

STATE COLLEGE TO TRAIN SOLDIERS

Plan to Have Uncle Sam Take Over Institution For War Preparation

To make State College a national institution instead of a state, Uncle Sam taking over the whole establishment, is the proposal made to the board of State's directors who met in Harrisburg yesterday. It was accepted unanimously and enthusiastically.

If this arrangement goes through men will be brought from southern cantonments by the hundreds, for there is accommodation for 3,000 in the State dormitories. This may eliminate the usual summer classes. It is the government's idea, explained Dr. Edwin S. Sparks, president of the college, to teach the soldiers in fifty-five classes, giving special courses in automobile driving, machine repair, engineering, road building and other branches. As a first step toward making this special shift the board of directors yesterday voted to close the regular college courses April 30, instead of in mid-June.

State College is already helping out the War Department, said Dr. Sparks, giving special aid in war material manufacture and agricultural production. Sequential classes are being taught in ordnance store-keeping, aeroplane material inspection, wireless telegraphy and signaling, and the use of trucks and tractors. The college has furnished more than 400 undergraduates for various lines of military duty.

The trustees elected the following officers: President, H. Wilton Mitchell, Pittsburgh; vice-president, J. G. White, New York; secretary, Edwin E. Sparks, Harrisburg; treasurer, D. W. Peet, State College; executive committee, E. S. Bayard, Pittsburgh; M. W. Lowry, Scranton; Vance C. McCormick, Harrisburg; H. W. Mitchell, Pittsburgh; Judge Ellis L. Orvis, Bellefonte; J. F. Shields, Philadelphia, and H. V. White, Bloomsburg.

GINGEROLE

The Greatest Known Remedy For Rheumatism, Colds in Chest, Lumbago, Ton-sillitis, Sore Throat, Neuralgia

Stops Headache, Backache, Relieves Stiff Joints Instantly

GINGEROLE is better than any hot water bag—poultice or ointment. Just rub it on, that's all. It is very penetrating but won't blister. A package that will do the work of 50 blistering, mustard plasters, cost but 25 cents. Use it to banish sore throat, cold in chest, tonsillitis, rheumatism, swollen glands, and to drive soreness from varicose veins. Money back if you don't say its results are astonishing.

Nothing so good for swollen, aching rheumatic joints, neuritis, sore muscles, sprains, stiff neck, bruises, itchy skin, itching feet, bunions, corns and callouses over night.

Gingerole is for sale and recommended by all druggists.

"DICK" ZOLL

Sergeant "Dick" Zoll, Engineer Corps, from somewhere on the ocean," writes an entertaining letter, full of news and full of loyalty, to his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Zoll, 240 North Fourteenth street. He was almost in port and had been on the water fourteen days. He had the good luck to escape sea sickness, and was surrounded by a dozen torpedo boat destroyers, U. S. N.

"Don't worry about me," he says, "as I am coming along fine. I went to bed last night and we must keep at our clothes on, so in turning over in my sleep I broke the hair spring in my pop's watch. Now, I am out of luck."

"We get lots of good stuff to eat on ship board; only two meals but lots of it. The lights go out at 4:30 every afternoon and go on again at 6:30 in the morning. That is to guard against submarines. All smoking is cut out when the lights go out. There are about eight transponders in our fleet. "My men are starting to get happy now; they know they are going to land very soon. They were worried about the submarines. I don't care much now, as a fellow only has one to die, but I would like to come back to the U. S. A. How is Bill Gardner and the rest of the boys? I want all the fellows to know that there is nothing yellow about me. Tell 'Ike' I often think of him and the rest of the boys.

As I write we are passing the mainland of Spain, December 10. We can see French battleships all around us and there are a lot of airplanes over head. So you may know we are well protected. We are passing through the Bay of Biscay and they say it is the roughest piece of water in the world. If that is so I do to do over again I would have enlisted in the Navy. It sure is some sport on board a ship. We will be in land don't worry, because we will have a chance there. I often think about you people; it helps pass the time, away, going back over the past.

WAR AID TO MEET Members of the National War Aid will meet in Red Cross headquarters in the Fager school building this evening from 7 to 9 o'clock for their regular Red Cross work. Mrs. William Jennings, chairman of the Chapter, requests that a full turnout of the organization be present.

Germany's Fault Is Lack of Humor, Thinks Author

JOHN GALSWORTHY.

John Galsworthy, the famous English novelist, who has written quite a few stories of the Great War, thinks the greatest German fault is lack of humor. Galsworthy has devoted himself to war work and has been in a French hospital back of the firing line; he also believes the allies will triumph through their sentiments and sense of humor.

