FIRST RECITAL MOST PLEASING

Organists Meet in St. Stephen's Church; Resolution on Death of E. J. Deceve

The first of a series of organ recitals arranged by the Harrisburg Association of Organists was held last evening in St. Stephen's P. E. Church, North Front street, with the newly-enlarged and rebuilt organ beautifully sustaining the players. On the program were: Miss J. Cassell, organist at Fifth Street Methodist Church; Miss Ruth S. Kraybill, of Stevens Memorial Methodist Church; Frank A. McCarron, Pine Street Presbyterian Church; William R. Stonestorfer, Grace Methodist Church, and Alfred C. Kuschwa, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Assisting were Harold J. Bartz, organist of the First Presbyterian Church of York, who played "Finale in B Flat Major," by Franck, and Eldon R. Hines, soloist of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church, whose beautiful voice never appeared to better advantage than as he sang, "My Hope" in the "Daughter of Jairus," Stainer.

Harold Shaffer Host to Finis Club Members

The Finis Club held its regular bi-weekly meeting at the residence of Harold Shaffer, 1622 Market street. Three resolutions presented for approval by Harold Shaffer were voted a benefit to the club, socially and morally, and were formally accepted as part of each member's duty. After the business meeting Norman Berlin displayed his ability as a narrator by giving a little reading in the form of a Romance. Refreshments were then served to the following members: George Fleck, Harold Shaffer, Norman Berlin, Clarence Stiles, Leon Simonetti and Berwyn Romig. The next meeting will be held at the home of Clarence Stiles, 1814 Susquehanna street, February 7.
