Anyone Can Learn to Make a Sweater In a Short Time

It is the common belief that sweaters are especially hard to make. As a matter of fact, they are not. A little girl 7 years of age has just completed a sweater that is just as well made as one made by an older and more experienced person.

George R. Nauss, who conducts the Art Needlework Shop, at Front and Pine streets, in Steelton, personally teaches this art of knitting and crocheting. Years of experience enables Mr. Nauss to teach a person in a very short time to accomplish what many think is almost impossible.

Mr. Nauss handles all the various shades of Lion, Bear and Corticelli brands of yarn. To those who buy yarn from this store Mr. Nauss will teach free of charge and will gladly give any help or directions that will make your work a success.

Oleomargarine Now Sold Extensively

Because of the high cost of butter, oleomargarine is fast coming into prominence. It is better than ever before. Very few people can really tell the difference between butterine and butter, especially if they buy it from L. G. Martin, 1625 North Fourth street, who sells only the best.

Mr. Martin conducts a first class grocery store, besides his business in the face of and with the government asking us to co-operate in the plan to conserve the meat supply, fish and sea food play an important part in the menu for our daily meals.

Meyer Marcus, the popular uptown grocer, who conducts a general grocery and meat shop at 2939 North Fourth street, says business was never better for the sale of staple and fancy groceries.

More people today are buying the necessary food products than ever before. People are beginning to realize that they must save in some way, so are cutting out amusements and so on and instead of skimping with their groceries are buying more instead.

Heinz Tells Why Nation Must Observe Wheatless and Meatless Days

Persons who observe strictly the wheatless meal and wheatless day may wonder why the Food Administrator continues to almost daily send out bulletins on the urgency of further conservation, but there is a reason for this. People in today's message put the situation in a nutshell. He says our average annual consumption of wheat is 572,000,000 bushels. Only 1917 wheat was 600,000,000 bushels. After shipping 200,000,000 to Europe we will have 400,000,000 bushels left, or eighty per cent. of our normal amount.

Good Things TO EAT

Bread Baking on Large Scale at Ruhl's

Bread baking is an art that is only acquired, like most any other art, only through years of experience and keeping abreast with the steady march of modern science.

In the past decade bread baking methods have so changed that a person familiar with them then would find himself very much at a loss now if you should step into a modern bakery.

Ruhl's Bakery, at Penbrook, is just such a modern bakery. All the modern equipment known to the baking trade is installed in this model bakery. Every loaf of bread that is delivered to you from this bakery is protected from dirt and dust from the time it is only four until it comes to your door, the finished product.

Excellent Grocery Store Sells Quality Goods

One of the most modern, sanitary, up-to-the-minute grocery stores in the city, the Excellent Grocery, is located at Sixth and Sons streets.

Sea Foods Economical For Everyday Use

In these days when high prices for food products are everywhere in the face of and with the government asking us to co-operate in the plan to conserve the meat supply, fish and sea food play an important part in the menu for our daily meals.

Economies in Restaurant Leveling Prices

Spurrier's restaurant in North Sixth street is a mecca for the railroad man. Good home-cooked food is served here and the pastry is baked right on the spot. Just a few doors below Rely street, in Sixth, this restaurant is only a little over two blocks from the railroad houses in Seventh street. Short orders of all kinds are served very appetizingly.

As a special feature, a chicken and waffle dinner, just the kind mother used to make, is served every Sunday. The price of this full course dinner is only fifty cents. This makes a Sunday dinner a great deal cheaper than if you buy the chicken and cook it at home.

McAlicher Store Has Full Line of Groceries

The question of food products today is no better than it has been; indeed it is getting worse. The great problem is to get the goods at most any price. The demand is much larger than the supply.

Flour and Feed Business On the Increase

A big specialty seller is the chicken meat mash sold by O. S. Ebersole, the Penbrook flour, feed and grain dealer. All the things of good preparation, put up by Mr. Ebersole, and especially during this time of year, when cold weather has its effects in causing a dropping off in laying, is a very good feed for the chickens. It not only helps in the production of more eggs, but makes them richer, better chickens.

City Markets Good Place to Buy Meats

When you go to market to buy produce of any kind you always like to know if it is of good quality or not. In green goods and fruit you can readily tell by inspection.

War Time Lexicon (Copyright, 1918; by British-Canadian Recruiting Mission which maintains depots in all large cities where men except Americans, may volunteer.)

Abbreviation for officer commanding battalion under the direct command of the Brigadier of the Division.

Sergeant Major, the senior non-commissioned officer of a battalion, who is the official spokesman between the Adjutant and the Non-Commissioned Officers, at the Adjutant is between the Sergeant Major and the Officer Commanding.

In the familiar parlance of the trench, "Na—Poo" means "done for"; that is killed. It is presumably a corruption of the French phrase "ne plus"—no more—and is used not only with reference to the death of a comrade, but with the general meaning "it is finished."

In another expression for death; likewise, the slang "kicked in." These terms together with the phrase "pushing up the daisies" are the soldier's common reference terms for the fate that overtakes comrades and may momentarily overtake themselves.

The holder for ammunition, a cartridge belt. Not infrequently regarded as simply something to lose.

Cash and Carry Plan Working Well at Etter's Store

The present system of the much talked of "Cash and Carry Plan" is working out to the entire satisfaction of the customers of S. S. Etter, the Hill grocer. Since opening this store a few months ago the trade has increased in jumps and bounds.

Supply and Demand Regulator of Prices

The two dominating features of to-day's merchandise situation are high prices and low stocks. The law of supply and demand appear to be working inflexibly to produce constantly higher prices in practically every commodity produced and marketed.
