

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE WITH EMPEY

By Arthur Guy Empey

(Continued)

"This state of affairs widened the gap between Huston and Burton. They hated each other pretty fiercely, but Burton never went out of his way to show it, while Huston took every opportunity to vent his spleen. Ginger saw Betty very seldom, and when he did she was generally accompanied by Huston.

"Then the war came. Ginger immediately enlisted as a private. He could have had a commission, but did not want to take a chance of having to mix with Huston.

"A few weeks after Ginger's enlistment, Huston joined, too—was losing prestige in Betty's eyes by staying in mudd. He went into the O. T. C. (Officers' Training Corps). In seven months he received his commission and was drafted to France. Ginger had been out three months.

"Before leaving, Huston proposed to Betty and was accepted. By one of the many strange coincidences that happen in this world Huston was sent to the battalion and company that Ginger was in and was put in command of Ginger's platoon. Then things happened.

"Ginger could hardly believe his eyes when he first saw Huston and knew he was to be his platoon commander. He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

STOPS HEADACHE, PAIN, NEURALGIA

Don't suffer! Get a dime package of Dr. James' Headache Powders.

You can clear your head and relieve a dull, splitting or violent throbbing headache in a moment with a Dr. James' Headache Powder. This old-time headache relief acts almost magically. Send some one to the drug store now for a dime package and a few moments after you take a powder you will wonder what became of the headache, neuralgia and pain. Stop suffering—it's needless. Be sure you get what you ask for.

Henry Gilbert & Son

219 Market Street Opposite the Court House

ON Monday, January 14th, our store will be closed while our stocks are being removed to our new home 400 South Second street, and remain closed for about a week, after which time

We Will Dispose of All Discontinued Lines and Novelty Specialties

In the meantime our trade will be taken care of efficiently through mail and telephone orders, all of which will receive prompt and careful attention.

Deliveries will be made quickly.

THE FORMAL OPENING OF OUR WAREHOUSE WILL BE ANNOUNCED LATER

Our New Location
400 South Second Street

Just 4 Blocks South of Market Square on Second Street

Henry Gilbert & Son

Wholesale HARDWARE Retail

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

He knew he was in for it good and plenty.

"That night Huston sent for Ginger and had a talk with him. Tried to make him believe that he harbored no animosity, detailed him as mail orderly, the first act of a campaign of petty cruelty. By being mail orderly Ginger would have to handle Betty's letters to Huston and Huston's letters to her. (Ginger saw through it immediately when he saw the burned envelope). From that night on it was one indignity after another, just a merciless persecution, but Ginger never complained; just stored up each new act and swore vengeance.

"It came to such a pass that Ginger could bear it no longer; he decided to kill Huston and only waited for a favorable opportunity to present itself. I think it was only his love for Betty which had held him back so long; he couldn't bear the thought of her grieving for her dead lover.

"One night, in the front-line trench, orders were received that after an hour's intense bombardment the enemy's lines, the company would go over the top at 4.30 the next morning. Huston was to go over with the first wave, while Ginger was in the second. Here was his chance.

"All that night he crouched on the fire step, musing and brooding, nursing his revenge. He prayed to Betty to forgive him for what he was going to do.

"After the bombardment the next morning, over went the first wave, a line of bayonets and madly cheering men. Ginger only saw one in that crowd; his eyes never left Huston. His finger twitched and caressed the trigger of his rifle—the bullet found opportunity had come.

"The first wave had gone about sixty yards, when Ginger let out a curse. Huston had been hit and was down, and he saw his revenge slipping through his fingers. But, no, Huston was not dead; he was trying to rise to his feet; he was up, hopping on one leg, with the blood pouring from the other. Then he fell again, but was soon sitting up bandaging his wounded leg, using a tourniquet from his first aid packet.

"A surge of unholy joy ran through Ginger. Lifting the safety latch on his rifle, unheeding the rain of bullets which were ripping and

JAPAN FIGHTING HARD IN WAR FOR WORLD MARKETS

Has Made Tremendous Strides in Manufacturing and Exporting Since 1914

In the past few years Japan has undergone a tremendous industrial development. The enormous progress made by her in manufacturing and exporting since the outbreak of the war is little realized in this country.

It is not fully recognized that Japan is gradually changing from an agricultural to an industrial country, and that in her new drive to win some of the foreign markets she has captured considerable of the business which was formerly held by this country. The great expansion of her foreign trade since 1914 is shown by the official returns of her trade in 1915.

