made in the way in which the meetings will be conducted, and the same will be put into effect and given a fair trial.

Troop 11 wishes to extend its sincere wishes to the other troops of the city that they have a very happy and prosperous New Year.

CHARLES H. CRIST, Scout Scribe.

Troop Flag Is Presented to Boys of 18th Unit

The meeting of the Troop 18, December 31, was one of unusual interest for the scouts.

The Rev. Mr. Klaser presented an official troop flag which Mr. Eby gave the troop. It was the last time for a while at least that we will have two of our assistant scoutmasters with us. Rev. Mr. Klaser both having enlisted with the Aviation Signal Corp. leaving last Wednesday morning.

Monday being the birthday of our Scoutmaster, Rev. Mr. Klaser, the troop was given an unexpected treat of ice cream and cake. Honor Patrol for the month were Selway, Fye, H. Klaser, Albright, Patterson, J. Sherk, Minnick and Riedorf. The leaving of Klaser and Riedorf gives us the honor of nine boys who have enlisted in the Army and one in the Navy.

On Tuesday afternoon, on St. Paul's floor, Troop 18 defeated Troop 15 in basketball by a score of 63-12.

WALTER D. McCAHAN, Scribe.

New Tiger Patrol Is Formed by Troop Eight

On account of church services a short meeting was held on Monday evening. A new patrol was started to be known as the Tiger Patrol.

The new scoutmaster, W. J. Shader, took charge of the meeting and the meeting went off in fine shape.

Edgar Spots reported the orchestra coming along fine and expects to have them in shape for the entertainment.

R. FOSTER SHADER, Scribe.

TROOP 10 ENJOYS STAG PARTY

After holding a short meeting at the home of our scoutmaster, Preston Smith, 1225 North Sixth street, the boys enjoyed a stag party. After several selections on the Victrola refreshments were served to the boys as follows: Scoutmaster, George Smith, Patrol Leaders, Charles Blessing, Jr., J. Paul Watts, George Satchell, Assistant Patrol Leaders Howard Selwyn, William Yingling, Scouts Arthur Egoft, Frank Reisch, Joseph Fox, Jr., Edward Rupley, Vincent Wakendifer, Lerew Himes and Ralph Burnett.

Scout Scribe, JOSEPH FOX.

TRACTORS GREAT NEED OF FARMERS

State Expert Talks About the Chance of Saving Labor in the Fields

Since Secretary of Agriculture Charles E. Patton issued an appeal to chambers of commerce and organizations of business men to do "their bit" in the production of greater crops by purchasing tractors for community use and to stimulate the cultivation of more acreage, many inquiries have reached the State Department of Agriculture concerning the tractor question.

L. W. Lichty, farm adviser of the Department of Agriculture in discussing the farm tractor question says: "Many so-called tractors are merely modified types of the old traction road engine. The tractor must positively have no outside or exposed gearing, cogs or drive chains. In the loose ground these cogs or chains soon become filed with sand, earth and mud and the wear is rapid and too much friction has to be overcome. The farm tractor must have all gears and drives enclosed. Not only enclosed, but run in oil as with the automobile. This is of vital importance. Second, your tractor must not be too heavy, if you wish it for regular field traction work. Two tons should be the limit, and then you will find in cutting grain after a heavy rain it is a very heavy tractor.

"The tractor should use ordinary kerosene for fuel. The tractor should do the plowing, harrowing, (the hardest work on the farm on horses), draw the binder, mower, manure spreader and wagon when desirable. To give the tractor a real trial take it on the newly plowed sod field and hang the big harrow and roller to it and run it a few days, as you do the team, and if it holds up well there it is likely to do well elsewhere. More tractors fall down there than at any other job on the farm. The loose soil gets into their vitals and that is their downfall. The farm tractor is in the experimental stage, and we have to wait awhile for the tractor that is not lame in some joint. Nevertheless many farmers are getting splendid results out of the tractors on their farm.

"The pressing need of large operations on the farm and the lack of help often compel us to compromise and buy a tractor. Often we need a stationary engine and by adding a few hundred we can get a tractor and thus many are sold and a fair per cent of them are satisfactory."
