French Airplanes Sink German U-Boat After an Encounter in the Channel

Paris, Feb. 15.—An encounter between two French hydroplanes and a German submarine in the English channel recently probably resulted in the sinking of the U-boat after it had been bombed by the planes, according to an official announcement by the French Admiralty.

The airplanes were on patrol duty over the channel, when they discovered the submarine on the surface.

While one airplane returned to the base for more bombs, the other kept watch and saw the submarine emerge after a few seconds with a list to port of forty-five degrees. After attempting to right itself, the submarine again disappeared, only to reappear a third time. Its instability, however, increased and suddenly the observer saw the submarine list still further and sink, so that even the periscope could not be seen.

Nerves Need Phosphorus Like Muscles Need Food

Says Doctor Who Prescribes Phosphated Malt to Steady the Nerves, Clear the Brain and Build Up Weak, Nervous, Run-down People

Boston, Mass.—"Your nerves need phosphorus like your muscles need food," says Dr. Reid, "and the trouble with most men and women past thirty is they have exhausted their natural supply of phosphorus and find themselves run down, weak and nervous. Often they look strong as if they could do a full day's work, but while they have a certain kind of strength they lack endurance. They also lack decision and find it difficult to concentrate on one thing and finish it, and they are nervous, irritable and easily startled at any sudden noise or unusual occurrence."

August, widely discussed at the time and approved by the State Insurance Department. The State Insurance Fund and the insurance companies united in fixing the new rates, which it is claimed were advanced to meet increased costs and to meet situations growing out of the various occupations for which insurance had to be taken out. The point was made in relation to threshermen that their business is attended by more or less hazard. The new rates are just commencing to affect the insurers.

They also lack decision and find it difficult to concentrate on one thing and finish it, and they are nervous, irritable and easily startled at any sudden noise or unusual occurrence."

"But generally a lack of phosphorus shows itself in a lack of general interest and people are often thought to be lazy whereas they are only nerve-starved. For months or years they go on using a little more phosphorus than the system produces until their store is exhausted and complete nervous breakdown is close at hand. Both mind and body are affected. They are less and feel less, either of pleasure or pain, and nothing impresses them or interests them as once did. It is dangerous and needless to run into such a condition, for in a few days the supply of phosphorus can be replenished. Two five-grain tablets of phosphated malt after each meal for ten days will usually be all that is necessary."