Exports Far in Excess of Imports

During that year the total value of imports was 556,500,000 yen, being an increase of 224,000,000, while the exports for the same period amounted to 1,127,500,000 yen, being an increase of about 419,000,000 yen. The actual excess of exports over imports for the year was 571,000,000 yen, as compared with 179,000,000 yen in 1914.

The changed position which has taken place since the beginning of the war may be seen from the fact that for the year 1914 there was actually an excess in the value of the imports over exports of about 4,500 tons yen.

Cotton manufacture is one of her principal industries, and the statistics show that the average number of spindles working daily in Japan in 1914 (the latest available year), was nearly 2,500,000. Wool manufacture was not carried on before the war to any great extent, but it has now received a considerable impetus, and Japanese factories are executing orders from the Russian Government.

The production of iron and steel—both in government and private works—has also been very considerable, the best iron ores being imported from China. Japan has 2,170 steamers of 1,704, 785 tons, and 5,187 sailing ships of 572,403 tons. Ocean-going steamers exceeding 1,000 tons numbered 48, with a total tonnage of 1,428,212 tons. Thirty-nine ocean-going steamers of 140, 236 tons were launched from Japanese yards in 1915.

May Use American Machinery

It might be added that Japan is now investigating the possibility of importing American cotton-spinning machinery in their mills. The extent of purchases already decided on is estimated at 200,000 spindles.

How her credit stands may be seen from the fact that her 4 1/2 per cent loan is quoted on the London Stock Exchange at 9 1/2, yielding at that price, interest of nearly 5 per cent. Great Britain's 4 1/2 per cent loan is quoted at 9 1/4, so we see how the relative positions of the two countries have changed since 1914.

Before that fateful time no one would have dreamed of comparing the two credits.

Already Japanese manufacturers have quadrupled their exports to Australia. Ships which in the past averaged a cargo of 450 tons now bring to Sydney 2,500 tons. The Japanese have captured a great deal of the trade once firmly held by American, British, German and French exporters. In the silk market they have won the premier position, and Australian shops are now filled to overflowing with cheap Japanese silks.

The following Japanese goods are now sold with great success in the Australian market: Glasses, scientific instruments, silks, Panama hats, cottons, toys, insulators, electric light apparatus, camphor, sulphur oil, matches, basketware, rubber tires, bottles, porcelain.

Japan's rapid industrial and commercial strides will serve to intensify the formidable competition which the American manufacturer will have to meet both in domestic and foreign markets after the war. They afford another striking proof of the necessity for restoring friendly relations between capital and labor, securing fewer and better business laws and moulding a better public attitude toward business so that American industry may be rid of its harassments and made strong for the trade fight after the restoration of peace.—Industrial Conservation, New York.

Dies in Jail Waiting Trial For Murder of Steelton Man

John Wright, colored, who was listed for trial next week on a charge of murdering Dean Dent, also colored, in Steelton last summer, died at midnight at the Dauphin county prison. Wright had been in jail since last August after he was arrested in Massachusetts and brought back to Harrisburg. He has been suffering from tuberculosis for weeks.

FALLS TEN FEET

Harry Rickett, 1501 Allison street, an employe of the Central Iron and Steel Company, fell ten feet from a scaffolding yesterday afternoon, suffering lacerations of the face and body. He is in the Harrisburg Hospital.

For Acid Stomach, Indigestion, Gas or Food Souring—Pape's Diapepsin

Instant Relief! Neutralizes excessive stomach acids, stopping dyspepsia, heartburn, belching, pain.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into acids and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin helps neutralize the excessive acids in the stomach so your food won't sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is upset you usually get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it helps to regulate your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is positive in neutralizing the acidity, so the misery won't come back very quickly.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder due to acid fermentation.

7 & 9 S. MARKET SQUARE LIVINGSTON'S 7 & 9 S. SQUARE MARKET

January Clearance Sale

Convince Yourself

Investigate the different January Sales. Then come here and satisfy yourself where your money goes the furthest.

Every one seems to be alive to the fact that Livingston's are giving more for your money than any other store in Harrisburg.

We have taken Harrisburg by storm — with our January Clearance Sale—Everything in our establishment has been cut to 1/2 the regular price and in many departments less.