OAKLEY PANELS WELL UNDER WAY

Supreme Court Series Is Being Painted by Artist at Philadelphia Studio

Despite scarcity of pigments and other materials due to the war reports coming to the Capitol from Philadelphia are to the effect that Miss Violet Oakley, commissioned to paint the panels for the mural decorations of the Supreme Court chamber is making rapid progress. The reports have been made in line with the terms of the commission whereby the artist receives remuneration as the work advances. The theme relates to the development of the system of law in this country and it is expected that the panels will be in place in 1919.

Miss Oakley will also paint two panels depicting the camps of the War of Independence and the Revolution in Pennsylvania. Valley Forge and Curtin, to complete the decorations of the Senate. These subjects are understood to have been outlined. It is unlikely that any further commissions will be given until after the war. The theme of the north corridor has been approved, but no artist selected since the death of John Alexander.

To Go to Camp—Plans for the Pennsylvania Reserve Militia now being organized call for encampment of the brigade at Mt. Gretna during the coming summer. The state has not only added to its holdings at the encampment site, but has also improved the field in use for the coming summer. The state has increased the water supply and highways. Abundant equipment for the summer tour of the Guardsmen has been ordered and it is also planned to have the new militiamen practice at the rifle ranges. Arrangements for opening the First National range near Philadelphia are to be made. Except that the state is paying all the bills the new Militia will replace the old guard in all respects.

To Get Early Start—Farmers of the state are being urged by the State Zoologist J. G. Sanders to take time as soon as the weather permits to examine condition of trees in orchards and their vines and berry bushes to determine what damage has been done by the zero weather, which it is feared has caused havoc in some parts of the state. Inspectors to see if any pests have infested trees are also being urged as desirable spring work, while clearing of land of all dead plants and brush has been done by the zero weather at the close of the last season owing to the early winter is declared to be important if productiveness of farms is to be increased.

To File Letters—Letters and telegrams being sent to Governor Brumbaugh by people protesting against the operation of the shut down order of the fuel administrator or the Monday holidays will not be sent to the office of Administrator Brumbaugh, Governor Brumbaugh says that enough to demonstrate the feeling of the people of the state have been sent, but that others will be filed.

Big Payment—What is believed to be close to a record payment of inheritance tax in recent years has just been received at the State Capitol from Fayette county. The check was for $153,519.26 and was on the A. M. Fuller estate.

Dr. Dixon Improving—Reports from State Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon are that he is improving and is keeping in daily touch with affairs at his office.

Reynoldsville Case Up—The Public Service Commission heard extended argument on the application for the Reynoldsville Water Company case in which the commission fixed a valuation. The action has attracted much attention.

Commission Meets—The State Water Supply Commission is holding its final January session here to-day with only one or two hearings scheduled.

Port Asks Caution—State Fire Marshal Port has issued a general warning to people throughout the state, especially manufacturers to take precautions against fires during the "shut down days."

Pittsburgh Sitting—The Public Service Commission last night approved certain modifications in the Pittsburgh Railway case in which six cents instead of ten is made the night fare and two tickets will be sold for eleven cents during the proceedings. Over a dozen boroughs in the vicinity of Pittsburgh have filed complaints about street railway service.

Smallpox Dodger Hit—William Schreckengast, the Centre county man who defied the state and tried to dodge regulations for smallpox, was fined $118 after he got out of quarantine. He was lucky that he did not go to jail. The man had brought the disease into Pennsylvania from Akron.

Middletown Tomorrow—The Middletown water case is scheduled to be heard to-morrow by the Public Service Commission.

Pittsburgh Visitors—Ex-Speaker George E. Alter and H. Walton Mitchell, chairman of the State College trustees, were at the Capitol. Farley Comes to Town—Richard V. Farley, new member of the State Industrial Board, came to Harrisburg yesterday to size up the new place. He filed his oath of office and was greeted by friends here. The post carries an allowance of $10 a day and expenses.

Former Deputy Dead—Wilson Greenland, who was deputy secretary of internal affairs under the Africa administration of that department, died at Huntingdon. He was a brother of the late Adjutant General W. W. Greenland.

Pure Oil Hearing—The hearing in the Pure Oil Company's merger and change of districts plan will be held here February 1.

New Assignments—According to word coming here Lieutenant Colonel L. V. Rausch, formerly stationed here, has been ordered to Greenville and Captain W. L. Hicks, late of the arsenal force, to Spartanburg, where General C. T. O'Neil, Captain H. M. Stine and others well known here are stationed.

