In the above picture are members of the Harrisburg Sportsmen's Association who have been prominent in keeping Harrisburg on the map as a live sport city. They were not all in the big shoot yesterday, but have hung up records at traps for many seasons. Those who follow livebird matches have seldon missed an sportsmen are now planning for a new field and up-to-date clubhouse. In the above picture the shooters are:

Princeton a Factor

Princeton is the team Penn must respect more than Cornell. The Tigers have five games to play, three at home and two away, and as the Bengals are strong in every department they loom up more dangerously to the Red and Blue than Cornell, which has twice been downed by Penn this season.

In only ten minutes of the forty did Cornell hold its own with Penn. This was five minutes after the first half opened. Penn had secured an early start on Davis' goal after getting a pass from Martin and had a 6-3 lead before Cornell came to life. The Ithacans then braced, crawled to 6-5 when Kendall scored the visitors' first goal by batting the ball in, after following up a shot, and until near the end of the half the Cornell squad kept Penn moving. Penn, however, kept Cornell from getting too close when Peck scored his first field toss and the half ended 12-7 in the Quakers' favor. The second half was a rout for the Northern New York State goal-getters.

the boxers of to-day.

Madden always coached his fighters to avoid clinching and to rely upon blocking, countering or footwork to avoid punishment. He was one of the men who helped draw up the Marquis of Queensberry rules and he was disgusted by the way the modern boxers violated the code as laid down by him.

member it. To begin with it was cold on the fingers, and the blinding snow interfered with the shooters. However, it was a dandy shoot and scores were satisfactory.

War even put a crimp in the trapper boy squad who have been prominent in the big shoots held in Harrisburg. Boys are doing their bit in various ways and the veteran trappers were unable to help out yesterday. New boys proved expensive as they allowed a number of birds to get away.

E. W. Shank, president of the Harrisburg Sportsmen's Association, was on hand yesterday and he started the big field in the shooting. He wanted to get through early as he was a very busy man until the close of the big match. He proved his worth in many ways.

While it is not decided definitely, local shooters may use the fields at West Fairview and New Cumberland for future shoots, until such a time when the Harrisburg Sportsmen will be able to secure new grounds. War will prevent early action in getting a new home. It is said that plans are

It's the eighteenth annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress now on at Cincinnati.

Just a shade under 9,029 tons in dead weight will be lifted by the pin boys.

Here is how a Washington Herald sport writer figures:

The women who will bowl in the Woman's National Turney will lift assay. The men who will bowl in the A. B. C. roll-off will handle 8,027,-424 pounds in bowling balls.

The poor pin boys will not only have to handle all of this weight the bowlers will lift in bowling balls, but also will have to lift 9,643,590 pounds in pins.
