Peking, Monday, March 11.—Taking advantage of disorder in the province of Szechuan, the Tibetans have rebelled and are marching into Szechuan and have captured several towns. The force is estimated at 10,000 and is armed with modern rifles. Tibet is controlled virtually by the natives who are a branch of the Mongol race, the Chinese government looking after foreign relations and maintaining small garrisons of Chinese troops. There is a regent appointed by the Chinese government selected from the Lamas or religious leaders.

In 1913 Tibet demanded complete autonomy and in October of that year the Tibetans were successful in fighting against the Chinese. A conference at Simla, India, in July, 1914, failed to agree on a convention between China, Great Britain and Tibet, assuring the autonomy of Tibet. In January, 1917, Great Britain presented ten demands on China affecting Tibet, but these have not yet been agreed to by China.

The province of Szechuan has been overrun recently by bandits, against whom the Chinese troops have been able to make little headway:

BOOMS GARDENS

Says That School Children Should Learn How to Plant Them For Food

Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. to-day issued a statement strongly commended of the movement to have children connectwith the public schools engage in gardening during tention to the importance of having tention to the importance of having boys work on the farm.

Dr. Schaeffer's statement, which Production of Plants was issued after a conference with Dr. P. P. Claxton, Federal Commissioner of Education, is as follows: "This spring there will be made a drive to introduce gardening at the homes of the children through the public schools. In a few places, school gardens are connected with the public schools. This is a most commendable move in the direction of increased food production and has educational value, because it teaches pupils to do things and makes them acquainted with nature and her operations.

"A move is also on foot to find out what farmers can use boys from city high schools and to supply the farm help available from that source. The most effective farm help, is that of the boy who lives on the farm and goes to school. This boy can help for a day or two in case of emergency, and then return to school without losing his opportunities for an education. Boys in the smaller towns often go to help relatives and friends in the country. These can also return to school when they are notneded and thus keep up with their classes. A more difficult problem confronts the teachers, when the Boy is a considerable distance from home, where he can not be under the control of the principal or his parents. This is a problem which L. H. Dennis, of the Department of Public Instruction, hopes to work out. Several thousand boys are available for such work."

To Have Conference—Plans for a joint conference of the two State Commissions on health insurance and old age pension laws are being made and they will probably meet to discuss their problems. Chairman James H. Maurer, of the old age pension commission, is gathering data here and has assembled laws of foreign countries on the subject.

To Start Early—State Commissioner of Fisheries Buller says that the spring work of the Fishery Department will start weeks ahead of the usual time this year, if the weather conditions continue. Large numbers of adult trout will be distributed, southern counties receiving the first lots as soon as streams are reported in proper state.

Compensation Board—The State Compensation Board—The State Compensation. The decision reviews numerous cases in which heat is held to cause violent changes in the physical structure of the body and sunstroke is declared to be in that class. In deciding the case of Hennessey vs. United Stove Repair Co., Philadelphia, returned by the Superior Court for further hearing, the Board makes an allowance for death of the husband of the claimant from an infection caused by a nail entering his foot. Compensation was given him during life time and now an allowance is made for the widow for a limited period. The Board ma may have data on which to base an allowance during the period of recovery. In Dodds vs. Tacony Lumber Co., Philadelphia, compensation is given for an injury which has recently developed into total loss of a hand, the first order being for partial disability. In a review of the case of Leary vs. J. Gibson McIlvain Co., Philadelphia, an allowance is made for a posthumous child.
