SUIT CAUSED BY COAL SHORTAGE

Damages Asked From John J. Millesen, Burgess and Coal Dealer, of Mechanicsburg

Carlisle, Pa., March 4.—A peculiar suit growing out of the late cold weather was filed in the office of the Prothonotary here when Lynn M. Irvine, attorney for William C. Templin, began an action to secure $1,000 damages from John J. Millesen, Burgess and a coal dealer, of Mechanicsburg.

William Varner Killed While Asleep on Tracks

Shippensburg, Pa., March 4.—On Saturday night the body of William Varner, of Cleversburg, about three miles southeast of here, was found along the tracks of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway. His left arm and head were nearly severed from the body and the left shoulder and chest were crushed. It is believed he was asleep on the tracks and was hit by the night shifting engine.

MYSTERY IN CARLISLE DEATH

Geo. Norton, Aged 65, Found Dead in Room in Chapel Alley

Carlisle, Pa., March 4.—County officials to-day began a probe into the mysterious death of George Norton, aged 65, found dead yesterday shortly before noon in a room in Chapel Alley, which he occupied. There was a mark on his head as from a blow and suspicious point to possible foul play.

AGED WOMAN HURT

Mechanicsburg, Pa., March 4.—A small footstool which she did not see caused Mrs. Annie Boss to fall in her home in West Keller street on Friday night just before retiring. Her right hip was injured and she is suffering from the shock. She is aged about 82 years.

Educational Sessions to Be Held in Derry Street Church

Washington, March 4.—Porkless Saturday and the meatless meal every day were wiped off the American housewife's kitchen calendar yesterday by the United States food administration with these words of caution: "Save more wheat!"

ASH PROBLEM TO COME UP AGAIN BEFORE COUNCIL

Commissioner Hassler said he will bring up the question of awarding a contract for ash collections again at the meeting of Council to-morrow although he admitted he had no definite assurance that funds had been found available to provide the additional $20,000 to be added to the appropriation for the work.

Not Certain if River Coal Can Be Taxed by City
While members of council to-day they favored a tax on the river coal industry in the city, they said they would first take up the question with the city solicitor's office to learn whether they can take such action.

It is probable that if it is found that the city can legally tax the owners of coal fleets, the revenue will be derived as wharfage tax. In speaking of the method to-day one of the commissioners intimated the decision to tax the owners may necessitate the construction of a wharf—probably on the west side of the island.

Leading laymen and ministers of the United Brethren denomination will be heard at the Derry Street United Brethren Church to-morrow afternoon and evening, at 1.30 and 8 o'clock. The afternoon sessions will be in the form of a committee meeting in which leading ministers and laymen will participate, and the evening will be open to the general public.

Among those who will appear on the program will be Bishop William M. Bell, of Washington, and until recently of the Pacific coast district of his denomination, will speak of the "Four-Year Program and Its Relation to the Educational Work." Dr. S. S. Hough, Dayton, Ohio, the missionary secretary, will speak on the "Relation of Missions to the Christian Colleges." Congressman Aaron S. Kreider, Annapolis, chairman Lebanon Valley College Endowment Campaign, will speak of the plans for carrying on the campaign, while President G. D. Gosard, will speak on "The Place of the Christian College in Denominational and National Life." Dr. S. C. Enck, Philadelphia, will preside.

At these conferences no solicitation for funds of any kind will be made. These gatherings are purely educational in character, and an unusual opportunity for members of the United Brethren Church and friends of Lebanon Valley College is offered.

Conferences scheduled for this week in Baltimore, Harrisburg, Lancaster, Lebanon, Allentown and Reading.

Issues Statement
The following statement has been issued by Congressman Kreider: "That the campaign to be launched for an adequate endowment for Lebanon Valley College, is a part of the great movement of the larger denominations as well as that of the United Brethren, who at their recent session of general conference held at White Plains, adopted a four-year program calling for a $2,000,000 fund to be divided among the seven colleges and seminary of the denomination.

"All of this is in harmony with the general need as recognized not only by the denominations but also by the federal government and may be regarded as a wise measure. The national education commissioner has recently urged that in addition to the large work that is now done to safeguard the training of the youth of these United States, that $221,000,000 be appropriated for the purpose of further extending educational equipment and salaries for teachers."

Congressman Kreider further stated that he is in hearty sympathy and in harmony with the movement that will be national in its scope. He sees great danger of educational interests being neglected due to the stress of war conditions and is foremost in the minds of the people, and would consider it most unwise and unpatriotic should this phase of war emergency be overlooked for even during the war and especially at the close of the conflict the nation will need as never before the services of intelligent leadership which the colleges and schools supply.

This demand will at the close of the war tax every institution of learning to the utmost capacity and now is the time to prepare for the emergency which is sure to come, in other words, the colleges and schools must prepare to meet the demands of the nation.

utter a sound and lead us back to our line." The German prisoners silently led the Americans back to their own trenches, and then was turned over to the intelligence officers of the unit, who gained much valuable information from him.

HAYS TO DIRECT 1918 CAMPAIGN TO WIN HOUSE

Republican National Chairman Will Take Charge of Doubtful Districts

Washington, March 4.—Co-operation between the Republican National Committee, under the leadership of Will H. Hays, and the National Republican Congressional Committee in the effort of the minority in Congress to organize the new House will be more, much more, than a word. To Mr. Hays "co-operation" is defined as combined effort, and for that reason the chairman will make a trip throughout the country for the purpose of aiding the fight of the party to regain a stronghold this year in Congress.

When Mr. Hays on his recent trip to Washington succeeded in dispersing the clouds of suspicion and petty jealousy which has caused more or less bitter differences of opinion and lack of co-operation between the National and Congressional committees, leaders of the party hailed his accomplishment as a work which undoubtedly would have good effect in the congressional con-

When Mr. Hays on his recent trip to Washington succeeded in dispersing the clouds of suspicion and petty jealousy which has caused more or less bitter differences of opinion and lack of co-operation between the National and Congressional committees, leaders of the party hailed his accomplishment as a work which undoubtedly would have good effect in the congressional contest. But it is safe to say that no one, not even powerful leaders, expected such an active program, as has been mapped out in the last few days.

Hays to Work in Districts
No one supposed, for instance, that Mr. Hays would take personal charge of the fight in doubtful congressional districts, where he believes a strong organizer will be needed to assure success to the Republican candidates. That is what Mr. Hays intends to do, and he is going to start the work in the near future, while Representatives are busy here with war legislation.

The National Committee will arrange a speaking campaign, and speakers representing the National Committee will tour the country just as they have in Presidential contests. This speakers' bureau will be under the direction of Mr. Hays, aided by a corps of assistants, who will investigate the political situation in the nation, and the fight will be waged in those districts where it is considered present Democratic members of the House can be displaced.

SWAB COMPANY OFFICERS
