William F. Mote, son of Mrs. Anna Mote, 341 Hummel street, who has been stationed with the Three Hundred and Twenty-third Aero Squadron, Kelly Field No. 1, South Antonio, Texas, for the past three months, is one of the fourteen men selected for the special detachment sent by the Government to the Har-

IN THE SQUARE, ON THE SQUARE

A gentleman who came in to have his broken glasses repaired jokingly remarked: "I see you have moved. You are now in the square. I thought you were always on the square." Which, however, was a rather pleasing pun on my recent removal to my present location.

To use a figurative expression, I have always tried to be "on the square." I believe in the policy of giving every one a square deal. I never recommend glasses when they are not needed. I never overcharge—neither do I profess to sell glasses at "bargain prices." I give the public the benefit of my twenty-five years' experience and my knowledge as a graduate optician, supplemented by a post-graduate course in Optometry.

I will not fit any one with "cheap" or inferior glasses, nor will I resort to any tricks or "baits" to secure your patronage. When you come here you get honest, conscientious service at a fair price. Your eyes and your health will be the gainers—never the losers.

MISS McILHENNY HOSTESS AT TEA

Miss Edith Flowers, Whose Engagement Is Announced, Is Honor Guest

Miss Mae McIlhenny, of 1846 Market street, was hostess at a delightful little knitting tea Saturday afternoon for Miss Edith Flowers, whose engagement to Albert Zellinger, of Altoona, was announced recently.

Miss Flowers is a daughter of Elmer Flowers of 1822 State street. She is a graduate of Irving College and popular among the younger set. Mr. Zellinger, who has a wide circle of acquaintances in this city, is a graduate of Gettysburg College.

No date has been set for the wedding. Those invited to meet the bride-elect enjoyed a pleasant afternoon with cards and knitting. A clever moving picture of "Nothing But the Truth," passed by the censorship of the X Y Z Club, of which Miss Flowers is a member, preceded the cards and knitting. The picture of "Nothing But the Truth" was no more than actual facts and data in the life of the guest of honor.

The general air of spring was suggested in the clever appointments of the tea table with an arrangement of daffodils and pussy-willows, while a dash of "Erin Go Bragh" was obvious in the tiny shamrock favors. The guests included Miss Christine Fleisher, Miss Martha Wall, Miss Adeline Emerick, Miss Olga Meloy, Miss Marian Walters, Miss Ruth Matz, Miss Pirzah Grove and Miss Emma Gladhill.

TRIO DE LUTECE IS COMING HERE

Three Noted Frenchmen Will Be Artists For Wednesday Club Concert April 1

On the evening of Monday, April 1 a delightful and unique musical organization is coming to this city under the auspices of the Wednesday Club, to give a concert in Fahnstock Hall, which all classes of members are privileged to attend. It is called the Trio de Lutece, and numbers George Barriere, the world's greatest flutist; Carlos Salzedo, equally acclaimed as a harpist, and Paul Kefer, one of the finest cellists in the concert field.

While they are foreigners, all three have achieved a sure place in American musical life, but their association of musical and otherwise dates from their student days at the Conservatoire de Paris, where each was graduated a first medalist. For a time they were threatened seriously to disrupt the Trio de Lutece. Following its first highly successful season in New York it had been given a number of recitals, public and private in London, Paris and other cities, but just before the outbreak of the war broke out the Trio de Lutece had gone to his villa in Brittany, the latter to Switzerland to finish his interrupted honeymoon.

Then came the mobilization, Barriere and Salzedo immediately reported and musical matters were for a time forgotten in the great issue. After some weeks Barriere was discharged from service owing to his defective sight. Salzedo however marched away with the other Trio de Lutece to the battle front. It takes a "hardy annual" to survive a winter in the trenches, and Salzedo is not that. He came down with pneumonia and was removed to a hospital and upon his recovery was excused from further service. "And that is what Salzedo modestly—but those who have heard him play, say "no" something bigger, broader, more human has come into his playing.

Cash in Khaki Socks Gives Over $130 Clear

When Mrs. J. Thornton Baisley's unit of the P. R. R. Women's War Relief, Department No. 6, counted the money brought in Saturday in tiny khaki socks at their entertainment at the Civic Club, there was found to be over $130 clear for their work.

The event was most successful, opening with an address of welcome by Mrs. N. S. Longaker, chief of the unit. Mrs. Baisley read a poem, "Purl Two, Knit Two," and Miss Mary Bell Corbett sang delightfully, accompanied by Miss Agnes Hess, of Steelton. Mrs. Longaker and Mrs. Edwin H. Grottschall sang a duet. Coffee and home-made cakes were served during a season of knitting and chatting, with Mrs. William B. McCaleb pouring, assisted by members of the committee. The table was arranged in green and white with suggestions of St. Patrick's Day.

Among the articles on display was a convalescent blanket made from old uniforms of conductors and brakemen by one of the members. The patches were crocheted together with a broadcloth Red Cross in the center, containing the P. R. R. emblem. It will be sent to a local man now a sergeant in one of the training camps.

Miss Mary Bell Corbett, of Bellevue, is home after spending several days in Philadelphia. Miss Eleanor Neal Clark, of Rely street, is visiting Mrs. John Magdon, in Washington, D. C.

John B. Patrick left this morning on a business trip to Bethlehem and Easton. Mrs. Anna H. Bigler, South Front street, is able to be out after a recent illness.

Miss Weller Is Author of Carnival of Seasons

MISS BESS WELLER

One of the most attractive numbers on the program of the Y. W. C. A. gym entertainment to be given at Chestnut street hall Thursday evening is "The Carnival of Seasons" by Miss Bess Weller. Miss Weller, who is assistant business manager to Miss Mary McKee. Delightful interpretations of all the seasons of the year with the accompanying snowflakes, spring blossoms, summer flowers and autumn leaves are portrayed in this carnival.

When the carnival starts, snow queen, Miss Charlotte Keister, is reigning on the throne of Time, and after spring, Miss Jean K. Matter; summer, Miss Marion Johnson, and autumn, Miss Olga Meloy, successfully wield their scepters. Jack Frost wanders across the scene and destroys the joyous carnival.
