

REPUBLICANS FOR WAR BILLS

Senators Agree to Do Everything Possible For U. S. Success in Conflict

Washington D. C. Feb. 11.—Republican Senators will give hearty and united support to all measures necessary to the vigorous prosecution of the war to a successful issue.

This decision was formally reached at the first conference held by Republican members of the Senate since the entrance of the United States into the World War.

While various items of pending legislation were naturally expected to be brought under discussion as a result of the announced meeting, they formed but a small part of the proceedings.

That none was responsible for the conference was emphatically stated by leading members in attendance.

Not to Act as a Unit "The conference was not called to consider the effecting of Republican organization against any pending measure," said Senator Gallinger.

"The fact," continued the Senator, "so far as that phase of the situation was concerned the result of the discussion was that with respect to measures not vitally connected with the prosecution of the war, there would be no thought of acting as a unit."

"It was recognized that there are features of pending legislation which need careful consideration. In touching on the Overman bill, the question of granting too much power to the President was practically disregarded.

Senator Gallinger illustrated his meaning by reference to the British organization, where five or six men of distinction, representing expert ability in their particular fields, have been appointed and given power to act without the introduction of special laws, to make the system one of rigidity.
