FRED W. DINGER WINS BIG PRIZE IN KANSAS CITY SHOOT---TECH TRACK MEN START

FRED. W. DINGER CAPTURES PRIZE; BEATS BIG FIELD

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 14.—A Pennsylvanian is the holder of the interstate individual amateur pigeon cup. Forty-three trapsmen from eight states competed in the feature event of the third day's shooting of the fourteenth annual midwinter tournament yesterday and at the close F. W. Dinger, of Harrisburg, Pa., was high gun. In the field were several of the best amateur shots in the country, and Dinger's victory was a big boost for trapshooting back in the Keystone state.

Dinger didn't miss a bird during the race, but at that was forced into a shootoff before winning the high honors. Each contestant shot at fifteen birds. Dinger, William Ridley, of Whatcheer, Iowa, and A. L. Koyen, of Fremont, Neb., had clean scores at the finish of the regular program. Ridley was the first to toe the mark in the extra race at right birds.

The Iowan missed his first three birds and dropped out. Dinger and Koyen then battled for the cup, the former scoring eight kills to the lat-

The court in disposing of the case states that while a special verdict authorizes a verdict of guilty to be entered if it is found the defendants violated the act of 1897; but as it appeared from the facts the indictment should have been drawn under the later law, a verdict of not guilty is ordered.

Another interesting case disposed of in an opinion by Judge Kunkel was a suit by Anna R. Motter against Belle Stephenson, administratrix of the estate of John Marquart, deceased.

It appeared from the facts in the the estate of John Marquart, deceased.

It appeared from the facts in the case that the late Mr. Marquart bequeathed a life insurance policy to a friend. His sister took out letters of administration on the estate and refused to pay the policy. A court suit was decided against her, and it is stated she then refused to pay the costs of the proceeding. The court decided that as she personally had more at interest in withholding the insurance policy she was liable for the costs of the prosecution to get the money.

German Cartridges

Denver, Col. A crucifix made of german cartridges and bullets is the unique war souvenir of Lieutenant Thomas Patterson Campbell, of this city.

Lieutenant Campbell served in the American Ambulance Corps on the French war front, and was presented with the crucifix by a French mechanic.

It was made in an earodrome on the Alsne front; its polygonal base foundation was cut from the base of a 225 millimeter howitzer shell casing, the stand is the fuse cap of an Austrian 105-millimeter projectile, while the cross itself is composed of German cartridges and bullets picked up in "No Man's Land."