Women's and Misses' Winter Coats

Velours, Broadcloths, Plushes, Pom Poms, Zibelines, Chinchillas, Etc. — Brown, Navy, Black, Green, Beet Root, Tan, Gray, Oxford, Burgundy, Plum, Checks, Plaids and Mixtures. Sizes 14 to 50.

Women's and Misses' Coats — up to $12.98 value — Just 35 Coats left in this lot — Come early. Reduced to $5.98

Women's and Misses' Coats — up to $22.50 value — Just 54 Coats left in this lot — Still a splendid assortment $9.98

Women's and Misses' Coats — up to $30.00 value — Just 45 Coats in this lot—Fur and fur fabric trimmed $12.98

1000 SWEATERS 1000

Women's, Misses', Girls', Children's, Infants'

$1.75 Sweaters	$1.19	$5.75 Sweaters	$2.98
$2.00 Sweaters	$1.49	$6.50 Sweaters	$3.49
$3.50 Sweaters	$1.79	$7.85 Sweaters	$4.98
$4.00 Sweaters	$1.98	$8.85 Sweaters	$5.98
$5.00 Sweaters	$2.49	$10.50 Sweaters	$6.98

Gray, White, Navy Brown, Tan, Rose, Sand, Canary, Oxford, Olive, Copenhagen, Green, Maroon—Some with Shetland Collars and Cuffs.

Entire Stocks of Women's and Misses' Skirts, Waists, House Dresses, Bath Robes, Under-skirts, Hats at less than One-Half Price

A Grand Clearance in Our Men's Department

Men's and Young Men's Overcoats		Men's and Young Men's Suits
Plain Models	Trench Models	Plain Models	Trench Models
$15.98 Overcoats	$9.98	$15.00 Suits	$8.98
$18.00 Overcoats	$10.98	$16.50 Suits	$9.98
$20.00 Overcoats	$11.98	$18.00 Suits	$10.98
$22.50 Overcoats	$13.98	$20.00 Suits	$12.98

All sizes, all colors, all cuts

Men's Pants		Boys' Pants
Work and Dress Pants	32 to 42 Waist	Cloth, Serge, Corduroy
Up to $3.50 value	Now $1.98	$1.00 Pants	79c
Up to $5.35 value	Now $2.98	$1.25 Pants	89c
		$1.50 Pants	98c
		$2.00 Pants	$1.49

Women's and Misses' Winter Suits

Most of these Suits will be serviceable for Spring wear—Serges, Poplins, Gabardines, Velvets, Velours and two-tone cloth — All colors, all cuts, all styles—

Women's and Misses' Suits up to $20.00 value, including blacks and blues — Just 24 Suits in this lot $7.98

Women's and Misses' Suits, up to $25.00 value — Beautiful Suits, some fur trimmed — others fur fabric and plush trimmed $9.98

Women's and Misses' Dresses

Silks, Serges, Taffetas, Poplins, Jerseys, Crepe de Chine, Georgette Crepe, Satins, Charmeuse, Etc.

Women's and Misses' Dresses, up to $10.00 values — 28 Dresses in this lot — Not all sizes $2.98

Women's and Misses' Dresses, up to $15.00 value — 75 Dresses in this lot—All colors, styles and sizes—Remarkable Value $4.98

Women's and Misses' Dresses, up to $22.50 value — 45 Dresses in this lot — Wonderful Selection — Beautiful Dresses $7.98

Misses', Girls' and Children's Coats

All Styles	Ages 1 to 15 Years	All Colors
$4.00 Coats	$1.98	$10.95 Coats	$5.98
$5.00 Coats	$2.98	$12.98 Coats	$6.98
$7.00 Coats	$3.98	$15.00 Coats	$7.98
$8.50 Coats	$4.98	$16.75 Coats	$8.98

Entire Stock of Children's Hats, Dresses, Sweaters at Below Cost

Tremendous Reductions in Our Boys' Department

Boys' Suits		Boys' Overcoats and Mackinaws
Ages 2 to 17 Years
$4.35 Suits	$2.49	$4.50 O'coats or Mackinaws	$2.49
$5.35 Suits	$2.98	$5.75 O'coats or Mackinaws	$2.98
$6.50 Suits	$3.49	$6.35 O'coats or Mackinaws	$3.49
$7.50 Suits	$3.98	$7.50 O'coats or Mackinaws	$3.98
$8.50 Suits	$4.98	$8.50 O'coats or Mackinaws	$4.98
		$9.85 O'coats or Mackinaws	$5.98