

METHODISTS AT BIG RALLY PLAN FOR PROHIBITION

Prominent Churchmen and Laymen Speak at First Annual Dinner

The Masonic Temple banquet room was the scene last night of a most significant gathering, that of 500 Methodists, representing all Harrisburg churches of that denomination and many others in the immediate neighborhood. The occasion was notable as an outstanding precedent for a similar annual meeting each year and for the progressive plans adopted having to do with general church welfare and prohibition. Religion and the war, that transcendent topic which is being so generally discussed, was touched on by Bishop William F. McDowell, one sentence making a profound impression: "Death has suddenly become interesting to the youth instead of the aged; it has come to have a new interest in the hearts of men."

In speaking on the subject, "Methodism in Harrisburg and Its Opportunities," J. Horace McFarland emphasized that its chief point of attack just now should be the "booster" protection. He insisted that every church member enroll, and, "We not only want Pennsylvania's support to the federal amendment, but we want state-wide prohibition sixty days after the next Legislature meets."

He brought up a vital subject, one which is greatly concerning the Y. M. C. A., namely, the problem of taking care of men and youths when the saloons are all closed. "One-half the patrons of saloons go there seeking association," he reminded. "The saloon supplies what the church does not, fellowship, light, equality and closer associations. Prohibition will fail unless the church supplies this need."

Recommends Manse
As a starter to provide for this need, the Rev. Dr. Morris E. Swartz, district superintendent of the Central Pennsylvania Conference, urged the establishment here of a spacious manse. He also recommended the erection of a home for homeless and destitute children of this Conference, which should be located not more than a 5-cent trolley fare from Harrisburg.

The Stevens Memorial male chorus gave a number of selections during and after the banquet.

Warren R. VanDyke, president of the Harrisburg Methodist Union, was toastmaster. The Rev. Dr. H. R. Bender, pastor of the Ridge Avenue M. E. Church, offered the invocation, and the Rev. William Moses, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church, pronounced the benediction.

Among those present were: Dr. James H. Morgan, president of Dickinson College; the Rev. Dr. George P. Mains, head of the Methodist Book Concern of New York, and the Rev. Dr. George Edward Reed, ex-president of Dickinson College.

The reception and other committees were as follows: Grace—Mrs. C. W. Burnett, Mrs. F. C. Sites, Charles W. Bolt, John F. Melick, J. W. Ellenberger, E. Fred Rowe, W. S. Young, Mrs. F. E. Downes, Mrs. C. H. Kinter and Mrs. W. E. Snyder.

PITTSBURGH TO BE THE CENTER

Anti-Liquor Fight Will Be Directed From That City During This Year

National headquarters of the Dry Federation of America, formed in Pittsburgh several weeks ago when representatives of thirty different "dry" organizations met in conference and laid the plans for a mighty army to fight the saloon, will be in the offices occupied by the Presbyterian Board of Temperance, at Pittsburgh, according to an announcement made in Pittsburgh.

The Rev. Charles Scanlon, of Pittsburgh, who has been appointed general secretary of the Dry Federation of America, is on hand, after attending the Chicago conference, which accepted the leadership of W. J. Bryan in the nation-wide movement of federated temperance forces to ratify the prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution, forbidding the manufacture and sale of alcohol except for scientific uses.

Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., chairman of the organization committee of the Dry Federation, announced that Pennsylvania, especially Allegheny and Philadelphia counties, would experience "the biggest rapid-fire drive ever experienced in the state against the saloon hum," and that details of the plans for Allegheny county and the Pittsburgh fight will be given out later.

Mr. Howard said that Mr. Bryan will give his services in March and April and nearly all of next winter. The organizers said that nine states will vote this fall, and that the "shock forces" of the "dry" movement will be massed for the drives on those states. He said that the money collected in these states would be used in the fights where the money is collected.

LACKEY'S SCHOOL BENEFIT
Marysville, March 8.—Lackey's school, Miss Martha E. Boyer teacher, will give an entertainment for the benefit of the school library fund on Friday evening in the Shermansdale hall. The Oak Grove minstrels are on the program and promise to furnish some entertainment. Miss Boyer is directing the production.

NEW BOOM STARTS FOR TREXLER

Allentown Businessman Advocated by His Friends Along the Lehigh

Over in Allentown, where a Republican organization has been growing in strength pretty rapidly in recent years, there are signs that the friends of Col. Harry C. Trexler, the big businessman of that city, are awaiting a time when they can launch a boom for him as a genuine harmony candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

A dispatch from Allentown says, in part: "Word has come from many parts of the state to the Lehigh organization that what may develop into a factional battle might be averted should Colonel Trexler enter the field. He is not seeking the office, but leaders in many counties regard him as particularly available. Outside of those who are regarded as the leading aspirants, there are many favorite sons who are waiting for the lightning to strike. A canvass of the field reveals that none has a stronger following or a better record than Colonel Trexler. With a broad and comprehensive grasp of affairs, he fills the bill from every standpoint. His business ability ranks him among the dozen ablest men in the state. He is the state's leading farmer. Twenty thousand men employed in industries in which he is interested testify to his fairness as an employer of labor, and he has thousands of followers among the sportsmen, from trout fishermen and rabbit gunners to the big game hunters. From all accounts the governorship question is not yet definitely settled, and there are many who think Colonel Trexler may yet be called, especially since he enjoys the friendship of the Vares as well as that of the Penrose people.

"Simply on the score of his personal popularity at home it is acridly known that Colonel Trexler would receive a tremendous vote in the Berks-Lehigh Congressional district, the strongest Democratic region of the state, and it is asserted by his friends that his wide acquaintance in every county would make him a formidable candidate, especially in view of his proved organization and campaigning ability."

BLUE JUNIATA TO SEE FIGHTS

Numerous Legislative Aspirants, but All on the "Dry" Side of It Now

The valley of the Blue Juniata, which is a hotbed of "dry" sentiment, bids fair to be a pretty strenuous battleground this year because of the contending ambitions of men connected with the two big parties. Everyone who is mentioned as a possible candidate favors the ratification of the prohibition amendment, otherwise he could not run.

In Perry county, Clark M. Bowler, of Blair, is making fences rapidly with W. C. Lebo, of New Bloomfield, also preparing to get into the fight for the Republican nomination. Representative John S. Eby, of Newport, will not be a candidate for renomination. The Democrats will likely name J. D. Snyder, a former member.
In Juniata, Representative Isaiah D. Musser, of Mifflintown, will be a candidate for Democratic renomination, with chances that he will have some opposition. J. B. Parsons, editor of the Port Royal Times, is looming up as the Republican candidate.

Representative C. G. Corbin, of Mifflin county, is a candidate for re-election, with prospects of opposition.
Over in Huntingdon, Representative Dell is to be opposed by Welch and Hower.
The four counties will have a big hand in the Focht-Williamson Congressional contest and Republicans are much inclined to resent any interference from Franklin county, especially from men who were trying to wreck the Republican party a few years ago.

Just Try This When Hairy Growths Appear
(Modes of To-day)
A smooth, hairless skin always follows the use of a paste made by mixing some water with plain powdered delatone. This paste is applied to the hairy surface 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain or discomfort attends the use of the delatone paste, but caution should be exercised to be sure that you get real delatone.—Adv.
