MUSICAL TREAT

Appearing With Reinald Werrenrath, a Success

Those who had the pleasure and privilege of attending the testimonial oncert last evening at the Orpheum theater were well repaid by a musical treat not often duplicated in sical treat not often duplicated in Harrisburg.

The well-filled house presented a pleasing picture, and the pretty gowns of the women, the evening clothes of men, helped to make us realize that this was a gala occasion, as indeed it was, for this community was in attendance to do honor to a daughter of Harrisburg, Miss Sara Lemer, violinste. The assisting artist was Reinald Werrenrath, baritone, whose accompanist was Harry Spier, whife Newell Albright acted in the same capacity for Miss Lemer.

From the opening number to the end, the program was a delight. There was not a moment throughout the entire presentation which was at the presentation which was and tender with tracest.

the entire presentation which was not replete with interest. There were no weak spots and it was a joy to realize that one of these artists is our own.

Mr. Werrenrath opened the program with a beautiful group of songs, his beautiful rendition of "Caro Mio Ben," written in the seventeenth century, was possibly one of the most delightful hits of the of the most delightful hits of the evening. Especially attractive were the "Chinese Mother Goose Rhymes," by Bainbridge Crist. They were full of life, and demonstrated that the Chinese are full of humor, and love to sing about things of their everyday life. This group was unique and proyed to be one of the chief features of the program. Of course Mr. Werrenrath sings everything so well that it is rather unwise and foolish to say that he does one style better than another. He sang almost every type of song and is indeed a most versatile artist and does everything well. He has a refinement in his work, not often finement in his work, not often heard; his art of tone coloring, his beautiful diction and extraordinary interpretation are a joy, and this, combined with a beautiful voice, make him the splendid concert

Too much cannot be said of Miss Lemer. She is an artiste worthy to appear on the program with any of the great artists. Her tone is beau tiful, sure, delicate, yet firm if need and wonderful temperament. Certainly nothing could have been more beautiful than the delicate work done in the Lullaby of Riger, then
