Snow Makes Restaurant Owners Work Overtime

The snows of the past few days are keeping a good many people down town for lunch instead of letting them go home as is their usual custom. These are being shown what good restaurants Harrisburg can boast of. Among those prominently mentioned is that of the Crisfield Cafe in Chestnut street. Mr. Parks, the proprietor, is an old-timer when it comes to the restaurant business and he knows just what pleases the big majority. Full course meals as well as short orders can be obtained at this restaurant. Service and quality are two dominating features. Cleanliness and wholesome food speak for themselves when you are eating at this restaurant. Everything is well cooked and you go away with the feeling that you will surely be back again to-morrow for another meal. This restaurant is centrally located and easily accessible. Harrisburg is only a short distance from Market street and just above the Chestnut Street Market. If you are not already acquainted with it, you can find out that just what well-cooked meals means to a hungry man.

Up-town Book Store Carry Latest Books

Many people think that the smaller book stores are not as quick in getting the latest books published as some of the larger stores. This may be so in some instances, but up-town there is a book store that keeps abreast of the times in all the latest books. Not only do they get the latest books as soon as published, but they keep in touch with publishers in order to learn beforehand just what is expected. This store is in the heart of the up-town section. Latimer Willis is the proprietor. Mr. Willis has a vast experience in the book trade. He established his store in Third street just above Cumberland some years ago and handles only the best books and the kind the people demand. Aside from his regular book trade, Mr. Willis handles stationery of all kinds; for business purposes as well as the fancy grades for the home. He also handles a full line of photographic and typewriting supplies. In fact anything that is usually found in the city you get at this book and stationery store will be found on the shelves of this establishment.

Spurrer's Restaurant Has Good Reputation

While speaking to a man the other day in regards to restaurants and the food question in general, he said: "Do you know, I think Spurrer's restaurant, in Sixth street, just below Rely, is about the best place in the city. You get good, wholesome food, well cooked and in my estimation the prices are as reasonable as any I have found. Mr. Spurrer gives personal attention to everything and a person is made to feel very much at home while eating there. I often stop in in the evenings on my way home and get a little lunch. And on Sunday, say they cook the best chicken dinner! All you could get away with and it's only fifty cents. Believe me, that's what I call cheap. Why, my wife couldn't come anywhere near getting up a meal at that price. And I'm not the only one that has that opinion of this restaurant. Ask any of the boys, they'll tell you the same thing. And by the way, do you like good sauerkraut? If you do, slip over to this restaurant and get a quart to take home. It's the best I've ever tasted." "Mr. Spurrer tells me it was made on a farm down near Middletown by people he knows personally, and that it is made just the same as they make their own. Yes, sir, boy; me for Spurrer's restaurant every time."

Coco-Cola Gaining in Popularity

Every year sees rapid strides taken by the Coco-Cola people in the manufacture of that popular drink. More and more people are finding out what wonderful properties Coco-Cola has as a thirst quenching medium. 1917, while considered a hard year for most all business, was no exception to the rule for the onward march of Coco-Cola popularity. There was more sold last year than ever before. And 1918 is already taking its place in the race to outdo 1917. Coco-Cola is a national beverage. It is as well known in the towns and cities of Maine; in Sunny California; in Northern Washington and in the everglades of Florida, as it is right here on the banks of the Susquehanna river. Everywhere people drink Coco-Cola, and no matter where you go, you may rest assured that there you will find the drink that is your favorite, Coco-Cola. In Harrisburg Coco-Cola is manufactured and bottled by the Coco-Cola Bottling Works at 1326 Marion street. Modern and up-to-date machinery, capable of bottling thousands of bottles a day, is installed. Sterilizing apparatus for the thorough cleansing of bottles, which goes to make Coco-Cola manufacture meet sanitary and wholesome standards is also installed. Coco-Cola is sold by all soda fountains, a good many grocery stores and many other places. However, if you cannot get it conveniently call the Coco-Cola Bottling Works and have a case delivered right at your home.

Milk Cheap, Considering Its High Food Value

The average housekeeper is somewhat dismayed at the present high price of milk, owing to the fact that so short a time ago it was selling for the small sum of six cents a quart. While the rise in twelve cents when taken into consideration, its wonderful food value and the many uses it is put to the daily preparing of meals, it is still cheaper than most any other foods. There is hardly one dish that can be prepared to be made tasty and delicious without the use of milk. Milk makes a good many dishes palatable that without it the taste would be of an almost neutral quantity. Of course, many have the idea that milk makes the uses they usually put it to, but they surely cannot eliminate it entirely.

Harrisburg has a large number of milkmen who are conscientious and who give the customer the best milk obtainable. Harrisburg lies in a center of the best dairy products producing country in many states, and therefore it is reasonable to believe that Harrisburgers get the best quality milk that is produced. One Harrisburg dealer who takes pride in the quality of the milk he handles is L. A. Sterick, 2250 Jefferson St. Mr. Sterick, with the thought always in mind, that as milk is such a universal food, and is particularly in demand for babies, takes great care in the handling of his products. He uses the most up-to-date equipment for this purpose and every quart of milk put out by him can be depended on to be absolutely fresh and sanitary.

Flowers Help Make Sick Room Cheerful

Many a time while visiting in sick rooms where possibly some kind heart has thought of the wonderful cheering value of flowers, you will notice the vast difference they make from rooms where there are no flowers. A small bunch of flowers sent to a friend who is sick, not only helps to cheer them up but also speaks volumes in showing the recipient that your thoughts are with him. Such a gift is not at all expensive and yet answers the purpose of a much more costly one and probably does much more good. Schmitt Florist in Third street, makes a specialty of cut flowers of all kinds. They are also members of the Florist and Stationery Delivery whereby your order for flowers can be taken care of in any part of the country you may wish to send flowers.