Pittsburgh on the Map—According to word from Pittsburgh, Senator W. J. Burke will be one of the speakers at the O'Neil dinner and James A. Clark will be toastmaster. The latest advices are that Mayor Babcock's appointment of C. R. Fritchard as director of safety has been approved by council which also upheld two Babcock vetoes of bills sponsored by the Magee people. Walters For Sprout—Considerable

HUSBAND KILLS MAN IN HIS HOME

Max A. Boyer Is Held For Shooting T. W. Wade, at Hagerstown

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 22.—The coroner's jury impaneled to investigate the death of T. Webster Wade, aged 28, of Hagerstown, Pa., who was shot and killed by Max A. Boyer, a prominent young businessman of Hagerstown, in the latter's home late Saturday night, after hearing testimony of several witnesses, returned a verdict charging Boyer with the death of Wade. Later Boyer was released in a $10,000 bail by Judge M. L. Keedy, of the circuit court. Bond was furnished by Boyer's father.

The tragedy shocked the city when it became known, owing to the prominence of the Boyers. Mrs. Boyer is a daughter of John D. Swartz, a former prominent merchant, while her husband is a son of David H. Boyer, one of the leading businessmen of this city. Mr. Boyer is employed by the firm of Boyer and Heard, coal and grain dealers, and is well known. The shooting followed the discovery of Wade in the house when Boyer returned home. He found his wife acting strangely and taking a searchlight he went upstairs and discovered Wade crouching in a clothespress. Wade, it is asserted, leaped toward Boyer, who was armed with a 22-caliber pistol. He began firing as Wade advanced toward him and continued shooting as he backed down a stairway. Wade was killed by a bullet in his body, one striking the heart.

French Treat Yankees Lads Well, Writes This Harrisburger Over There

Arthur H. Doolittle, 1610 Chestnut street, has received a letter from Private Carroll W. Fitzgerald, who is now with the expeditionary forces in France, Battery G, Eighth Regiment. After expressing his gratitude for some boxes sent to him, Fitzgerald intimates that the life he leads is pretty strenuous. Speaking of the people and country, he says:

"The French certainly do treat us good; they almost went wild when the first U. S. troops landed. We did not touch here first. England was our first stop and we stayed there about a week, and believe me, I was certainly glad to get on land again. I did not care where it was and I did not see very much of the country. But England is a beautiful land; I never saw so many sheep, every field has some grazing. Everything is run so neatly in these foreign lands. Their passenger coaches are divided into small rooms seating eight people each. There are plenty of beautiful parks, and which could not be taken up drive milk wagons, tend bar in the saloons. Some class to them, too. France it is the same way. Women do a good body of work. You see few young men, for they were all killed off in the beginning of the war. You see numbers of children who have no parents. I certainly do pity them. This is what you would call a rolling country, the trees mostly pine and planted in garden. The houses are all made of stone or tile, with thatched roofs. The roads are of cobble stone and very solid."

Fitzgerald has no fear of the outbreak of war. "I will be here in 1920," he closes. "You must all have patience, for the U. S. troops are going to do the rest."

THE GULF STREAM It has been estimated that the total amount of warm water flowing by the Gulf Stream would cause a river of metal as large as the Mississippi to prove and is keeping in daily winter to a constant summer temperature the whole of the air that rests upon the British Isles and France. The fogs to which England is so subject are in a great part owing to it, and through it the western part of the land enjoys a temperature two degrees higher than that on the east.

comment was caused at the Capitol to-day when it was announced that Anderson H. Walters, former Washington party stalwart and former congressman at large, had come out in his paper, the Johnstown Tribune, for Sprout for Governor.

When nerves go wrong they always strike at your weakest spot. When this spot happens to be the stomach, nervous indigestion results, appetite vanishes and is replaced by an uneasy, hollow feeling that keeps up until every nerve in your body seems on edge. The food you force down won't digest properly, and you're all in—down and out for one day at least, so far as being really useful to yourself or anyone else is concerned.

It's the height of folly to force the digestion of food with some pepsin pill while the stomach nerves are in such shape. Nervous indigestion comes from nerves alone. Get your nerves right and you'll feel top and eat and digest what you eat as any normal, healthy person should. Nothing could be better for such cases than a single Margo tablet eaten on every meal. Whenever you feel blue or depressed and your nerves are working overtime, Margo is the greatest nerve tonic ever found for nervous dyspepsia, nervous headaches, nervous indigestion, nervousness and dizziness. When you want to fly, it stimulates and strengthens the nerves when they are dull, tired out and sluggish, and you cannot concentrate your mind on work. Every tablet seems to get straight to the nerve cells and puts ambition, vim, vitality, confidence and courage in every inch of you.
