FARMERS ASK FOR GOVERNMENT AID

Believe That Special Effort Ought to Be Made to Get Men For Agriculture

Resolutions adopted by the State Board of Agriculture at the joint meeting of the Board and allied bodies last night declaring that the draft should be extended to include people in all walks of life and that there should be conscription of labor if necessary to see that hands are provided for the farms will be sent to the national authorities at Washington. Conferences of men active in the Board were held to-day with a view to ascertaining what steps should be taken to secure men and representative farmers will likely go to Washington.

The speeches at the closing session of the Board and at the joint meeting dealt with conditions which the speakers declared would be alarming on the farms this year. Predictions of decreased production instead of an increase as asked were freely made.

John A. McSparran, master of the State Grange, said that he hoped early steps would be taken to supply labor for Pennsylvania's 218,000 farms.

In his speech last night, Mr. McSparran said in part: 'Last year the farmer took the Government at its word and raised a large crop under the direct promise that the farm labor would not be taken away, but instead of the Government fulfilling that promise the townsmen were allowed to take credit for a lot of enlistments that should have been credited to the country, the districts were drawn upon in proportion to population instead of in proportion to the number of registered men, and the result was that the farmer was left with a deficit that he could not make up. He is now being asked to produce the coming season what he did this last year, unless the Government very soon gets awake to the need of action and all this winter those who know how to raise food back to the farms.'

'General Crowder has made splendid recommendations to Congress to help the situation in his last report as far as the army draft goes and we hope that Congress will at once take the latest requests to heart. We believe, however, that special efforts ought to be made to get more men on the farms in view of the serious danger of an actual shortage everywhere next winter. All these adverse conditions have tempted the farmer to make the decision that this coming year he will plant just what he can nicely handle and harvest with the help he has in sight. If the dire result of that such a course were right, but the hardship will come to the soldier boy in France and the disgrace upon us all if the war is prolonged and our soldiers sacrificed for lack of food and munitions. We must produce to the extreme limit of our ability without regard to price, condition and at that our sacrifice will be small in comparison to the men who have to face the destruction of the battlefield in our behalf.'

General Bliss, with Staff, Arrives Safe in France

Paris, Jan. 24.—General Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., has arrived in France with his staff.

General Bliss, the chief-of-staff, was a member of the American commission to the interallied conference in Paris, and attended the first meeting of the supreme war council at Versailles last month. He returned to the United States on December 15.

U. S. Flour Supply May Be Cut 75 Per Cent. to Help Supply Allies

Washington, Jan. 24.—To create a large export surplus of flour for the allies, the food administration is considering a plan of forced reduction in flour sales all the way from the miller to the consumer. Millers, wholesalers, retailers and bakers probably will be required to hold their sales of flour down to 75 per cent. of the amount now handled.

As the allies are demanding from 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 more bushels of wheat, the food administration has arranged to take over 50 per cent. of America's flour production, out of which will be selected supplies for export.

Food administration officials believe that the United States can give Europe 90,000,000 bushels of wheat made in flour between now and the time the new American crop comes in, without endangering the American supply.

South Bethlehem Flier Battles With Germans

Paris, Jan. 24.—Two American aviators, Harry F. Johnson, of South Bethlehem, Pa., and Landrum Ovington, of Paris, who are serving with the Lafayette squadron engaged in German airmen on January 19. Johnson was shot in the stomach and descended. Ovington's machine was punctured by a number of bullets, but the aviator escaped uninjured.

Johnson, an undergraduate of Lehigh University, was captured upon. His condition is satisfactory.

Reserve Militia Officers Discuss Plans and Details

Men commissioned as officers of the Pennsylvania Reserve Militia met to-day at the Capitol to arrange for the organization of the three regiments of infantry and squadron of cavalry to comprise the new state guard. Over fifty men were present and the uniforms and equipment were shown and explained by Adjutant General Beary, who also had explained details of the organization, requirements of 'paper work' and many details.

Governor Brumbaugh in Addressing the Officers said that the splendid division given to the Army from Pennsylvania was largely due to the work of National Guardsmen, including some of the men now in the Reserve Militia. The Governor said it was important to maintain a force in the state for protection and to maintain the supplies for which the Government leans on Pennsylvania.

A number of additional appointments will be announced in a few days. Meanwhile recruiting is under way.

VICTORIA

Thursday and Friday—Mme. Petrova in 'The Daughter of Destiny.' Saturday and Sunday—'For Liberty.'

To-morrow night the Jewish public of this city are promised a treat by the National Yiddish Players of New York City, at the Orpheum Theatre. These high-class artists, need no praise or recommendation, they have been here before and were pronounced by press and public as being one of the best on the road. The play to be presented is 'Gee, My Wife,' the first real Yiddish musical comedy of the stage with special scenery, electrical effects and costumes. Jacob Shlekovitz, the eminent actor-director, who for the past eight years has been with this organization, still heads the company. Seats are now on sale.

Professional palmistry is made the object of clever satire in Pinero's 'Gay Lord Quex.'

Drew-Illington Soph. Puffblower, played by Margaret Illington, is engaged to one 'Valma,' a palmet, Soph and girl assistants adroitly steer the women customers from their shop to the parlors of a madame.

Valma. Suspicion of Valma's 'prophetic' powers is felt by most of these customers, though the sceptic 'credulity' makes them hope that there may be 'something' in what he tells them. Pinero very neatly discloses the fact that Soph herself is the most suspicious of Valma's 'occult powers.' To be silly at the Madam's who has been told by Valma that many men are in love with her, the almost down-right Soph explains to see, your grace, if a woman is pretty, and Valma finds Venus' girldie well in the palm, she is if her conclusions from other signs that she is 'vain and light and loose; it isn't much to be sure, but she is a fine fellow, men licking their lips at the thought of her. Which would seem to prove that the mysterious Valma's deductions were based on rather material data. John Drew and Margaret Illington, joint stars in 'The Gay Lord Quex,' will appear at the Orpheum on Saturday evening only.

One of the most pretentious musical comedy offerings ever presented at the Regent is 'Hello, Japan' at the Majestic. The play at the Majestic, which is the reigning feature of the bill at the Majestic, the latter half of this week. Jack Claire, an excellent comedy entertainer, is the person of the piece in this witty sayings keep everyone in constant laughter. Nine people make up the personnel of the cast, and the set is presented in two elaborate scenes. The costumes are gorgeous and are worn by a chorus of Broadway beauties, and the song and dance numbers are pleasing. Grouped around this attraction are Frances Dyer, in a realistic singing offering; Little Jerry, the ill-fated comedian; Frawley and West, in a novelty ring act, and Bowers, Walters and Crocker, presenting a laughable variety skit.

Charming Peggy Hyland appears to splendid advantage in the Vitaphone feature, 'Persuasive Peggy,' which is now being shown at the Colonial Theater.
