

Woman Used Slippers; Received Many Presents

There was a sharp young lady in Atlanta, who had 40 or more admirers. For each of these she bought slippers, all of the same pattern, which she had an aged seamstress make up, says the Augusta News. Meanwhile she kept a pair for herself in the parlor, where she could have them on hand whenever one of her lovers called. Of course, each young man asked for whom she was making such pretty slippers. She would reply, with a bewitching smile and half a wink: "Oh, they're for a man friend of mine."

MACCABEES ENTERTAIN

Dances, songs and readings featured a patriotic entertainment given last evening in Fackler's Hall by the Ladies of the Maccabees.

CHILD GETS SICK

CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver, bowels.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ailments. It is a safe, sure, and effective remedy for all ailments of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. But get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grand-mother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautiful, dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"TIZ" FOR TIRED AND SORE FEET

Use "Tiz" for puffed-up, burning, aching, calloused feet and corns.

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"Tiz" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swelling and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "Tiz" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "Tiz" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot torture.—Adv.

SOLDIERS NEED MUSIC TO MARCH OR FIGHT AT BEST

More Brass Bands and Drum Corps are Needed With British at Front.

More brass bands and fife and drum corps are needed with the British armies at the front, and popular subscriptions are being taken in England to equip and send them.

A good many of the fighting regiments are without bands, and it has been noticed that they do not fight well, do more marches as well and are not as contented and cheerful in camp as the men of the regiments which have bands.

"Easy" Roberts said in a speech shortly before his death: "I can speak from my own experience of what use a regimental band is to a regiment. I have seen men weary, worn out with fatigue, hot and smothered with dust, brighten up the moment they heard the tap of the drum, indicating that the band was going to play a lively quickstep. It has the greatest effect on the men in camp and in quarters."

One of the most delightful bits of verse ever written is Henry Newbolt's description of how a squadron of "weary big dragons," whipped, retreating and buckling about the biting through a wrecked French town, when one of the company found a penny tin drum and another found a penny tin whistle, and the two of them struck up the Marseillaise, the one with the drum beat time to it. The straggling squadron halted, turned, reformed and, to the beating of the child's drum and the strains of the tin whistle, marched to victory.

A Kipling Story

Rudyard Kipling tells a story of a cholera camp in India, where the men were suffering badly. The regimental band started one night that queer, defiant tune, "The Lincolnshire Poacher." It was merely their regimental march, which the men had heard a thousand times. There was nothing in it except—except all England—all the sea coast—all the fun and derring and horseplay of young men buckling about the pastures by moonlight. But, as it was played, very softly, at that bad time in that terrible camp of death, it was the one thing in the world of which could have restored—which did restore—shaken men to pride, humor and self-control.

Everyone has read that stirring poem, "The Relief of Lucknow," of the Scotch regiment that had been besieged and starved so long, that had starved off massacres for so many days that it had about lost hope, when a Scotch maid heard away off in the distance the faintest note of a bagpipe.

"Dinna ye hear it?" she screamed, and threw herself down with her ear to the ground. Soon they all heard the bagpipes of the regiment coming to rescue them.

"It was the pipes of the Highlanders! And now they played Al Lang Syne! It came to our men like the voice of God. And they shouted along the line."

Hunting Seals A Fine Art With the Eskimo

To-day the Eskimo method of hunting seals is a primitive calling improved to a fine art, writes a naturalist. When a seal is discovered the direction of the wind is at once noted. Then the hunter, keeping himself to the leeward of the seal, walks up to within about a quarter of a mile of it. Beyond this he begins to crouch and advances only when the seal is one of the most wide-awake of animals and has the habit of throwing up its head quickly every few seconds to guard against danger, it follows that the Eskimo has to be extremely alert if he would get his seal. When the seal's head is down upon the ice his eyes are shut, and it is said that in these brief intervals it takes its sleep.

The hunter, by carefully watching the seal's movements, is able without much difficulty to get within about 200 yards of it, but at closer quarters he is obliged to employ other tactics. He lies down at full length on the ice. Then the real sport begins.

When the seal's head is down the hunter, who keeps a keen eye on his prey, is able to approach still nearer by dragging himself forward on his hands and knees. His maneuvering continues for some time, until the distance between man and beast has been reduced to a few yards.

When near enough to make a sure shot, the Eskimo takes his bow and arrow from his side and sends a swift shaft through the head of its outwitted companion.

Customs Authorities Adopt Clever Ruse

The Hague, Netherlands, Jan. 18.—Endless is the trick of the smuggler. Prior to the advent of cold weather, Germans had been discovered crossing the frontier into Holland wearing no underclothing and women wearing only a mantle. They were on their way to supplement their scanty raiment at some Netherlands store near the border, thence to return homeward clad in genuine woolen or cotton underclothes instead of the substitute materials wherewith Germany is in these days arraying itself. To counter this method of procedure, the customs authorities have adopted the equally novel method of stamping the underclothes of all persons who regularly or frequently cross the frontier. If such travelers are subsequently found wearing unstamped clothes, these are treated as smuggled goods.

Back Door Etiquette Causes Nervous Collapse

It is back-door etiquette for a woman to send back the dish in which her neighbor has sent her something to eat, full. As a result of trying to observe this rule, two Atchison women are on the verge of nervous collapse.

Sunday morning one of the women sent her neighbor a pan of string beans. Promptly the woman received the beans returned the pan filled with some plum butter. The other woman returned the pan filled with fresh doughnuts. Her neighbor sent the pan back with some raisin bread in it. The other woman fired the pan back filled with tomatoes. The neighbor quickly stirred up a cake and it was no time until that pan was sent back filled with hot cakes. The other woman was ready for the pan and sent it over filled with pickled beets. The other neighbor flew to her pantry and jerked up some sliced ham and sent the pan back, but the other woman's men folks met that pan before it reached its destination; there is not enough of it left for the junkman.—Atchison Globe.
