BEAUTY SECRET

Mae. De Lores, the famous French Actress, who recently arrived in this country and who is now in her 65th year, has astonished everyone who has seen her, by her exquisite complexion and clear, smooth skin which is not marred by a single line or wrinkle.

When asked to explain how she had retained her marvelous girlish beauty, she replied one. That she had always practiced one of the stripping of the stripping of the stripping with a soft, dry cloth. Mile. De Lores says that any American woman who has wrinkles, and large pores or flabby loose skin can easily and quicky over much a connoisseur of beauty, should appeal strongly to every lady who appreciates what a fair face means to the gentle sex.—Advertisement.

RIVERMEN FEAR A SPRING FLOOD

River and Its Branches Covered With Heavy Ice

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 28 .- With ice Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 28.—With ice from twenty-seven to thirty-six inches thick on the main body of the Susquehanna and both its north and west branches, practically from Harrisburg to Renovo and from Sunbury to Wilkes-Barre, and at many places frozen solid to the bottom, rivermen fear a serious flood in case of a sudden breakup. So thick is it at this place that they declare a freight train could run over the lee without breaking it.

At Bloomsburg State Water Supply Commission employes took soundings last week, and they found that in many places the river was frozen to the bottom, and where the current was the swiftest it was frozen to a cepth of twenty-seven inches, with very little water running honest.

Why You Are Not Paying 30 Cents for Sugar

In April 1917 the cables told of a plan proposed by Herbert C. Hoover, then in London, which he described as "a plan by which the Allies can consolidate under one head the whole purchasing of food staples from our market, and not only will competitive bidding be abolished, but by co-operative buying on our side we can arrange the proper balance between the rights of producers and consumers."

This plan was favorably received by the sugar refining industry, which had been on a war basis almost from the beginning of the European War.

The war had brought the Allies into the Cuban market, resulting in severe domestic and international competition with no increased supplies. Naturally prices of refined sugar, both to the American public and to the Allies, rose under this forced draft.

Domestic sugar refiners, since the outbreak of the European War not only have safeguarded the United States supply but have maintained the lowest sugar prices in the world.

This brilliant record is due largely to the fact that sugar refining is in the hands of large business units, with an excess of refining capacity sufficient to supply all domestic needs, and so far all demands of foreign countries.

In the spring of 1917 there was a serious attempt at the disorganization of the sugar refining industry, following a long series of attempts at destruction of sugar ships.

Accompanying these incidents were widely circulated sensational reports predicting a sugar famine and sugar shortage, causing widespread apprehension.

At that time, even with the assurance of ample supplies on hand, retail sugar prices rose in some sections to 20 and 25

The efforts of the Franklin Sugar Refining Company to allay public alarm, to check hoarding, to accept a price less than that which it could easily have secured, and to distribute its eproduct fairly and evenly among the

While there were great supplies of sugar in far-away Java which ordinarily would have gone to Europe, yet the necessity for saving ships became so great that Europe turned to Cuba for even larger supplies than previously.

It takes a cargo ship 150 days to make a round trip between England and Java, while a round trip between England and Cuba can be made in 50 days.

Under these circumstances and seemingly to avoid paying proposed United States war taxes on refined sugar the European Allies purchased in Cuba the sugar which ordinarily would have come to the United States in the fall months.

These conditions, and especially the necessity of saving ships, led the United States and the Allied Nations to urge upon the sugar industry the adoption by voluntary agreement of the original Hoover plan, under the authority of the Food Control Act, passed August 10, 1917.

The cane-sugar refiners and the beet-sugar producers unanimously agreed to the Hoover plan as a patriotic act in the interest of the American people and as an aid to the Allies.

This is the significance of the appointment by the United States Food Administration of the International Sugar Committee to which the Allies send representatives for England, France, Italy and Canada, and to which the United States contributes three

Upon the success of the operation of the International Sugar Committee under the directions of the Allied Governments, acting for practically half the civilized world, will depend the readjustment of the world's sugar markets.

This plan is full of promise to all the nations party to the convention.

It is an assurance that sugar, although comparatively cheap in view of war conditions, will not by reason either of competitive or speculative activity be increased in wholesale price.

Sugar will become stabilized in price with sufficient profit to producers, refiners and merchants to maintain and stimulate production and to cover the cost of refining and of distribution.

The marketing of Franklin Cane Sugars in cartons and small cotton bags by this Company has helped amazingly during the pinch of the fall months, in giving a wide distribution among the retailers of the reduced sugar supplies.

While a barrel formerly was the unit of the grocer the same amount of sugar put up in cartons and small cotton bags can now be divided between two or more grocers and so serve a larger number of people and prevent hoarding.

It will be necessary for grocers and consumers to watch carefully their distribution and purchases during the approaching period of readjustment. The refineries are now starting up and supplies of raw sugar coming forward but it will take weeks, and possibly months, before the return of normal conditions.

Housewives can aid in conserving the sugar supply by buying these package sugars.

In war time and at all times it is our aim to safeguard the interests of the public we serve.