Oleomargarine a French Discovery

In 1869 or 1870 when butter was scarce in France, Napoleon offered a prize for a substitute and in the later years the prize was won by Monsieur Mege-Mouries, a French chemist. In analyzing milk this chemist found that it contained quantities of beef fat; he reasoned naturally that if beef fat made milk, milk made cream, cream made butter; finally that beef fat would make butter. Thus the first buterine, or oleomargarine which is the legal name, was made. Since that time men have striven unceasingly to improve on the commodity and have succeeded so wonderfully that to-day it is a difficult matter to distinguish between oleomargarine and the real creamery butter.

"Butterine is not a makeshift for butter," writes Mary J. McClure in the housewife's Revised Creed, "but is a separate and distinct product having merits of its own. It is a combination of the essential food fats of our everyday diet, and has the approval and recommendation of Europe's famous food experts. Dr. Harvey Wiley, Prof. Henry Morton, Prof. Paul Switzer and many others, all of them being chemists and food authorities." All agree that buterine is pure, wholesome and delicious. Domestic science experts enthusiastically endorse buterine and sometimes use it to the exclusion of butter. In the home it provides a delicious spread for bread, for hot griddle cakes and waffles, baked potatoes, hominy, rice, meat, gravies, for shortening in cakes, and for frying. L. G. Martin, the up-town grocer, has a large trade in oleomargarine. He handles the famous Nut-made and White Flyer brands. These are a first-class and economical substitute, if one wants to call it that, for butter.

Is Your Home Well Heated This Winter?

Many people are complaining because they cannot keep their homes heated this winter. Even with a cellar full of coal it is a problem to keep warm with a poor heating system. Therein lies the question. With Craig boilers it is as easy as heating your home as it is not to. They are so constructed that they furnish a maximum amount of heat for a minimum amount of coal. Sufficient radiation for the amount of floor space is an essential in keeping all rooms warm and this is where M. H. Baker Co. who are the local distributors for the "Craig Boilers," always work. They have on hand at the present time, a large supply of these boilers and more are on the way. They also do a general plumbing and heating business. They carry the all-standard plumbing equipment and have first class mechanics to do their work. All estimations on both the heating and plumbing jobs are cheerfully given. They are located at 1330 Derry street.

Heavy Snows Hamper Milk Deliveries

The heavy snows of the past few weeks and especially the one on Monday of this week, has seriously hampered the milk deliveries in this city. Getting around at the usual time is almost out of the question. With the big snowdrifts in the side streets and everywhere except in the streets where the snow has been thrown aside by the street cars, driving through is almost out of the question. However all the milkmen are doing their best to make their usual deliveries. C. E. Cooper and Sons who conduct a large dairy business at Twentieth and Brookwood streets are doing their best to maintain their delivery service. They make a specialty of milk for babies and therefore are doing all they can during this severe weather. They also handle cottage cheese and high grade butter.

Snow Brings Back Old Fashioned Sled Parties

With the snowfall of the past few weeks, the old-fashioned sleighing parties of the not-so-long-ago are again "coming back." Remember when you and I were youngsters that good times we used to have when, with that old "sweetheart of ours" we bundled up in an old bobbed and were driven out somewhere in the country for a god old chicken and waffle supper? Good times? Well I guess. This winter is bringing back the days of long ago and sleighing parties are more numerous than for a number of years back. Going out into the country with a chicken and waffle supper at the end certainly winds up "the end of a perfect day." And there is no better place for that supper than the Coxestown Hotel up along the river. The drive to this hotel, while not so long as perfectly safe, it being along a well driven road. The suppers served are right up to date; any number of people can be accommodated. Turkey suppers can be had also. In order to be sure of tables it is a wise thing to call up on the phone and make a reservation for your party.

Watch Your Step if You've Got a Wooden Leg

That's what they used to say, because wooden legs were such awkward things at the best that it was pretty hard navigating for the poor fellow who had one. But not so these days, for with the kind of legs manufactured by the W. J. Piker Artificial Limb Shop, you are almost as sure of your footing as the proverbial Rocky Mountain ram. It is indeed hard to tell that a fellow has a wooden leg if he got it from Mr. Piker, for these legs are as nearly like real ones as modern science and twenty years' experience can make them. They have all the movements of a regular leg, even down to the toe movements. They are so constructed through spring manipulation, that they are almost active through thought alone. This is wonderful when you stop to think of walking around with crutches or with an inferior limb. Mr. Piker gives personal attention to all his work. His shop is located in Sixth street near Calder. He gladly explains all the important points of the limbs he manufactures and tells why he thinks they are the best to be had.

Corner Grocery Helps Many House-Wives

The corner grocery store comes in handy many times during a day in solving little problems preparatory to meal time. How often Mrs. Jones says, "Oh, I forgot to get sugar, or I forgot to get coffee," or some such articles, and then "James, you run up to the store and get a loaf of bread and a bar of soap." Every day such little occurrences are happening everywhere. No matter how good a thinker you may be, there are times when you will forget some needed accessory to the daily meal. And many times company will walk in unexpectedly and tie up your plans for supper. Then is where the "corner grocery" comes in handy. It's the "corner grocery" that has the store on hand that meets this demand. Everything in staple and fish groceries must be handled in order to keep the trade satisfied and supply the demands of a community. Such a store is that of C. E. McAllicher at the corner of Green and Peffer streets. Mr. McAllicher's store is fully equipped to supply every need of the housewife from tooth-picks to olives. The prices maintained are all standard, and courteous treatment is accorded everyone who deals there.
